HITLER OUTLINES PRICE FOR PEACE

Permanent Hegemony Over Bohemia-Moravia, Slovakia, Poland, Hungary, Nazi Aim

BERLIN, March 2—Adolf Hitler was authoritatively reported today to have informed Sumner Welles that Germany's price for peace includes permanent German hegemony over Bohemia-Moravia, Slovakia, Poland and Hungary.

This, with Germany and the former Austria, would give Hitler control of a total population of about 130,000,000. It was reported he also asked guarantees that Great Britain and France would not "stir up the Balkans or Scandinavia."

These points, it was said, made up only one, but an important, phase of the "information" given to the United States undersecretary of state who conferred with Hitler for an hour and a half. Another was his insistence on freedom of the seas, it was said.

Informed persons said Hitler asked Welles what the United States would do if, say, some Asiatic or European power tried to stir up trouble in Mexico.

It was not disclosed whether Welles replied.

Hitler's thesis was said to be that the seas can never be considered free as long as Britain has military control of all the important trade lanes of Europe and Asia, and can at any time choke off "aspiring young nations" such as Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany.

FUEHRER'S ARGUMENT

In this connection, Hitler was said to have asked Welles how the United States would like some non-American power to have control of the Panama canal.

Hitler's argument was said to have run to this effect:

Just as the United States, largest and most powerful nation of the western hemisphere, has assumed obligations for all of America so far as interference from European or Asiatic powers is concerned, so Germany considers it her moral obligation to see that central European living space be guaranteed from the interference of Britain and France.

Hitler was reported to have claimed that Germany is unbeatable economically because of her arrangements with the Soviet Union.

WANTS COLONIES

He was described as stating that Germany wants colonies as a matter of justice.

On the question of disarmament, the Fuehrer's view was described reliably as being that, first, such British fortresses as Gibraltar, Malta and Singapore must be dismantled.

If Welles asked Hitler why Germany was embarked on autarchy and whether the Reich was ready to go along with the United States on trade policies, the answer was said to have been given almost a month ago by an article by Karl Megerle of the Boersen Zeitung, chief editorial mouthpiece of the foreign office.

He defended autarchy as "the most social system of international economy in the 20th century."

SHIP REPORTED ATTACKED BY SUB, LOCATED

British Freighter Southgate Found In No Danger

By H. C. LYON
United Press
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The navy announced today that the British freighter Southgate, which had flashed a submarine attack message last night, had been located by navy planes and was in "no apparent danger."

The ship had been sought since late yesterday when it sent a signal indicating that it was being attacked by a submarine about 150 miles northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The signal sent a cutter, three navy destroyers and planes of the navy's neutrality patrol on a swift hunt for the ship.

The advice that the Southgate had been located was received by the chief of naval operations. It gave no details as to where the Southgate was encountered by the planes which had been searching for it since dawn.

British United Press

BERLIN, March 2.—Reports that the British steamer Southgate had been attacked by a German submarine near Puerto Rico were ridiculed by a foreign office spokesman today.

The spokesman said: "According to the investigations of competent German quarters German submarines are not operating in the territory in question. Therefore there can be no question of a German submarine attack on a British steamer in the area in question."

BELGIAN PLANE SHOT DOWN BY NAZI BOMBER

BRUSSELS, March 2—One Belgian pursuit plane was shot down by a German bomber and four other planes were reported to have crashed in a series of air encounters and accidents today in which three Belgian fliers were killed.

The official Belgian version of the battle in which the pursuit craft was downed said three Belgian planes encountered a large German bomber over Saint Hubert in Belgium's Luxembourg province. The Belgians surrounded the heavily armed German craft, which suddenly opened fire.

Work Of Alberta Unity Council Is Now Decentralized

CALGARY, March 2.—The Unity Council of Alberta, having accomplished its purpose in joining together Conservative and Liberal leaders in an independent, local autonomy, constituency movement, have decided to decentralize the work of the Unity Council.

Small local unity committees are now working in each provincial constituency, giving the necessary aid to the independent candidate.

No set program for all districts will be followed except the on- objective of bringing all anti-government voters to vote Independent.

Air Activity Is Observed Over Island Of Sylt

British United Press

ESBJERG, Denmark, March 2—Air activity was observed early today in the vicinity of the German air base on the island of Sylt. It was impossible because of darkness to determine the nationality or number of planes involved, and it was uncertain whether German planes were manoeuvring or British planes were attacking. Shooting was heard but this could have been German target practise.

R.A.F. MAKES FLIGHTS OVER BERLIN AGAIN

Two German Planes Driven Out To Sea From Scottish Coast

LONDON, March 2.—Two black German airplanes were driven out to sea from the Scottish coast today by Royal Air Force fighters.

At the same time residents of Berwick reported hearing gunfire occurring northward toward the Firth of Forth. The firing continued for more than an hour.

The crew of a steamship that reached port said their ship was attacked by a German bomber in the early morning hours.

Two heavy explosions were felt on board their vessel, they said, and machine-gun fire followed. Warships replied before defending planes arrived and drove off the Nazi raiders.

Residents as far as 12 miles inland were awakened by the rumble of blasts rolling in from the sea.

FLIGHTS OVER BERLIN

The air ministry announced R.A.F. planes had flown over Berlin and northwest Germany again last night—the seventh successive night of British aerial reconnaissance in Germany.

The flight was the sixth over Berlin during the war, continuing a series described in London as "nuisance" raids carried out to accustom pilots to flying over the enemy's territory.

A description was given today by an R.A.F. pilot who took part in a leaflet-dropping flight over Prague, capital of the former Czecho-Slovakia.

"The whole town was a blaze of light," he said. He contrasted the brilliant illumination of places in Bohemia with the strict blackout in effect in Germany.

"Our particular objectives that night were Prague and Pilsen," the pilot said. "The weather was excellent, a good moon providing visibility over a region of 30 miles. That is not always the case.

"There was no mistaking Prague. The whole town was a blaze of light. Houses, street lamps and factories were all lit up. Even the ornamental light on a bridge was aglow. We again flew low over the city while two of the crew began scattering many thousand leaflets we were carrying.

"Without interruption we completed our job and when the last leaflets had vanished astern we swung around and began the long and monotonous flight back to our base."

NAZIS SUFFER LOSS OF TWO MORE VESSELS

ARUBA, Dutch West Indies, March 2—The attempt of three German merchantmen to dash from this island through the British blockade has ended in failure with one captured, one sunk and one driven back to port.

The captured vessel, the 8,350-ton passenger and cargo boat Heidelberg, was being towed today to Trinidad by the British navy.

Prisoners aboard a British warship were the crew of the 2,300-ton freighter Trola, which went down three hours after she was set afire and her seacocks opened when intercepted.

Back in port was the 4,400-ton Anilla, the third of the three German vessels which steamed away from Aruba and were sent out of neutral waters by a Netherlands submarine at 10.30 p.m. Thursday night.

Only an hour later the beams of searchlights could be seen over the water, a gunshot was heard and a red glow could be seen—afterward established to be from the flames on the Trola.

Subsequently the patrolling Netherlands submarine was advised the crew of the Trola had been taken aboard a British warship and that their vessel had gone down.

INSURANCE FOR TROOPS URGED BY C.C.F. CHIEF

Woodsworth Asks Guarantee Be As Legally Binding As Bond Issues

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

BEAUSEJOUR, Man., March 2.—Insurance policy for Canadian soldiers as legally binding as security the government gives its bondholders was urged here last night by J. S. Woodsworth, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation leader, opening his sixth general election campaign in this thriving farm community, 38 miles northeast of Winnipeg.

Many of those who served in the last war are now on relief, Mr. Woodsworth said. That must not happen after the present war. The C.C.F. believed the government should give soldiers guarantees as legally binding as government bonds. They should insure the soldier sufficiently to cover his rehabilitation after the war, and to care for his dependents if he does not return.

Mr. Woodsworth forecast conscription would come to Canada in spite of the pledges against it by both Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Conservative leader Manion. The C.C.F. believed that equality of service could only come if wealth was conscripted.

Mr. Woodsworth said his party is opposed to war. The general attitude, especially that of the government, was that Canada must win the war—that nothing else matters.

C.C.F. Candidate In Prince Albert Not To Withdraw

British United Press

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., March 2.—A. Mansfield, C.C.F. organizing official, today flatly denied there was a possibility that the party's candidate, Joe Sirelle — would withdraw from the federal contest in this constituency to accommodate the National Unity nominee.

The suggestion that Sirelle might withdraw from the running was posted at the National Unity convention in Prince Albert when Fred Agnew of Shellbrook said he believed the C.C.F. might join forces with National Unity to defeat Prime Minister King in his own riding.

Lepke Is Convicted Of Extorting; Faces Sentence Of Life

NEW YORK, March 2 — The courts have finished with big shot racketeer Louis (Lepke) Buchalter.

Early today, a general sessions jury found the 43-year-old convict guilty of 15 counts of extorting $50,000 in a trucking racket. He's a fourth offender, and thus faces a life sentence, but nobody got excited, certainly not Buchalter. He didn't bat an eyelash.

C.C.F. LEADER STEERS CLEAR MANION PARTY

BEAUSEJOUR, Man., March 2.—J. S. Woodsworth, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation leader, declared last night he would not have anything to do with Conservative Leader Manion's proposed National Government "even if I was asked."

"I will not have anything to do with the National Government proposed by Dr. Manion," Mr. Woodsworth said in an interview prior to an election campaign address in this town, 38 miles northeast of Winnipeg. He said he spoke also for his party which was opposed to the National administration plan.

"Such a government would be like a ship with three or four pilots at the helm, each of them waiting to go in a different direction."

WHAT IS LIKELY RESULT OF POLL ON MARCH 21?

CALGARY, March 2—What will happen on March 21st?

The Alberta legislature now is composed of 57 members in 49 constituencies, five each for Calgary and Edmonton and one each in 47 single member constituencies.

Calgary and Edmonton voting under the proportional system divide the seats according to party strength.

Calgary returned 4 Social Crediters in 1935 with a vote of 24,079. Liberals 1 with a vote of 8,003, and Conservatives 1 with a vote of 5,956. The Citizen's slate committee hope to capture 3 of the 5, while Social Crediters are hoping to get the same number.

Neither party can get four of the five in spite of Premier Aberhart's appeal that he wants four of the five.

The total vote by parties in the 1935 election follows:

Social Credit	163,700
Liberal	69,845
U. F. A.	33,063
Conservative	19,358
Communist	3,771
Labor	5,085
Independent	4,177
Others	752

The result of that vote gave Social Credit 56 members, Liberals five, and Conservatives two members.

216 ENTERED IN ELECTIONS ON 2 FRONTS

157 Provincial, 59 Federal Candidates Now In Running

Candidates seeking election in Alberta in the provincial general election for March 21 and the Dominion election for March 26 totalled 216 Saturday, of whom 157 are seeking the 57 provincial seats available, with 59 in the field for the 17 Alberta seats available in parliament at Ottawa.

Social Credit forces have nearly completed a full list of candidates to contest all 49 ridings and the advisory board will visit Ryerfort next Tuesday to complete final selection.

At that time four more provincial candidates will be selected for the Spirit River, Grande Prairie, Peace River and Grouard constituencies, while a candidate for the Peace River Dominion constituency will also be selected.

Standing of the parties in the provincial field as at Saturday was:

Social Credit	53
Independents	56
C. C. F.	31
Liberals	3
Farmer-Labor	1
Independent-Progressive	1
Labor	3
United Progressive	1
Independent-Labor	1
United Workers of Alberta	1
Communist	2

FEDERAL CANDIDATES

By parties the Dominion candidates nominated are:

Liberals	17
New Democracy (Social Credit)	16
C. C. F.	15
Conservatives	11

Social Credit candidates named at the Calgary sitting of the advisory board will complete also their old ridings or their old ridings merged with another, with the exception of E. O. Duke, who sat for Rocky Mountain and who has been named to contest the Pincher Creek-Crow's Nest constituency.

Wilkins Plans Trip To Arctic By Submarine

WINNIPEG, March 2.—Planning to establish Edmonton as headquarters for construction of a small submarine to travel in the Arctic to investigate marine biology, Sir Hubert Wilkins, noted explorer, will arrive in Edmonton by Canadian National Monday, March 4.

His far north depot will probably be Aklavik.

Sir Hubert, an Australian, plans to reach the North Pole in a pocket submarine, either up through the Mackenzie river or north along the Pacific coastline.

Two Nazi Planes Shot Down Over Western Front

LONDON, March 2. — The air ministry announced tonight that British Air Force aviators shot down two enemy aircraft today, a Dornier bomber which fell in France and a Messerschmitt which fell behind the German lines.

Finn Troops Now In Last Ditch To Save Viipuri City

HELSINKI, March 2.—Defeat of Russian forces northeast of Lake Ladoga, with 2,000 of the invaders frozen to death, was officially announced here tonight. Finnish troops in the sector captured 100 enemy tanks, nearly all of them intact, according to a communique.

HELSINKI, March 2.—Helsinki had its longest air raid alarm of the war today. Warnings sounded at 11:55 a.m., and the all clear signal was not given until 3:05 p.m. Bombing was heard north of the capital but no bombs fell in the city. Thirty-nine Red army planes—four squadrons of nine bombers each, escorted by three pursuit planes—were sighted by observers. It was the largest flight seen at any one time by correspondents here since the start of the war.

HELSINKI, March 2.—Finnish troops steeled themselves for a last-ditch defence of Viipuri today. The Russians, only a few miles away, rained shells on the ruined city to cover attacks by assault columns from the south and southeast.

Reports said that a big enveloping movement in the Aeyrapaen Leka-Salmenkaita area, west sector in the centre of the isthmus was timed with the Viipuri attack.

Soviet troops attacking Viipuri direct had crossed the last ridge south of Viipuri and looked on the city from the neighborhood of Nuorai, 4½ miles south.

Rumors abroad that the Russians had entered the suburbs of Viipuri were discounted by officials in Helsinki. They said that the Finns were still fighting and that their reports indicated the Russians had several days of fighting ahead of them.

Russians Claim To Have Reached Viipuri

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

MOSCOW, March 2.—A Russian army communique said today that Russian troops have entered the southern outskirts of the Finnish city of Viipuri. Soviet claims said that other troops have reached Tali, six miles to the east, and effected a landing on the western shore of the Bay of Viipuri.

It was charged that the Finns are setting fire to the city, ostensibly despairing of a successful defense.

Today's communique said that between February 11 and March 1 the Russians had brought down 191 Finnish airplanes and captured an enormous quantity of war materials in addition to 922 defensive fortifications.

Finland To Place $20,000,000 Order Soon

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Finland speed arrangements made to buy gasoline, oil, grain and other vital supplies with the $20,000,000 credit which was allocated to her by the United States export-import bank yesterday even before President Roosevelt had signed legislation which made possible the loan.

Hjalmar J. Procope, the Finnish minister, said at a press conference that the supplies would be of great assistance to his country in withstanding the Russian invasion, and that orders would be placed immediately.

Receiving the newsmen after a long distance telephone talk with Prime Minister Ryti in Helsinki, the minister assured them that Finland is far from defeated.

"When the war started most people thought we would be beaten within two or three days," he said. "We've been fighting three months now and we'll fight on, confident that help will come."

Italian Steamers Continue To Load Nazi Coal Cargo

British United Press

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands, March 2—Seventeen Italian tramp steamers continued to load German coal at Rotterdam all last night in spite of the British blockade against such shipments. There was no indication when the ships would sail. Shippers said Rotterdam would be the hard hit if the shipments were stopped, since from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 tons of German coal move through the port each year.

WORCESTER, Mass., March 2—Four women and a man died early today in a three-alarm blaze which destroyed a five-storey apartment building. State Fire Inspector James Traynor said there was "every indication the fire was set."

CARDINAL NOT IN FAVOR OF WOMEN'S VOTE

Four Reasons Are Cited Against Suffrage In Quebec Province

QUEBEC, March 2—Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve listed today in an official communique four reasons why he is "Not in favor" of woman suffrage, which the Quebec government proposes to grant for provincial elections. Quebec women have the federal franchise.

Following are the reasons:

"1—Because it goes against unity and hierarchy of families.

"2—Because its exercise exposes the woman in all the passions and adventures of electoralism.

"3—Because, in fact, it appears to us that the very great, majority of the women of the province do not desire it.

"4—Because social reforms, economic reforms, hygienic reforms, etc., which are advanced in order to mend the right of woman suffrage can be obtained just as well through the influence of feminine organizations on the edge of politics."

The communique, appearing over the name of the Cardinal, Archbishop of Quebec, said he believed he was expressing in the document "the common feeling of the bishops of the province."

"To reply to numerous requests and to end diverse opinions attributed to the bishops with the project of a law according to women the right to vote in provincial elections, we feel bound to state our attitude," the communique said. "We are not in favor of political woman suffrage."

At the Quebec session opening Feb. 29, the Speech from the Throne announced the government planned to grant women the suffrage because under modern conditions they "play an effective role" and their cooperation has become indispensable in bringing about much needed Social reforms.

The legislative assembly, provincial lower house, already has rejected such a measure more than a dozen times.

Harney Will Guard Net For Flyers In Game At Calgary

Laurel Harney, goalie for Olds Kiks in the Senior Alberta Hockey League during the regular season just ended, will guard the nets for the Edmonton Flyers when they clash with Calgary Stampeders at the Calgary arena tonight in the first game of the playoff semi-finals.

Harney will replace the regular Flyer goalie, Gordon Robbins, who was taken to an Edmonton hospital Friday night suffering from a severe attack of influenza.

Permission has been granted by league officials for Harney to substitute for Robbins in the game at Calgary tonight.

Four Britons Risk Lives To Learn Secret of Dread German Magnetic Mines

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 2.—Germany started manufacturing magnetic mines as early as 1938, it was revealed yesterday when a full description of one of the underwater terrors was released from official quarters.

Four men risked their lives to examine the mine after it was dropped from a German seaplane near Shoeburyness in the Thames estuary. It was a 1,000-pound pear-shaped affair, with two detonators, one set to fire a 700-pound force of high explosive on contact with the other governing magnetic appliances.

NEED SHALLOW WATER

Germany has dropped many magnetic mines in shallow water along the east coast and planted others by submarine. They are only effective in shallow waters. Below 50 fathoms they are useless.

In effect, this is how they work: The magnetic field of a steel ship passing directly overhead releases a magnet, which then makes contact with the detonator firing the mine. The contact detonator would operate if the mine were dropped on the deck of a ship from a seaplane but it is not sufficiently sensitive to fire the mine when it strikes water.

Outside the case of the mine is aluminum. A parachute is used to break the speed of the mine's descent from the plane. They are usually dropped from a height of 1,500 feet on moonlight nights when pilots are able to distinguish landmarks.

The date 1938 was found stamped on several parts of the recovered mine when it was finally dismantled. It was spotted in the water late at night. Men were set to watch it but warned to keep well away.

OFFERS TO RISK LIFE

As soon as daylight broke the mine was photographed from all possible positions and drawings made to scale. Non-magnetic tools were forged to fit the projecting appliances.

By this time it was noon. One man, Lieut. Commander J. D. D. Ouvray, offered to risk his life in dismantling the mine. As soon as he di connected one portion he went back to the beach before starting to uncover another — so that if the mine blew up, at least something would be known about it.

Afterwards he was invested by the King.

As soon as the commander had removed the detonator all four experts on mines crowded around in the belief it was perfectly harmless. They prodded this part, hammered that, and removed a third.

Finally one of them found a second detonator and only then it was discovered what a narrow escape they all had—the first detonator to be removed was the contact detonator and the one still in the mine was the one controlling the magnetic mechanism. It was removed without further delay or harm.

SENATOR WITH GRIEVANCE GAINS ONE RACE HORSE

WASHINGTON, March 2—Senator Robert Reynolds, North Carolina Democrat, went into a senate sub-committee meeting with a grievance and came out with a racehorse.

The grievance was against George Allen, one of three presidentially-appointed commissioners who govern Washington. Allen has been opposing a bill by Reynolds to legalize horseracing in the district of Columbia.

A witness had said Allen owned a horse which he raced in neighboring states. He implied that it was strange that he should do this while opposing racing here.

Allen explained yesterday:

"I think racing is bad for me—bad for anybody—and I don't think my stupidity should be forced on the district of Columbia. I love racing. I wish I didn't love it. I'll give my horse to the senator from North Carolina if he wants him."

"I'll take him," said Reynolds.

"All you have to do is feed him," said the commissioner.

"I'll be glad to," said the senator.

During November, 1939, 157,931 revenue passengers were carried on the 17 domestic airlines.

Seven Crates Of Goods Shipped For Finland's War Aid

Destined for war-stricken Finland, seven large crates of goods left Edmonton Red Cross headquarters Friday to aid the women and children of Finland. Robert Muir, secretary-manager of the Edmonton branch, reported. Seven more big crates will leave over the weekend and others will follow shortly.

The crates will go to Slough, Eng., for reshipment to Finland, and the others for the allied forces. Each crate contained 180 pounds of goods, including hospital supplies, dressing gowns, sweaters, woolen goods and other articles. The Finnish shipment included women's and children's clothing, bedding and a big quantity of underwear. Hospital supplies and clothing have been sent overseas in previous shipments.

Libel Action Not Withdrawn Maclean Says

There is no truth to the story that the libel action started by E. L. Gray, former Liberal leader in Alberta, against Premier Aberhart, has been withdrawn by mutual consent, states Neil Maclean, K.C., counsel for Premier Aberhart.

The action, in which Mr. Gray entered suit for $15,000 damages, arose out of statements said to have been made by the premier on March 24 last, concerning the operations of the Eastern Irrigation District, during the management of Mr. Gray.

"I have been approached by counsel to see if we would contest to the suit being dropped," stated Mr. Maclean. "But my client would not consent unless costs already incurred in preparing to defend the suit are paid by the plaintiff. That is how the matter now stands. The action has not been dropped."

CREDIT UNIONS LOAN $107,000 TO MEMBERS

Twenty-Six Groups Organized In Alberta Up To Date

Since credit unions were organized in this province in the autumn of 1938, loans to members total $107,000, according to officials of the trade and industry department.

As at the end of January credit union assets totalled $54,643.

To date, 26 credit unions have been organized in the province.

Most recent union has been formed among 112 members of the staff of the Calgary Herald. Fred Kennedy, well-known newspaperman, is vice-president of the branch.

The legislature enacted a bill authorizing establishment of credit unions at the regular 1938 session.

Tory Leader In Manitoba Sees Election In Offing

WINNIPEG, March 2.—Errick F. Willis, Conservative leader in the Manitoba legislature, indicated today that he believed a provincial election is in the offing.

Mr. Willis suggested "the approaching provincial election" was the key to an outburst in the legislature yesterday by Dr. M. T. Lewis, former Conservative member, turned Independent, who reprimanded the Conservative leader for urging a probe of the brewing industry, saying that while he was a member of the Conservative Party Mr. Willis prevented him from introducing a similar motion.

The Bracken Liberal-Progressive government was elected in July, 1936, and can remain in office until July, 1941.

It is reported that by January, 1941, a stratosphere airport will be constructed at Miami, Fla. The field will be the largest in the world, having paved runways covering 0.4 miles.

WINGS NORTH

Alf Caywood of Canadian Airways was back at Yellowknife Saturday after having completed a return flight from that point to Coppermine, on the Arctic coast, and return on Friday. He took two Eskimos—a man who had been receiving treatment for burns to his face and hands and a woman with an abdominal disease—from Fort Smith to Coppermine.

Gilbert Labine is mighty pleased with the fast service being offered between Toronto and Port Radium by Trans-Canada Air Lines and the Yukon Southern Barkley-Grow airliner under charter to C.A.L. for use on the Edmonton-Port Radium run. Mr. Labine gave a letter to "Wop" May as he left Radium in the Barkley last Saturday morning. Wop posted it when he arrived in Edmonton and it went east that evening via T.C.A. and was delivered to Mrs. Labine by special messenger at 3 p.m. Sunday.

INDIAN PARTY WANTS TO QUIT EMPIRE BONDS

Committee's Resolution for Plenary Session Strongly Worded

NEW DELHI, March 2.—Renewing its challenge to Great Britain on the issue of Indian independence, the working committee of the All-India Congress at Patna yesterday adopted a strongly worded resolution declaring that "India cannot exist within the orbit of British imperialism."

Re-affirming the Indian Nationalist group's determination that India must shape her own destiny, the resolution stated: "Dominion status or any other status within the imperial structure is wholly inapplicable to India."

The resolution, to be submitted to the mid-March plenary session of the Congress Party, further warns that the recent withdrawal of Congress Party ministries in eight British India provinces was a preliminary step which would naturally be followed by civil disobedience—passive resistance to Britain.

The ministries resigned in protest against Britain's refusal to consider the question of India's independence until the war is over.

Competent but unofficial British circles in India express surprise and concern over the Congress committee's resolution.

While the plenary session is expected to approve the resolution observers point out that Mohandas K. Gandhi, the Nationalist leader, has left himself ample room to negotiate and open negotiations with Britain or to change the All-India party's political course before any final plunge into civil disobedience.

All Lit Up

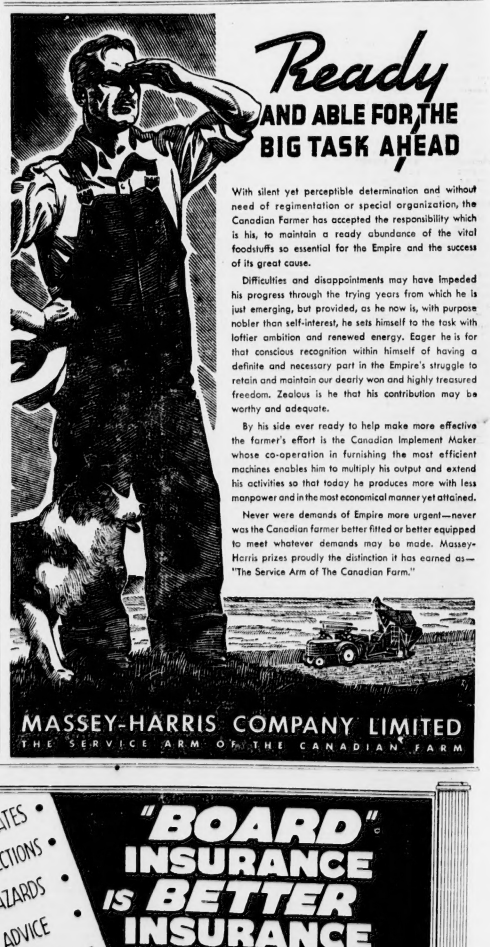

A CERTAIN man from a City in Alberta, in the days of prohibition, went on a hunting trip in the southern part of the Province. The day was cold and wet and he decided to spend the night in a town, nearby. Meeting some friends he was entertained with refreshments that did not carry the Government seal. Arising in the early morning, he turned on the electric light switch, but was still confronted with darkness. He looked out of the window but all was black . . . instantly there flashed across his mind the thought of blindness, but, his fears were allayed when he remembered the town had only an abbreviated lighting service.

Today, this town is served by the transmission lines of Calgary Power Company and has a twenty-four-hour ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER SERVICE.

Nearly all the towns and villages of Alberta, to use an expression applied to the British Fleet, "ARE ALL LIT UP" with an economical twenty-four-hour electrical service.

Ready AND ABLE FOR THE BIG TASK AHEAD

With silent yet perceptible determination and without need of regimentation or special organization, the Canadian Farmer has accepted the responsibility which is his, to maintain a ready abundance of the vital foodstuffs so essential for the Empire and the success of its great cause.

Difficulties and disappointments may have impeded his progress through the trying years from which he is just emerging, but provided, as he now is, with purpose nobler than self-interest, he sets himself to the task with loftier ambition and renewed energy. Eager he is for that conscious recognition within himself of having a definite and necessary part in the Empire's struggle to retain and maintain our dearly won and highly treasured freedom. Zealous is he that his contribution may be worthy and adequate.

By his side ever ready to help make more effective the farmer's effort is the Canadian Implement Maker whose co-operation in furnishing the most efficient machines enables him to multiply his output and extend his activities so that today he produces more with less manpower and in the most economical manner yet attained.

Never were demands of Empire more urgent—never was the Canadian farmer better fitted or better equipped to meet whatever demands may be made. Massey-Harris prizes proudly the distinction it has earned as—"The Service Arm of The Canadian Farm."

DOMINION BASE FOR AMERICAN FINN SOLDIERS

United States Group To Send Men To Finland Through Canada

NEW YORK, March 2. — The Daily News says today the Finnish War Veterans in America hopes to be able to send to Finland through Canada more than 9,000 United States citizens who have volunteered to fight for the little republic against Russia.

No details of the reported plans of the organization were given by the newspaper which also says it is through Canada a group of volunteer aviators formed in the United States by Col. Charles Sweeney, an aviator with the American forces in the first Great War, "are slated to proceed to the fighting zones abroad."

The News says Col. Sweeney was reported earlier this week in Los Angeles dispatches to be the object of investigation by the federal bureau of investigation following "reports that he had offered fancy salaries to young Americans for service abroad."

The first detachment of a "bootleg army" that eventually may place thousands of Americans behind the fighting lines of Finland" will sail from New York today as members of the crew of an undentified freighter, the News continues, adding that these volunteers will be paid by a group of wealthy Swedish and Danish noblemen now in New York.

4 NOMINEES REFUSE C.C.F. NOMINATION

Party Unable To Select Candidate To Contest Lethbridge Seat

LETHBRIDGE, March 2. — "Every vote cast for a Social Credit candidate is a vote for conscription of manpower," M. J. Coldwell, national chairman of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, declared last night during his first address of a public meeting in Lethbridge.

Besides scoring the Social Credit party, the recent member of parliament for Rosetown-Biggar severely criticized Mackenzie King's administration and sounded a warning that "unless we prepare now we are going to face a desperate situation after the war."

REFUSE NOMINATION

Mr. Coldwell spoke here after speaking at Macleod in the afternoon. He left the meeting early to fly to Regina and then continue on to Winnipeg where he is scheduled to speak Saturday evening. The meeting then became an open convention to nominate a C.C.F. federal candidate for the Lethbridge riding.

Rev. W. H. Irwin, minister of First United church and president of the Lethbridge federal constituency C.C.F., was unanimously named candidate for the coming election but refused to accept.

It meant, he said, a choice between accepting a partisan nomination or continuing as a minister of the United church.

Three other members of the movement were named but each in turn refused to go into the field. After considering numerous resolutions the meeting decided to leave it in hands of executive of Lethbridge federal constituency C.C.F. to decide what further action would be taken regarding a candidate here for the March 26 Dominion election.

QUOTES BLACKMORE

Mr. Coldwell maintained that the Social Credit group was the only party at Ottawa in the last parliament which supported conscription of man power and he read from Hansard statements attributed to John H. Blackmore, federal Social Credit leader. According to the statements, Mr. Blackmore had urged during the short session in September that "finance, industry and man power should be conscripted, not singly, but together," said Mr. Coldwell.

ITALY TO SEND PROTEST OVER COAL SEIZURES

ROME, March 2—The Italian government announced today that a note of protest will be sent to the British government tomorrow over London's decision to seize German exports to Italy, particularly coal.

The note is now being drafted, the announcement said.

Spokesman said the protest would be in harmony with the Fascist grand council's declaration last December that Italy would safeguard her maritime traffic "in the most definite manner, both for reasons of prestige and to ensure the undeniable necessities of life."

AMSTERDAM, March 2 — Four Italian ships loaded with German coal left Rotterdam this morning for Italy, but returned to port on receiving instructions directly from Rome.

The coal would have been liable to seizure by Allied contraband control authorities, under a British government decision announced yesterday.

Eight Candidates Are Announced by Socreds in South

CALGARY, March 2.—With eight candidates selected for seven provincial and one federal constituencies yesterday only four candidates remained to be named to place Social Credit representatives in each of the 49 Alberta ridings.

The slate will be completed on March 5 at Rycroft in northern Alberta when candidates will be selected for the Grouard, Peace River, Grand Prairie and Spirit River constituencies.

The concluding Calgary sessions of the advisory board, Alberta Social Credit League and constituency zone organizers named one new-comer to the provincial political field.

He was Ivan Casey, High River school teacher, selected for the Okotoks-High River seat, formerly held by Premier William Aberhart.

Two former provincial members were named to newly-formed constituencies. E. G. Dubé, formerly of Rocky Mountain House, going to Pincher Creek-Crow's Nest riding. W. King, formerly of Cochrane constituency, will run in the new Banff-Cochrane riding.

Candidates selected were:

Acadia Federal—Victor Quelch, Morrin, former M.P.

Hand Hills—Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, former M.L.A., and minister of health.

Drumheller—H. Ingrey, Wayne, former M.L.A.

Banff-Cochrane—W. R. King, Cochrane, former M.L.A.

Gleichen—L. M. McCune, Gleichen, former M.L.A.

Okotoks-High River—Ivan Casey, High River.

Didsbury—E. P. Foster, Three Hills, former M.L.A.

Pincher Creek-Crow's Nest—E. O. Dube, Canmore, former M.L.A.

Dr. W. R. Spankie, one of eight nominated at the Calgary constituency convention, did not appear before the advisory board and zone organizers when the four Calgary candidates were selected Thursday night.

Questioned by a supporter, Dr. Spankie said: "I could not prevent them nominating me. I had no intention of running and told Mr. Aberhart that."

National Unity Candidate Named To Oppose King

PRINCE ALBERT, March 2—R. R. Manville was chosen yesterday by a joint convention of Conservative, New Democracy and Social Credit supporters to contest Prince Albert constituency in the March 26 federal elections as a National Unity candidate.

Manville's opponents in the riding are Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who has represented Prince Albert since 1926, and Peter Sirelive, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate.

PREMIER SAYS FOUR CALGARY SEATS NEEDED

Party Must Win Four Of Five In Southern City States Aberhart

CALGARY, March 2.—Calgary Social Crediters must capture four out of the five provincial seats in the city, Premier William Aberhart told an enthusiastic audience which jammed the Prophetic Bible Institute to capacity last night.

"Give us a chance to set up our bank and our treasury branches," said the premier, "and we say our whole economic system will crash in 1941 or '42. I say we'll not let it fail, we'll be ready for it."

He will be returning to the city shortly for a couple of weeks "to rest," the premier announced. He said the city would be zoned as in the 1935 election, with instructions given to voters as to how to vote their first four choices in each zone. This would assure a more equal number of first choices for each Social Credit candidate, and thus take full advantage of the proportional representation system.

The meeting was also addressed by Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines; Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs, and Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works.

New federal and provincial candidates were introduced by the chairman, George "Whicher, and spoke briefly.

They included Ald. Rose Wilkinson, Calgary West; J. C. Landeryou, Calgary East; Mrs. Edith Gostick, Fred Anderson and Mrs. H. D. Tarves, Calgary city provincial.

Vancouver Retains Mill Rate Of 1939

VANCOUVER, March 2.—Vancouver city council yesterday adopted the 1940 budget which provides taxes shall continue at 42.653 mills gross, the same as 1939. The budget sets $14,353,582 as the amount to be spent on estimates.

The War This Week

By DON GILBERT
Canadian Press Cable Editor

THE Finnish army's defence of Viipuri dominated developments in the 20th week of the war. A month after beginning its great offensive on the Karelian isthmus, the Red army reached positions one mile from the battered port city on eastern Finland and brought up fresh divisions to press the attack.

Neutral military opinion as to the ability of the Finns to hold the city, now has been pierced by the Soviet drive, was not available. But it seemed certain the Reds could count on nothing more than a pyrrhic victory as the Finns continued to take a terrific toll in Soviet killed for every few yards of territory yielded.

While the fall of the city would make the Finnish army's task more difficult, it is not believed it would herald any general retreat.

BRITONS EN ROUTE

British volunteers left London early in the week, but will need considerable seasoning before they are ready to join the Finnish forces. The command of these troops was given to Major Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late United States president, Theodore Roosevelt. The United States Congress finally completed action on its $25,000,000 credit for Finland.

Intense aerial activity, aided by clear weather, marked the war between Germany and the Allied powers. A new batch of German U-boats also was apparently at sea, since the British merchant marine lost some 55,000 tons of shipping. The Germans themselves lost two ships aggregating 9,000 tons, one of them failing into British hands intact. In addition four enemy submarines were believed to have been accounted for by Allied naval forces.

The Royal Air Force sent its scouting planes over Berlin three times during the week and German ports such as Hamburg and Bremen were thoroughly reconnoitred.

WELLES IN EUROPE

Sumner Welles, United States undersecretary of state, touring European capitals seeking information for President Roosevelt, visited Rome and Berlin. In Rome he saw Premier Mussolini and was to see Adolf Hitler on Saturday. From Berlin he will go to Paris and London.

France tightened her belt in an effort to cut down consumption of foodstuffs while at the same time augmenting production to meet the increased needs of the war. The gold holdings of the Bank of France were revalued.

Glancing Back 25 Years: Strong offensives were launched by the Allies on the Western Front in the week Feb 25-March 2, 1915, particularly in the Champagne where French troops made a notable advance. In the east the Russians halted a German drive on Warsaw.

FARMER AIDS PROPOSED BY TORY LEADER

1926 Price Levels Would Solve Problems Says Conservative Head

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 2.—Agricultural aids ranging from seasonal tariffs to long-term loans were proposed by Conservative leader J. Manion last night as means of increasing farm prosperity.

"If the 1926 price levels were restored, the problems of the farmer would largely vanish and with them the problem of industrial employment," Dr. Manion said. "The return of the 1926 price level, therefore, will be our constant objective." The program he outlined here included seasonal tariff protection for the home market, not only of the fruit and vegetable grower but also the dairy farmer and livestock grower.

TO ENCOURAGE CO-OPS

"At the same time, steps will be taken through export boards to divest price levels of important agricultural products such as cheese, butter, etc., of their dependency upon price levels in the international market."

The Conservative chieftain promised "vigorous encouragement of all forms of co-operative marketing, regulation and distribution of all farm products." With the provinces, his government would seek to set up marketing boards through which the farmer might become "master of his own destiny." Overseas agencies would be expanded and measures taken to increase preferences in Empire markets.

Machinery would be set up for the "continuous investigation" of price spreads, to see that neither producer nor consumer was exploited. On complaint of any producer or consumer organization, investigation would be made and steps taken to correct unjustified spreads and to eliminate combines operating unfairly to the producers.

SUGGESTS LOW INTEREST

Activities of the Canadian farm loan board would be expanded to provide long-term mortgage money at low interest, "essential for the future agricultural development of Canada." The board would also work closely with any provincial machinery of like sort.

"All measures necessary will be taken to ensure reasonable rates of interest on present loans," he said. Farmers would also be assisted in obtaining long-term loans for drainage and providing fertilizer necessary to rehabilitate their land.

DRUGGIST WINS ACQUITTAL IN CODEINE CASE

MONTREAL, March 2—An acquittal was registered here yesterday in a codeine charge which was brought under an original order-in-council which has been amended to remove its disability.

Yesterday's decision was given by Judge C. E. Guerin in sessions court in the case of William Singer Montreal druggist who was charged with selling codeine without a prescription Sept. 21, shortly after an order-in-council had been passed to restrict sales and to preserve it for war purposes.

The original order did not specify a penalty and prosecution in the Singer case was according to section 164 of the criminal code of Canada which applies a penalty of two years' imprisonment to everyone who without lawful excuse disobeys an act of parliament when the act itself does not provide a penalty.

Judge Guerin in his judgment yesterday found that an order-in-council is not an act of parliament and therefore prosecution could not be made under section 164.

Sometime after the original order-in-council was made, a second was passed which amended the first so that it no longer depends upon section 164 for punishment but itself provides a definite penalty of a fine of $500 or 12 months' imprisonment or both.

Engineer, Ship's Cook Drive Off German Plane Attacking British Trawler

LONDON, March 2.—Chief Engineer Charles Alp of the trawler Salacon last night recounted how he and the ship's cook, respectively firing a rifle and a machine-gun, drove off and apparently damaged a Nazi warplane which attacked the trawler Feb. 20 in the North sea.

"A twin-engined monoplane suddenly dived on us out of the clouds and gave us a burst of machine gun bullets," he said. "The cook, our machine gunner, went to the gun which is aft. I took a rifle and went on the bridge. The Nazi plane flew over another few times and fired at her but did not do any damage.

"It attacked us and we fired back. As it swung round ahead of us the bridge hid our gunners' fire. I called out to him to shoot at the pilot and observer forward and to leave the rear-gunner to me. As the plane came round our starboard quarters it flew low and close and started to fire at us again with its rear gunner.

"Our gunner fired at the plane's nose and I believe he must have scored a hit. When the machine came abreast of me I could see the rear-gunner very clearly. I fired twice in rapid succession and I am certain his helmet fell overboard. The plane went ahead of us and the rear-gunner had a beautiful chance

Great War Hero Is Sentenced To Nine-Months' Term

VANCOUVER, March 2.—Still limping with leg wounds inflicted by a police constable's gun, George F. Clark, holder of a brilliant record in the first Great War, yesterday was sentenced to nine months in jail by Magistrate H. S. Wood when he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering.

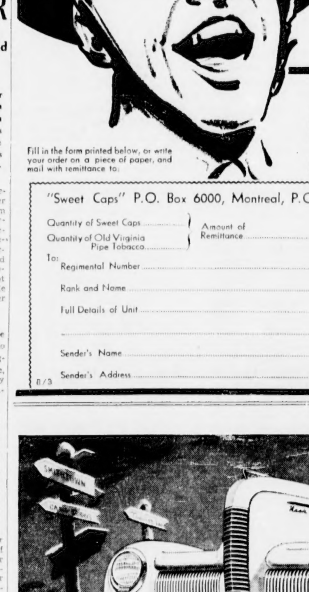

Clark was shot last month while climbing through a window at the rear of a downtown warehouse. Another man escaped by jumping through the window and a third was found hiding in the building.

ITALIAN ENVOY TO BRITAIN ON WAY TO LONDON

ROME, March 2—Giuseppe Bastianini, Italy's ambassador to Great Britain, who has been in Rome to discuss Anglo-Italian questions with Premier Mussolini and Foreign Office officials, left last night to return to his post at London.

It is believed that immediately upon his arrival he will resume negotiations with the British government on the question of obtaining British coal to replace supplies formerly received from Germany but now interrupted by the allied naval blockade.

Italy imports 3,000,000 tons of British coal annually and has been receiving an additional 7,000,000 tons from Germany.

That Vancouver Purchase

Speaking at Prince Albert, Prime Minister King disclosed facts as to the purchase of a residence for unmarried officers of the air force at the Vancouver air station. This transaction has been cited, without particulars being stated, by Dr. Manion and other critics as proof that the defence department has been recklessly extravagant, if not actually dishonest, in buying property—and by inference in buying other things.

The facts as given out by Mr. King are these. The property was bought before the war started; therefore before there was a war supply board in existence. The purchase was recommended by the proper officials of the air service. The property was expropriated. The Exchequer Court of Canada set the price.

So that is that.

Right the First Time

Having marched around a circle, Dr. Manion now finds himself confronting himself on the "national" government question. Last July he made a speech on the subject, and was reported in the Toronto Globe and Mail as follows:

"National Conservative leader, Robert J. Manion today refused to recognize 'national government' as a cure for Canada's present-day ills, arguing that such a set-up would inevitably lead to a Socialist regime dictated by a combination of the C.C.F., Social Credit and 'all other cave of addulam parties.'

"Every government," said he, "starts to die soon after it is elected. A national government would be the same in this respect as any other. Therefore after a period of time the opposition would come into power.

"But the opposition to a national government, presumably made up of Liberals and Conservatives, would be the Social Credit, C.C.F., and other socialist groups that cared to join with them. It would be these parties that would take over the reins of power when the national government had outlived its usefulness."

With no election in immediate prospect, Dr. Manion saw the proposal for a "national" government to be a prescription for bringing about a condition of stalemate bound to disintegrate speedily into chaos. The Doctor was right last July.

The Wheat Is An Asset

The British ministry of food has ordered that whisky-production be cut to a third this year in order to save feed grains for stock. It is added that the curtailment will not affect the price or the supply "for several years". The whisky-makers have the advantage that their product does not deteriorate with age. It is even claimed that it improves as time passes. Though they have accumulated a surplus large enough to carry the trade for "several years," the market has not been depressed thereby.

The same day this was announced, an official of the United Grain Growers, speaking at Vancouver, stressed the fact —for it is a fact—that Canada's huge surplus of wheat is an asset to Canada and the Allies. The difficulty is that, unlike the British distillers, the Canadian farmer has no monopoly on his product. Wheat is wheat, though not all whisky is rated as whisky by discriminating buyers. None the less, this great store of Canadian wheat is a reserve upon which the Allied and neutral nations will have to draw as war conditions curtail production elsewhere.

Millions of men have been withdrawn from ordinary occupations in Europe, agriculture included, and will be nonproductive consumers of wheat throughout the coming summer — which means throughout the following winter and the following summer also. Europe cannot harvest a normal crop of wheat before the fall of 1941 at the earliest. The Canadian grower thus stands a fair chance of getting a substantial deferred payment in addition to the 70 cent initial price for the wheat he produced last summer.

"Leaflet Bombings"

British war planes have been making daily flights over the far interior of the Reich, one squadron flying over former Austria and Czechoslovakia, leaving souvenirs of their visits in the shape of leaflets, and flares dropped on the Skoda munitions works and a Bren machine-gun factory.

There cannot be any serious expectation that these leaflets will convert Nazi readers, and so start an anti-Hitler revolution. Likely enough any person caught reading one of them is shot or interned. Since the Austrians and Czechs are unarmed, there can be do desire to induce them to revolt. The object quite obviously is to keep everyone from the Fuehrer down mindful that the vitals of Germany are within reach of Allied airmen. The leaflets and the flares are tangible proofs to all that the fliers reached the points where these were found, and the inference is self-suggesting that the planes which dropped harmless bits of paper and token torches could just as easily have let go a rain of bombs.

That is something Herr Goering, who is a practical man, cannot ignore. The significance is too clear, and the warning too plain. Western Germany, where the munitions are made and the heavy industries located, lies as open to bombers as any part of France or Britain. No part of the country of military importance is immune from the implied threat. If London and Paris are reachable by Nazi bombers, Berlin is also within range of British and French bombers.

Undoubtedly it seemed strange in September that Allied airmen flew over even fortified areas in Germany and dropped nothing worse than reading matter. But time has shown that whoever conceived that merciful method of making war knew what he was doing. But for the demonstration that bombing was a "game" both sides could play at, there is reason to suppose the Nazi air fleet would have been sent on bombing attacks to both Britain and France while these countries were still struggling to get their plane-building plants in production.

"Leaflet bombings" have probably saved many thousands of lives in Britain, France and Germany, by the messages they proclaim that if the Allied countries were straffed from the air the Reich would be visited by reprisals in kind.

Dr. Clodius has been sent to Rumania to trade some Hitler promises for all the oil, wheat and other commodities Rumania can spare for export. If the Rumanians make a deal it will not be because they set any value on the promises but because they are afraid to refuse.

A man died at Cincinnatti who was 92 years old and had been guilty of working only two. This is news only because not many people inherit fortunes, as he did. Starting off with that incentive to idleness, it takes an uncommon amount of ambition to make a man industrious.

The Passing Show

MR. DOOLEY ON THE ELECTION
By J. S. COWPER
(With apologies to Finley P. Dunne)

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Dooley to his friend Hennessey, aawing the air with his clay pipe as they waited for the green light at Jasper and First Street, "this twinty-firrst of Marrch promises to ay-quel the glorrious sivinteenth in the history of freedom. It is the time whin all good men come to the aid of the parrity—and show their luave for Sor by jumpin' on the old lady. Niver since the glorious Saint Patrick druuve the snakes frim Oireland has there bin auch a scurryin' an' hurryin' to get into Joseph's coat of minny colors. It is a foin display of practical statesmanship for these dictaytors to behoid an' trimble at. Now Hinnissey, there's our green light!"

"Sure an' these are strange words in praise of unity to come from a son of ould Oireland," said the puzzled Hennessey. "I t'ort ye was agin the governmint on principle, an' rejiced in observin' a free-for-all foight with heads on the green an' no holds barred."

* * *

Mr. Dooley walked half a block in silence, dowaing his pipe in readiness for verbal combat. "Ye arr a foine man an' a good friend, Hinnissey," he said by way of an opener, "but ye arr untrained in diplomacy an' lack the gifts of the tr-rue statyesman."

"I resint yer aspersions, Dooley me frind. True I have taken mannys the aegar and the bracer from gintilmin who think that whiskey is the natural irrigator of their political principles, but always have I voted accordin' to the principles of me boyhood's days."

"Have I not told ye, ye are untrayned in diplomacy and devoid of the gifts that mark the true statesman," continued Mr. Dooley. "Hinnissey, me bhoy, did ye niver make a study of modern diplomacy? Do not know that the true statesman can change his mind quicker'n ye can change yer shirt."

* * *

Mr. Hennessey shook his head. "Phwat puzzles me, Dooley," he said, "is to tell the difference betwane a Unity candidate and an Independent? Some av them could one day, an' Unity the next, and forninst they are Independent. Sure it is the chameleon they are!"

"A Liberal," said Dooley with fine distinction, "is wan who is a mimber of a parrty; a Unity man is wan who jines with other parrties; and Independent is wan who stands by himself. It is a foine display of truhtfulness to see these honest politicians t'rowin' off all bindin' shackles of parrty in order to be true to the wan great Parrty—thimself."

"Take the layders, for instance! Now there's Andy Davison, a rare bit of a spalpeen. He started his public loife as a Labor leader. Bein' a Laybor leader is a consthricted career, for one can't lead far ahead of the crowd. So Andy, asking to be true to 'imself became a Conservative. It must be very tirin' and lonely, Hinnessey, to be a Conservative Labor leader in a place loike Alberta. So now, Andy has decided to become an Independent and be true only to Andy.

"See how it worrks out, Hinnissey! Andy has to have a runnin' mate, so he picks out to run with the millionaire McFarland, Mr. McFarland wid the trouble in bein' true to John I. McFarland. Durin' the Great Warr, Mr. McFarland with his two cronies, Richard Bedford Bennett and Max Aitken (now Lord Bayerbrook) made millyons for thimselves by havin' true to 'imself Alberta farmers sell their wheat to thim at bottom prolce, and thin sellin' it to the hungry payple of Britain layter on at top prices. A grate bhoy is John I. McFarland, and a grate Indaypendint. Sure, he'll hav' no throuble in bein' true to John I. McFarland. 'Tis a foine soight to see the lion and the lamb —the grain and oil baron and the labor man—jinin' togither on a platform to be thrue to thimselves."

"And the same with the political bhoys, Mr. Hinnissey. Take Davey Duggan t'rinstance, an' a foine broth of a bhoy is Davey—an ornnamint to anny Legislachoor. Davey used to lead the 19,000 Conservatives in Alberta. Davey is a bond broker and fi-nanceer. Whin he was Mayor of Edmonton he iscued bonds at 7.10 per cint interest—the highest in Edmonton history. Davey belaves in the sacridinas of high interest obligayshuns. An' whin is this lad Gray, that was picked thray years ago to lead the 70,000 Liberals of Alberta to victery, an' now has led them into oblivlyon. What a painful altercayshun these lads would have faced, if they hadn't decided to be Independents and go in on the true politicians platform of aych man for himsilf and the divil take the hindmost."

Mr. Hennessey looked puzzled. "I know its true as gospel what ye say, Dooley," he agreed. "Only the other noight I heard Dr. Manion spake as Conservaytive leader, and I know he won his way up by belin' thrue to himsilf as a Liberal, Unionist and a Conservative. It's true as Kiplin' said 'He travels the farthest who travels alone'. But how kin there be a government without an opposishun, and how kin there be an opposishun whin iviry man is indepentint an' bein' true only to himsilf?"

Mr. Dooley looked sadly on his friend. "Hinnissey," he said, "ye have nether the gift of the statyesman, nor the undarstandin' of the wise. Whin there is fifty-seven men in the Legislaychoor, without platform or principle, save the grate and glorrious principle af each man bein' true to himsilf, there's goin' to be forrty-nine oppositions. It is a soight to gladden the hearrt of anny true borrn Irishman. 'Twill revive the mimories of Donnybrook, an' the days whin the divil wint laypin' thru Athlone—with my money on the lads behint the scenes that put up the coin."

HELP WANTED

There are more jobs than there are workers in Christian service.

One of the "blind spots" of this unemployed generation is their failure to perceive their opportunities to do volunteer and financially unrequited service to their world.

There are Sunday school classes to be taught; Boy Scout troops to be led; Christian Endeavor societies to be served, community welfare organizations to be helped; politics to be purified; sick and bereaved and lonely folk to be visited—the opportunities are legion. And every one of them will return values to the worker beyond any effort he may extend.

Nobody's work should be confined to his job, if he have one. It is life's extras that bring the best rewards.

Stir us up, O Holy spirit, to see and do the tasks, awaiting on every side, which are service to Christ as well as to our fellow men. Lift us out of our littleness and self-absorption. Amen.

Read Mark 10:35-45.

The Sunless South

For various reasons January and February generally constitute our most formidable times here in Alabama. The usual winter gloom, the after holiday letdown, the seasonal sicknesses, the accumulation of bills, the income taxes and many other things make the going hard during the year's first two months.

This year, January and February seem to have been at their worst. There was the war, to begin with. Then, on top of that, there has been the weather—the cold, the ice and snow, the rain and the dank, chill and ugly days, one after another.

It has taken some real power to get through these days, holding the head high and keeping the spirit up.

We are not at all satisfied with the way January and February have been doing. They seem to have made it too hard this winter. We may have to undertake some reform of these months.—Birmingham, Alabama, Age-Herald.

Sweden and Finland

Sweden's refusal of Finland's appeal for direct military aid is stoutly defended by King Gustav, who tells his people that Sweden can aid her next door neighbor more effectively as neutral than as belligerent. That the veteran ruler finds it necessary to support it with a personal statement indicates the refusal is criticized by the Swedish people. It may be that their instinct for national self-preservation gives wiser counsel than the king's diplomats do.

In fairness it should be remembered that Sweden supplied the Finns with much of the war material that enabled them to beat off the Red attacks for so long. Thousands of Swedes—half a division, according to a Stockholm estimate—have volunteered for active service with the Finnish army. Stockholm also declares the Swedish people thus far have contributed $3.50 per capita for Finnish relief and aid funds—a much higher per capita contribution than any other people have made.

The Stockholm government's refusal to join forces with Finland for common defense against Red aggression evidently is inspired by fear of Hitler plus the desperate hope that an altitude of neutrality, even though it involves the conquest of Finland by Russia's Red czar, may somehow save Sweden from the war tragedy at her very door.

At the outset of Stalin's aggression, the Scandinavian governments confessed their own grave concern and held several conferences to chart a common course. But now, with the danger much more imminent, they shrink from the common defense that their concert implied. That Stalin will be content with the subjugation and murder of the Finnish republic when richer resources and wealth of the Scandinavian peninsula tempt him to mop up those "capitalist" countries also is scarcely conceivable. If Stockholm and Oslo believe Hitler will block the Russian drive beyond Finland, European developments during the past five years warn them that the Nazi dictator in all probability will seize for himself any small country he sees fit to "protect" against his Red partner.

The acid test of Swedish policy will come when Germany and England undertakes large-scale operations in Finland's defense. Their troops and supplies can best be sent in through Swedish territory. As a member of the Nations' League, Sweden seems obligated to permit the passage through her territories of military aid for Finland. If she meets that obligation, the European democracies and their allies may rescue Finland, saving Sweden herself from the peril that now threatens. But there are Nazi threats of dire consequences if she opens her roads for the transport of military aid to the Finns. And the Stockholm government's evident desire to avoid giving offense to Hitler may shut off what seems to be Finland's only hope o feffective aid, now that Sweden has flatly declined her appeal for military support.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

By FRED WILLIAMS

Sixty years ago today a mystery was born in Toronto which has never been solved. A theatrical man disappeared from sight just as strangely as did Ambrose J. Small in 1919.

In 1878 a man named M. Kero, who had for some years been manager of the Grand Opera House at Ottawa, then a house of considerable standing in the profession, was appointed manager of the Royal Opera House in Toronto. The Royal did a good business, was a social centre, and had no liabilities.

Kero became popular with Toronto folk; but he had one sad failing. He was an inveterate gambler and night after night when the theatre closed he would resort to a so-called club and stay there until morning. Always a heavy player, he was seldom a heavy loser and invariably carried a substantial roll of money in his pocket. March 2, 1880, he closed the house, settled up with the manager of the touring company which had just ended its engagement, and went out, carrying the balance of the receipts with him. He did not for once go to the club. He just faded from sight. There was no apparent reason why he should skip, if he did: business was good; he had a big list of attractions booked for the rest of the season. Hence the mystery, just as deep and as unsolved as that of Ambrose J. Small. After months, the public of the day came to the conclusion that he had been murdered, but his body was never found, and though the police sent circulars all over America and Europe, there was never any clue as to what became of him, nor any trace of his murderer.

Sunday Concerts

Editor Bulletin: In these times when the citizens of Canada, in all walks of life, are making every possible effort and sacrifice in manpower, material, money, and even in blood used for transfusions, to bring the war to a successful conclusion, the thought struck me that the musicians of this city with the help of local vocalists, might help very materially, say the Red Cross, and other institutions of a like nature, by organizing an orchestra and giving their services free in a hall, also free, in a series of Sunday concerts, proceeds of which could be given to the Red Cross, Canadian Legion Educational Movement, Canadian Hut, K. of C's, Salvation Army, etc.

There are quite a number of the old Edmonton symphony orchestra members in the city, who I think, would be quite willing to help out on such a plan, and I am sure that the people of the city would certainly do their bit toward the success of the movement.

You will surely agree with me that to win this war, every possible effort must be made no matter how small. It would be an awful catastrophe if this war were lost by the Allies.

The Banker's Way

Editor Bulletin: When the banking committee was sitting in Ottawa, Graham Towers, head of the Bank of Canada, made admissions which showed that certain claims as to financial matters made by Social Creditors are correct in fact. They are interesting in the light of the present campaign. Here are actual quotations from committee records:

Q.—A banker can purchase a Dominion government bond by accepting from the government, we will say, a bond for $1000 and giving to the government a deposit in the bank for $1000?

Mr. Towers: Yes.

Q.—What the government receives is a credit entry in the banker's book showing the banker as a debtor to the government to the extent of $1000?

Mr. Towers: Yes.

Q.—And in law all that the bank has to hold in the way of cash to issue that deposit liability is 5 per cent?

Mr. Towers: Yes. (p.78).

Q.—Ninety-five per cent of all our volume of business is being done with what we call exchange of bank deposits; that is, simply bookkeeping entries in banks against which people write cheques?

Mr. Towers: I think that is a fair statement. (p.223).

Q.—Twelve per cent of the money in use in Canada is issued by the government through the mint and the Bank of Canada, and 88 per cent is issued by the merchant banks of Canada on the reserves issued by the Bank of Canada?

Mr. Towers: Yes.

Q.—But if the issue of currency and money is a high prerogative of government, that that high prerogative has been transferred to the extent of 88 per cent from the government to the merchant banking system?

Mr. Tower: Yes. (p.286).

Q.—When $1,000,000 worth of bonds is presented by the government) to the bank, a million dollars of new money or the equivalent is created?

Mr. Towers: Yes.

Your Health — By Dr. Frank McCoy

The healthy stomach normally secretes an acid which is valuable in the digestion of food, called hydrochloric acid. In some cases, this acid comes to be thrown out in excessive amounts and this condition is called gastric hyperacidity, hyperchlorhydria, or "too much stomach acid."

That this highly acid state of the stomach is a common complaint is vouched for by the tremendous sale of alkalis and antacids. In taking one of these preparations, the patient intends to neutralize the excess and thus obtain temporary relief. This method is often highly successful for the time being, the patient receiving quick relief from his stomach distress. However it does not promise any lasting betterment insofar as correcting the underlying condition is concerned.

The causes and symptoms of gastric hyperacidity are very much the same as those of gastritis (or stomach inflammation). The chief cause arises in faulty dietetic habits, consisting of eating too much, using incompatible mixtures of food, eating too rapidly, over-use of highly seasoned foods, and the continued use of foods improperly prepared, of which the use of fried foods is an example. Such oversecretion may be the result of nervous irritation or persistent mental tension. It may accompany stomach or duodenal ulcer.

The symptoms include the following: heartburn; the rising into the throat of a sour, bitter-tasting fluid; perhaps the vomiting of acid fluid; a feeling that the stomach is "sour"; excessive gas; a sensation of discomfort in the stomach; and a gnawing feeling if a meal is missed. The appetite is generally good and in fact, the patient may complain of feeling hungry an hour or two after eating. Constipation is a common accompaniment.

With a careful dieting plan it is usually possible to give the patient satisfactory relief from his symptoms. In order to secure the best results, I suggest that the change in diet be preceded by a plain water fast for a few days. On a fast of this kind the patient simply drinks a glass of water every half-hour while awake. One daily enema is also taken. After three to five days on this water regimen, the patient often finds he is able to eat with comfort, the stomach having gone back to its normal rate of throwing out acid.

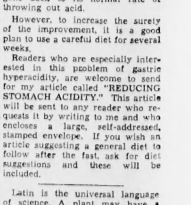

However, to increase the surety of the improvement, it is a good plan to use a careful diet for several weeks.

Readers who are especially interested in this problem of gastric hyperacidity, are welcome to send for my article called "REDUCING STOMACH ACIDITY." This article will be sent to any reader who requests it by writing to me and who encloses a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. If you wish an article suggesting a general diet to follow after the fast, ask for dietsuggestions and these will be included.

INITIATION OF ELKS IS HELD IN EDSON LODGE

The Elks lodge room was taxed to capacity Wednesday night when upward of 20 candidates were initiated into the order and an equal number reinstated to membership in Lodge No. 87, B.P.O.E.

Ceremonies were in charge of P. A. Miquelon of Edmonton, Dominion organizer of the grand lodge who has been in Edson for the past two weeks directing a selective membership campaign.

Officers of Jasper Lodge No. 116 who were in attendance to confer the initiatory degree on the candidates, came in for many congratulatory comments for the impressive and efficient manner in which the ceremony was performed.

D. J. G. McLellan, D.D.G.E.R. of Jasper, brought greetings and best wishes from the grand exalted ruler and in congratulating the lodge paid high tribute to the Dominion organizer for the efficiency and thoroughness of his work here.

Mr. Miquelon, a forceful and eloquent speaker, spoke at length on the aims and ideals of the order, stressing the necessity of Elks presenting a united front in these wartimes, "The order is a national and patriotic one, founded on the noblest of ideals," said Mr. Miquelon, adding that "in the humanitarian and practical charitable work done, it stood well up in the front ranks in service club accomplishments in Canada."

Following the ceremonies, those present were the guests of the refreshment committee who had overlooked nothing. A real Elkish spirit prevailed, and two hours spent in speeches, song and stories, with community singing being directed by Rev. T. J. Matthews, were brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem, ending one of the most enjoyable Elks gatherings ever held in the local lodge in recent years.

The 11 o'clock Elks Toast was delivered by District Deputy McLellan.

Mr. Miquelon left on Friday for Jasper to conduct a similar membership campaign in the interest of the Elks lodge there.

CANUCKS MAY ENLIST WITH FINNISH ARMY

Not An Offence Under the Dominion Act Statement Says

OTTAWA, March 2—The prime minister's office said in a statement last night that it is not considered an offence under the Foreign Enlistment act of 1937 for any persons in Canada to volunteer for service with the Finnish forces.

It also is permissible for Finnish consuls in Canada to recruit Finnish nationals, who are not Canadian nationals, for service, but it would be an offence for any person to recruit or to induce enlistment of any person who is not a Finnish national.

"It would not be practicable to complete enlistment of volunteers or to embody military units within this country," the statement continued. "The position in this respect is the same as in the United Kingdom. It would be permissible for a person to volunteer and to leave this country for the purpose of being embodied in the armed forces of Finland abroad, but it would not be possible for the same person to be sworn in in this country and sent abroad."

This interpretation of the statute was made public following numerous inquiries by the Finnish consul general and other interested persons as to the position of Finnish volunteers under the Foreign Enlistment act. This statute was passed at the 1937 session of parliament and prohibited enlistment in foreign wars. It was prompted by situations created by the Spanish war.

Mediocre But Bulky Field For Widner Challenge

MIAMI, Fla., March 2.—A bulky but mediocre field of 18 thoroughbreds was named for today's $50,000 Widner Challenge cup, climax of a record-breaking season at Hialeah Park.

If all go to the post—there may be a late scratch or two—the race will have a gross value of $67,850 and will net the winner's owner $53,000.

The track prepared to accommodate the largest crowd in its history, a predicted 25,000, and to handle more than $1,000,000 in bets for the first time since the fabulous "boom" days.

The mile-and-a-quarter Widener was considered a wide open race, although Leo J. Marks' Vary Strings, winner of the $10,000 McLennan Memorial two weeks ago, was conceded a slight edge on performance.

John Hay Whitney's Woof Woof, winner of last week's $20,000 Flamingo stakes, was a probable second choice.

Mussolini May Purge Pro-Ally Cabinet Members

LONDON, March 2. — Reports from Rome have been received in diplomatic circles, according to the Havas News Agency, saying Premier Mussolini is planning a new cabinet reorganization to eliminate strongly pro-Ally members.

The agency said Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano's name was mentioned in this connection. It added that Mussolini's son-in-law, while pro-German before the war, has also veered toward the Allies.

The report of impending cabinet changes was linked with Great Britain's decision to halt seaborne coal shipments to Italy from Germany.

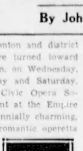

INNISFAIL

A pioneer resident of the Antler Hill district in the person of H. J. Saturley passed away this week. Previous to farming Mr. Saturley was at one time a manager of the Crown Lumber Co., and had always taken a keen interest in school and local affairs. Funeral services will be held Saturday from the Anglican church. Besides his widow, Mr. Saturley leaves his son Edward and one daughter, Mrs. Leo Foster of B.C.

Major And Minor Notes

By John Oliver

Eyes of Edmonton and district music lovers are turned toward next week when, on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the Edmonton Civic Opera Society will present at the Empire theatre the perennially charming, melodious and romantic operetta Blossom Time.

John Oliver

Associated with the Opera Society is the Edmonton Rotary Club and the profits are to be used by these two organizations in further their respective community welfare work. Both the Civic Opera Society and the Rotary Club have notable stage achievements to their credit in the past and joint production this time is anticipated with deep interest. The Opera Society is attending to the artistic and musical end of the partnership, and the Rotary Club is mainly directing its attentions to the business side of the venture.

Blossom Time is a long-standing favorite with Edmonton audiences, as it is with audiences on both sides of the Atlantic, and it stands out as one of the most outstandingly successful operettas of the post-war period. It was first produced in Vienna soon after the World War, the original title being Dreimaderlhaus. The story revolves around a love affair of immortal Franz Schubert and Mitzi Kranz, daughter of a Viennese jeweller. History does not record this particular romance taking place, but it is an adaption of unrequited love which Schubert undoubtedly experienced. The music was mainly drawn from Schubert and with original contributions by a Viennese composer named Emil Berte, whose operetta, The Rose of Panama, played here in pre-World War days and which was successful in New York.

* * *

In 1921 the Schubert brothers of New York produced Blossom Time at the Ambassador theatre. The show had undergone considerable revision. The original libretto, by Dr. A. M. Willner and Heinz Reichert—who died on several occasions collaborated with Franz Lehar—was adapted and revised for the American stage by the late Dorothy Donnelly, formerly a Broadway star on the stage. The Berte adaption of Schubert's music was further adapted by Sigmund Romberg who had sat at the feet of Lehar—the operetta king, in Vienna.

* * *

Incidentally the same Viennese original was adapted for the English stage by George Clutsam, one of Britain's best and has been popular there under the title of Lilac Time.

Below is the recorded, nonbroadcast program to be given at the University broadcasting studios at 7:30 p.m. Sunday by the U. of A. Sunday Evening Music Hour: Waltz Music Suite by Handel, played by the London Philharmonic Orchestra under Sir Hamilton Harty; Sonata No. 21 in C Major (Waldstein) by Beethoven with Wilhelm Kempff as pianist; two songs, Death and the Maiden and The Trout by Schubert with Marian Anderson, contralto, as soloist and Mozart's Eine Kleine Nachtmusik played by the Berlin State Opera orchestra under Dr. Weissman.

The surpassingly lovely Ave Maria is employed in one of the outstanding songs in the operetta, Peace to My Lonely Heart. The theme of "The Trout" is heard, while one of Schubert's most tuneful waltzes—in E—is used as the basis for the number My Springtime Thou Art. Then there is the most popular Moment Musical and the Serenade in a special arrangement that is most impressive. These and other undying Schubert melodies will be heard in the score.

* * *

Other notable songs not touched by the themes above-mentioned include: There Is In Old Vienna Town, Love Is a Riddle, Let Me Awake, Only One Love Ever Fills the Heart and Keep Me Young—all songs that cannot fail to appeal. Under the musical direction of Mrs. James B. Carmichael and with a large orchestra and company assisting, a comprehensive cast of well known singers, Blossom Time should prove a magnet for thousands in the last four days of next week.

The Edmonton Male Chorus, which recently presented an arrangement for male voices of J. H. Maunder's cantata, The Martyrs, at McDougall United Church, will repeat the work at Metropolitan United Church, South Side, at 9:15 p.m. on Sunday, March 10. W. J. Hendra, conducter of the chorus since its inception and who has put forth much effort in preparation of the work, will be on the conductor's stand. The men's Club of Metropolitan church is sponsoring the event.

* * *

On Friday, March 15, at 8:15 p.m. the Edmonton-Elgar Ladies chorus, under the baton of W. J. Hendra will present at McDougall auditorium an arrangement for women's voices of Coleridge-Taylor's Hiawatha, with piano and string accompaniment. Long familiar to and ever-popular with city audiences both in the original version and in this arrangement, Hiawatha always proves a welcome evening of good music.

As suggested in this column a couple of weeks ago, Kathleen Busby, young city soprano, is leaving in the near future for eastern Canada, where she will make her debut and continue her studies. She will give a farewell recital at McDougall auditorium at 8:30 p.m. on Monday, March 18, when her many friends and admirers will have the opportunity of hearing her for the last time—for an indefinite period at least. Miss Busby will be assisted by W. J. Hendra, violinist and with Helen Barbour at the piano.

The Donnelly-Romberg version is the one that is being presented by the Opera Society, and originally in New York, a first class road company played here in February and again in March of 1939 and other companies later played the show here, including one in which R. G. McGregor, former city resident, took the role of Schubert.

* * *

Among the themes that come to mind as being used in the score are the main theme of the first movement of the Unfinished Symphony in B Minor—this serving as the basis of the "hit" of the show, Song of Love. Then the main theme of the second movement of the same symphony is used and is the basis for the memorable duet, Tell Me Daisy. The opening of the first movement of the same symphony with its sombre, yearning, haunting melody is employed in one of the most dramatic scenes and recurs at other points. Then one hears the main theme of the charming Rosemunde overture, while the ballet music to Rosamunde serves as one of the numbers sung by the vivacious Mitzi and her two captivating sisters. Then the stirring Marche Militaire is used in a beautiful torchlight Finale to Act 1.

* * *

Other notable songs not touched by the themes above-mentioned include: There Is In Old Vienna Town, Love Is a Riddle, Let Me Awake, Only One Love Ever Fills the Heart and Keep Me Young—all songs that cannot fail to appeal. Under the musical direction of Mrs. James B. Carmichael and with a large orchestra and company assisting, a comprehensive cast of well known singers, Blossom Time should prove a magnet for thousands in the last four days of next week.

100 Years Russian Rule Failed to Faze the Finns

Dared To Protest "Russifying" In Record Petition

This is the second of three stories of Fighting Finland and its struggles of the past which have helped develop the sturdy stock which is making such a stout resistance today against Soviet Russia.—EDITOR.

By PAUL FRIGGENS
Bulletin Service Staff Writer

LIKE Josef Stalin and his Red army, Russia's Czar Alexander waited for winter to attack tiny Finland in 1808. But there was no quarrel with Finland; Napoleon was fighting the British.

Napoleon wanted to shut off the English from the Baltic, had enlisted Denmark as his ally, and approached Sweden. But Sweden, considering the Baltic its own, refused. Whereupon Napoleon decided to force Sweden. At Tilsit he persuaded Alexander to fight Sweden for which he might keep Finland.

So it happened on the morning of Feb. 8, 1808, Russia struck while the ice was thick and the surface smoothest for sledges and supply trains; struck without declaration of war (but behind a white flag of truce) and marched across the Finnish border into Helsinki.

J. Hampden Jackson reviews the struggle in his timely book, "Finland," just published by Macmillan. With that move, says Jackson, Finland was caught once more as a pawn between Russia and Sweden as she had been for centuries, was headed this time toward a 100 years under Russian domination.

PLAIN PEOPLE FOUGHT RUSSIA

WITH that attack, Sweden "moved rustily into action," Jackson writes, but left Helsinki to its own defences while an army was sent north. Russia cut it off, Sweden sent no more help and in May, Turku, the capital, surrendered. When the Russian troops entered they met with a civic reception. "Sweden's cause in Finland had been betrayed by the Swedo-Finnish gentry," writes Jackson.

It was not betrayed by the plain people. Even before Turku's fall, the peasants, in April, took up the battle for themselves, attacked the Russians whom they had learned to hate in centuries of warfare.

Led by three young commanders, the Finns broke the Russian grip on the Aland islands, shattered Russian communications on the east. Waging a fierce guerrilla warfare, the Finns held out five months, won six pitched battles. Outnumbered as today, they pitted 12,000 men against 55,000.

But, also like today, the Russians poured in fresh thousands, and by winter they had virtually won. They pressed on almost to Stockholm, and Sweden surrendered in September, 1809, giving Finland to Russia.

REGIMENTING THE FINNS

IT WAS a strange rule Russia began over the Finns. Finland was erected a duchy with the Czar as grand duke. Finland retained its own law courts, schools, church until almost 1900. And in this period Finland, the country, flowered. Russia seemed content to leave it as a buffer state. It did so until almost 1900.

But in 1899 Czar Nicholas decided it was time to "Russify" the Finns. He withdrew their political independence and General Bobrikov, sent to Finland, began a ruthless program of oppression.

"A protest of the whole nation was organized," Jackson writes. "The press being muzzled, the wires tapped and the mail censored, signatures to the protest had to be collected by messengers running the gauntlet of Bobrikov's agents. In spite of these obstacles, in spite of the immense distances of snow and ice over which the inhabitants were scattered, 522,931 signatures were collected in two weeks from a population which could not have exceeded, in adults and children, 2,700,000. The protest was carried to St. Petersburg, without Bobrikov's knowledge, by a deputation of 500 men representing most of the parishes of Finland. Nicholas refused to receive them. He had taken his stand and nothing would shake him."

FIGHT FOR FREEDOM GOES ON

BUT something did shake him. In June, 1904, Brobrikov was found shot dead and soon after the Finns called a nationwide general strike. Everything was shut down, from trains to restaurants. On the sixth day the Czar's ministers gave in and Finland regained its rights.

In 1909 the Czar tried his coup again and succeeded over bitter opposition. From this date to the revolution in 1917, Nicholas "Russified" the Finns, stripping them of their smallest powers and liberties. Finland became an outpost of the Russian defence system.

And Finland again became conscious of its opportunities. The World War was to provide these and ultimately complete independence.

Air Marshal Bishop Warns War Is Against Entire German Nation

TORONTO, March 2.—Canadians were warned last night by Air Marshal W. A. Bishop not to let themselves believe that war is being carried on against Adolf Hitler alone and not against the German people.

"We must not bury our heads in the sand," he declared in an address to the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario. "We are fighting Germany. Let us no longer believe that we are fighting only Hitler and not the German people. Thirteen million young people bow to Hitler as their God. If we are fighting Hitler, we also must be fighting those who believe in him. People get the government they deserve. The people of Germany have apparently deserved two despots in the last three decades.

MUST FACE FACTS

"Therefore, let us face facts. Let us not hide behind any shallow shibboleth. Let us face the truth and gird our loins accordingly. We are fighting the same ruthless, cruel, lying enemy of freedom against whom so many of you fought before in defence of all that we hold dear in life.

"A limit can be reached where forebearance ceases to be a virtue. No halfway measure nor ideals of mercy on the foe will help us shorten this war. So many of us who have seen our friends and comrades killed beside us in the last war know what a dreadful thing it is. We are fighting the same enemy today who killed those relatives and friends—those gallant men that we ourselves saw die."

During his address, broadcast over a French and English network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Air Marshal Bishop, conqueror of 72 German planes in the last war, pledged to England the services of the Royal Canadian Air Force. To the mother country, he repeated the words of Viscount Craigavon, prime minister of Northern Ireland:

"We are the king's men and will be with you to the end."

PRAISE FOR R.C.A.F.

Tracing the life of a recruit from the time he signed his application to the time he completed his advanced training, Air Marshal Bishop praised the personnel of the Canadian force and predicted a victory for them over the German airmen.

But the Germans were not to be underestimated. British and Allied airmen learned this in the last war, he said. The Germans were clever fliers and good fighters.

Coast Cabarets Wait For Result Of Appeal Test

VANCOUVER, March 2—Vancouver cabarets will be blacked out each Saturday night after midnight from now on—at least until the British Columbia Court of Appeal has ruled on the case of a night club recently convicted in police court of breaking a civic bylaw covering early closing.

Irish Prisoners Barricade Selves In Dublin Jail

DUBLIN, March 2—A group of prisoners, alleged members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, held in Mount Joy prison without trial under the government's new emergency laws, yesterday barricaded themselves in a wing of the jail. Civic guard reinforcements were called to aid guards in overpowering the prisoners.

Determined Suicide

ST. MARGARET, Eng., March 2—After trying to shoot himself, drown himself, and cut his throat within four hours, George King finally succeeded in committing suicide by hanging himself in his barn.

FILM ACTRESS DECLARES SHE WAS NOT LOST

OGDEN, Utah, March 2—A report that Gloria Dickson was "lost" was just her husband's "silly idea," the young film actress told reporters yesterday.

"I am not lost. I never have been lost. The whole thing is absolutely ridiculous," said Miss Dickson, poking her head from a stateroom on a westbound train.

Miss Dickson had been reported missing by her husband, Percy Westmore, Hollywood beauty expert.

In African forests, paths made by elephants are important arteries of travel.

Britain Lauds Canada Support For Red Cross

TORONTO, March 2.—Canadian support of the Red Cross chest has surpassed even Great Britain's support of it, Dr. F. W. Routley, Canadian Red Cross Society commissioner, said yesterday in an address before the Toronto Rotary club.

"The people of Great Britain regard the spontaneous response of Canada to the words of the Red Cross as magnificent," he said, pointing out that Canadians have contributed $5,000,000 already which is more than that raised by the British Red Cross up to the present.

The first appropriation for the development of aviation in the U. S. Navy, for $23,000, was made in 1911.

ITALIAN SHIPS BRAVE BRITISH SEA BLOCKADE

ROTTERDAM, March 2.—Three Italian ships, loaded with coal from Germany, cleared this Netherlands port yesterday despite a British warning that shipments of German coal to Italy would be subject to seizure on the high seas after midnight.

A fourth ship flying the Italian flag sailed unloaded for Antwerp, while 15 others, busily loading coal cargoes, closely guarded the hour of their probable departure.

The British decision to clamp down on German coal exports to Italy, hitherto exempted from the two-way blockade of the Reich, was viewed by Dutch trade circles as the finishing blow to transit of German exports through The Netherlands.

Rotterdam already has lost three-quarters of the normal volume of this export business, most of which has been carried by Dutch ships. Italian ships have carried most of the German coal consigned to Italy.

THIS 'n' THAT

By Ken Motheral

THE way these South Side athletes are dominating the inter-school competitions is amazing. The Scona bantams have captured the league championship for their division and the senior and junior teams from south of the river are in the running for the other two titles. Th boys' basketball circles the Scona hoopsters have just about the same edge of superiority. And if memory member rightly, the South Siders have been dominating inter-collegiate rugby-football circles for many a year. In fact a large portion of Southern Alberta have been so used to seeing South Side clubs opposing them for the provincial title, they are beginning to think there is only one high school in Edmonton. A fine thing! We salute you Scona. You're a little bit of all right.

• • •

And while we're busy thinking about sport, we'll just take time off to toss a few orchids to 17-year-old Johnny Schaefer of Kinistino, Indiana. Incidentally Johnny was only a year old, he injured his left arm so severely that it had to be amputated. But that didn't stop Johnny taking part in sport competitions. Four years ago he started to play soft-ball. And he put so much power behind his one-hand wallops that he was the leading hitter on his club. During the year he banged out four home runs. And circuit clouts are plenty rare in the "soft" version of the diamond sport.

CHILD stars come a dime a dozen these days, both on the radio and screen. Jane Withers, Shirley Temple, Baby Sandy and Gloria Jean are household words throughout the continent. But how many of you have heard of Phyllis Chalzel, who is considered one of the really great child actors on the stage and radio? Phyllis has done just about everything in the entertainment world in her 14 years as an actress, including stage and radio acting, writing, directing, singing and dancing. Yes, Phyllis is still a youngster—only 16 years old. She started performing in the entertainment field at the age of two years.

• • •

Miss Chalzel has won little personal recognition because of the fact that she has portrayed her characters so realistically that the audiences have thought more of the character being depicted than the person depicting the role. Phyllis has won prizes for poetry, has done a script which was accepted for broadcast by a leading chain and somehow manages to work in tap dancing practice, teach dramatics and go to school. At the present time she is directing a show, which will be presented shortly in the New York Music Hall. Another youngster makes good!

C.G.I.T. Notes

By ETHEL BRIGGS

The regular monthly meeting of the Girls' Council will be held on Saturday, March 9. As the other rooms of the Y.W.C.A. are not available, the meeting is to be held in one of the church rooms. Councillors will be notified as to which church.

First Baptist: The Baar Ljose group held their first play practise and the girls received their parts. The play will be under the direction of Norma Pyle. On Tuesday the full department went for a trip through the Edmonton City Bakery.

McDonald Baptist: The Friendly group held a discussion about the Life of Christ. The Akita group were given a personal talk on hygiene by Miss Jean Gray.

Scona Baptist: A lively sing-song was led by Miss Genevieve Thompson before the groups divided this week.

Metropolitan: One group is making scrap books for a children's hospital, while the seniors are busy choosing parts for their play. Miss Mary Van Sauch has been chosen as director.

Erskine: Mary Livingstone's group is busy on the fourth part of their missionary study. The Shipmates held a supper meeting.

Westmount: The department of Westmount held their meetings together this week. The juniors held a skating party on Friday.

Wesley: The Intermediate group is working on missionary study while the seniors planned their play for the Drama Festival.

VICTORIA

By Ib Nonnecke

As everyone knows the Vic school sweaters are for winter use only. Therefore to make the Vic students cooler in summer the "Argosy" has made arrangements to make sporty summer school sweaters. These sweaters will be of the sweat shirt style and cloth will be entirely white with the school name and crest in red in front. These sweaters will be available to students some time in March when the first order will come to the school.

On Friday an athletic party was held at Vic. The arrangements were under the direction of Ralph Gardener and "Babe" Ewasiuk.

Next Friday a tit and dance will be held, sponsored by the Union.

SOUTH SIDE COMPOSITE

By Ray Banham

"Tune In," the largest enterprise of our school year, is over. As every one who saw the performance knows, this musical comedy was a smashing success.

With the operetta over, our attention is drawn to the annual Sat-urday night, March 9, when the annual formal will be held in the Normal gym.

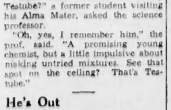

March promises to be an active month for the students of S.S.C.H. The "At Home" will start the ball rolling and at the next Union meeting plans will be made for future events.

Hot stuff! A glance at the hockey standings shows us that the seniors and juniors from S.S.C.H. are both on top of the pile, and for your information they intend to stay there. Of course you already know that the bantams have won the city championship.

Yeah! South Side Composite!

"What ever become of Philip Testube?" a former student visiting his Alma Mater, asked the science professor.

"Oh, yes, I remember him," the prof. said, "a promising young chemist, but a little impulsive about making untried mixtures. See that spot on the ceiling? That's Testube."

He's Out

The employer looked over the job applicant. "What was your last job?"

"Diamond-cutter."

Impressed, the business man said, "Oh, jewelry business, eh?"

"No. I pushed the lawn mower at the ball park."

Thinks For Himself

Edmund Ironside, 13-year-old son of Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, is not disposed to follow his father's footsteps. He is shown lunching with his mother on their return to London from France where, as guests of General Gamelin, Commander-in-Chief of Allied armies, they saw Sir Edmund decorated with the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor. Having given the matter thought, Edmund decided that he preferred the Navy to the Army as a career.

Leaders' Training Corps Is Organized To Promote Youth Activities At Central United

Last week-end, at Central United church, the Central Leaders' Corps was organized for the sole purpose of successfully promoting boys' work in the Central community of Edmonton. The group plans to train leaders for the numerous groups lacking adequate leadership, provide prizes and very necessary programs, and in general, do everything it can to meet the very prominent 'boy problem' of that district.

The Corps is organized as a group for the theoretical part of its leadership program and into four committees for the practical part of its work. An advisory board consisting of Rev. A. F. Marsh, W. Yule, B. Brink and Al. Youmans has been selected to work in an advisory capacity to this Corps. .

The committees include the devotional, consisting of Crawford Gray, Doug. Mitchell, Tom Paton and Robert McClary; the social, consisting of Tom McCreath, Horace Dickie, James Gee; the physical, consisting of Jack Bolsdeer, Jack Moffatt, Cecil Loughlin; and the intellectual with Ernest Fairhead, Kenneth Torrance, Arthur Prior, Secretary-treasurer of the group is Keith Watson.

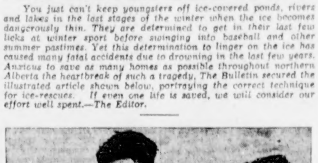

Meetings will be held weekly, both for the Corps itself and the four committees.

Lessen the Number of Drowning Tragedies Due to Spring Thaw

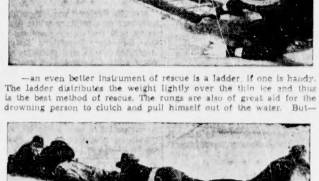

You just can't keep youngsters off ice-covered ponds, rivers and lakes in the last stages of the winter when the ice becomes dangerously thin. They are determined to get in their last few licks at winter sport before swinging into baseball and other summer pastimes. Yet this determination to linger on the ice has caused many fatal accidents due to drowning in the last few years. Anxious to save as many homes as possible throughout northern Alberta the heartbreak of such a tragedy, The Bulletin secured the illustrated article shown below, portraying the correct technique for ice-rescues. If even one life is saved, we will consider our effort well spent.—The Editor.

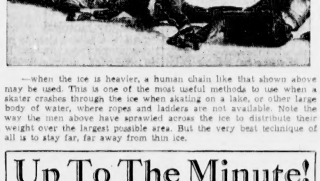

The "victim" is shown above after crashing through a thin spot in the ice. Vainly he tries to extricate himself from the hole, but his clutching hands only break away the ice. Left alone he would soon succumb to the frigid waters and drown—

For a nearby person to attempt to pull him out would probably only add a second victim to the fatality list unless that person followed the technique shown above. Sprawling on ice to distribute his weight over a large portion of the treacherous surface, the rescuer loses a rope or a pail—or some other handy weight—to the victim and pulls him to safety. Or——an even better instrument of rescue is a ladder, if one is handy. The ladder distributes the weight lightly over the thin ice and thus is the best method of rescue. The rungs are also of great aid for the drowning person to clutch and pull himself out of the water. But——when the ice is heavier, a human chain like that shown above may be used. This is one of the most useful methods to use when a skater crashes through the ice when skating on a lake, or other large body of water, where ropes and ladders are not available. Note the way the men above have sprawled across the ice to distribute their weight over the largest possible area. But the very best technique of all is to stay far, far away from thin ice.

ST. MARY'S

By Josephine Nuss

In reply to insistent demand from all sides, the executive finally broke down and consented to organize another skating party. It was held Friday at the Central rink.

Last week the executives of both St. Mary's and St. Joseph's had another conclave, resulting in the settlement of the all-important Easter Dance. The date has been set for Wednesday, March 27. Members on the committees are Mary Snuiton, Lois Nelson, Josephine Nuss, Elmer Abele, Hubert Bibby and Bob Morrow.

A very exciting game between Scona and St. Mary's was held last Wednesday with both teams playing excellent basketball. The game ended with the score 19-14 in favor of Scona.

WESTMOUNT

By Bert Nightingale

Confucious say: "High school punk who fails to study for Easter examinations will find Easter bunny leaving goose-egg on his report card." And this thought is being taken well to heart as W.H.S. students burn the midnight oil in an effort to brush up on latent knowledge. Examinations started Friday for the Grade XII's, with tests doled out to the Grade X's and XI's in the meantime. Thus the academic month!

A badminton club is to be organized after the examinations and a theatre party is also scheduled.

EASTWOOD

By Wilma Van Deelen

Sports activities held the spotlight at E.H.S. this week. Wednesday featured a doubleheader basketball game, in which both the boys' and girls' teams were slanted. The girls successfully defended themselves against Vic 18-13. High scorers were Alda Fisher, Margaret Colville and Pearl Morrell. The boys were defeated 38-33 by Scona.

Winners of two divisions of the provincial ski tournament were Bob Jackson and Ralph Hyde, both Eastwood students. Bob Jackson is now competing in the Dominion meet at Banff.

The Badminton Club held a sleigh-riding party on Friday. This was followed by a dance in the Cromdale hall. Arrangements were made by June Ford and Bert Mullen.

TECHNICAL

By Pat McMillan

That fatal piece of news hangs on our ears—confirmed. Informing us that the examinations will commence on Monday, March 11. This puts an end to the majority of student activities for the week.

Our Tech Bantams were forced to bow to a 1-0 decision with Scona in the final playoff. The girls' hockey team were defeated by an all-star Vic team on Thursday, but triumphed Friday 6-10.

The Science Club visited a local News agency establishment on Thursday evening.

Youthful Photographers Will Get Opportunity To Display Skill At Boys', Girls' Fair

The launching of the Annual Boys' and Girls' Fair has taken careful planning by the executive and the directors. This year, as in years gone by, there has been many changes and improvements in various classes. The class of photography under the able directorship of Newton Van Allen, has undergone numerous alterations for the benefit of every possible entrant. A student of Victoria High school, Newton is also a member of the Edmonton Amateur Camera Club and is therefore able to judge in what different divisions young camera enthusiasts would be likely to compete.

Mr. Van Allen is endeavoring to co-operate with the different city and school clubs and promote an inter-club competition. He has consulted city photographers interested in the progress of Edmonton youth and has adapted his class to their suggested improvements.

As the attraction for home movies is growing greater year by year, a special section has been arranged for both black and white and technicolor films. Many boys and girls that have taken Christmas scenes, skiing trips, and various photographic cards will find a class suitable for these entries.

Camera fans will be interested in the fact that a special class has been added for such features as night and flash pictures, stop action shots and table top work such as photomicrographs. Other phases of this class include candid camera shots, portraits, nature views, landscapes, child architecture and enlargements.

Developing and printing may be professionally done anywhere unless specified. All pictures must be taken by the exhibitor and prize winning pictures of other years will not be accepted.

Normal Notes

By DAGMAR EDWARDSON

Highlights in last week's activities was the program, "Normal on Parade" presented in the Edmonton Normal school auditorium on Friday and Saturday. Much credit is due the directors and the many students who participated in this most successful "variety" program.

Hats off to members of Class F who came out on top in the ticket selling campaign. Recently, both girls' and boys' basketball teams from Wainwright were defeated in the Normalites in the Normal gym. The teachers-in-training again improved their worth when they scored a 9-3 victory over the Arts students Thursday.

The newly-appointed social committee under their convenor, Miss Verna Glabolt, gave substantial evidence of their efficiency at the social gathering last evening.

McDOUGALL COMMERCIAL

By Dorothy Currey

What a night!!! Good ice, a good crowd, a grand band, all this intermingling with the good spirits of everyone at McDougall's sent the skating party of the season a huge success. That long awaited event was held on Friday evening at Central Rink, and now the hopes have been raised high of a great deal more which will be held soon—weather permitting.

At a recent meeting of the Chronicle staff, Dorothy Currey was elected as Assistant Editor in place of Mary Nightingale who has left school. Lois Knight was elected as News Editor. Due to an unavoidable delay the Chronicle will not be out until the latter part of the coming week.

The Dramatic Club are now working on a play which they will present in three weeks. At the regular meetings they are carrying on a series of pantomimes and new members are welcome at any time.

During December, 1939, air passenger traffic increased 74 per cent over December, 1938.

There's a war on this side of the Atlantic now, but it's just the battle of Connecticut and Massachusetts oyster growers with the starfish. Everyone in the business there is being urged to join the fight on the scavengers, which cause a $1,000,000 yearly loss. Starfish, as scavengers, don't confine themselves to decaying matter—in addition to oysters, they attack clams, mussels and other partially stationary creatures. And it's no wonder the loss is so heavy—starfish like to eat. A young one, three-eighths of an inch in diameter, ate 50 young clams almost his own size in six days!

Russia is stealing a leaf from the sub-tropics' book . . . the Soviet is growing pineapples! The plants have been set out in several large experimental farms, and a third of them have already born fruit. Most pineapples attempted have been failures—they flopped in Florida, for example, because of disease and comparatively cold winters. The pineapple is choosy about its location, demanding a warm climate and porous, well-drained soil, but isn't particular beyond that. About all the care it needs is weed-removal.

Insomniacs will go to college soon—not to learn medicine or engineering, but how to sleep. Columbia University has announced, for this spring, a course in slumber. Perhaps the students can learn some facts not known about rest—there are plenty of them to discover. It is known that every organism must have time for recuperation. Even the heart has a short period of rest between beats. And as for the body, despite this need, won't it still — the average adult, while asleep, changes position every 15 minutes!

Italy, already possessor of one of the most irrigation systems in the world, is expanding its works. The series of canals, just announced, will benefit 1,200,000 acres of farming land. Irrigation is an old activity. The Egyptians employed it 4,000 years ago and other countries irrigated in the dark of their history. No wonder—20 inches of rainfall is considered necessary to most agriculture, yet nearly half of the world's populated surface is below that mark. But some crops require even more—in several Southern States, where the precipitation is from 40 to 80 inches annually, 1,000,000 acres of rice are artificially watered.

Sunflowers not only have the color of gold, but in Argentina they're being cultivated by farmers there use them for fodder and to stimulate bee culture, and plow them under to enrich the soil. The towering plants, with their 14-inch flowers, have long been recognized as valuable. The oily seeds are used in Southern Russia as poultry food, the leaves are eaten by stock in many localities, the flowers yield a yellow dye, and a lot of people use the oil on their tables.

FORGERIES, REPRINTS AND FAKES

Fakers have been known to fake watermarks. When their genuine was needed to confirm the "genuineness" of a forgery, or to add to the value of a stamp that is common without the watermark. Many forged watermarks are made by pressure, in which case they show clearly when the back of a stamp is looked at, but when one looks through the stamp, the watermark is not transparent. In an endeavor to make a really good job of faking a watermark, the paper will be thinned down by scraping the watermark design, resulting in the characteristics of a true watermark. Such work should be really viewed under a strong glass, as the fibres of the paper will be broken.

Nowadays, especially, the collectors eagerly seek many postmarks, and the forger has had experience in imitating these, while "overprints" and "surchargers" have, of course, always been a forger's delight.

ODDS AGAINST THE FORGER

The odds in favor of the forger are not heavy as he has no difficulty in producing his wares, and with modern methods, it is probably easier to make fairly good forgeries and fakes nowadays than in the past, but the knowledge and equipment of the modern collector and dealer is more complete than at any earlier period, and, following many years of reliance on experience supplemented by an intuition which was often the result of experience, the experts are turning to science for help, and are finding instruments with which to make the work of the forger very much more difficult to market. In addition, collectors are in much closer touch with sources of information as to new forgeries through the Philatelic press and collectors' clubs and societies.

Dealers and collector-experts very often adopt an ostrich-like attitude regarding discovery of forgeries. The former think that if information about forgeries is given in their papers, collectors will be afraid to buy stamps, while the latter seem to be of the opinion that the forger will be helped to improve his work if details or the small errors by the make are published. Both these standpoints should appear to be in error. The collector who wanders in the dark without any information about forgeries is the one who is going to get scared, whereas if from stamp papers, or other sources, he can learn to identify forgeries he will be much better able to protect himself, and will feel safer to that extent. It is true that the forger might be able to improve his next batch of duds if all the details were published regarding the differences between the genuine and the forged stamps, but it is not necessary to publish all the skill of the expert is such that they are able to identify each batch of forgeries as they come along, and those of most identification feature of each batch may be published, and the public properly protected.

The forger is not beaten but he is held, owing to the intensive knowledge of specialist collectors and dealers, backed by the instruments at their disposal. If proper use is made of the organizations which carry on this expert work the stamp collector has little to fear.

Novel Party Is Arranged By Isles' Group

TRIBUTE to the Welsh spirit and the culture and grace its people have brought to Alberta was paid by N. B. James, member of the last legislature, at the annual banquet of the St. David's Welsh Society in the Corona hotel on Friday evening.

"The Welsh people coming to Alberta have brought an artistic and a musical culture to this province, and have shown their ability to blend their native spirit with that of the new country, adding to it without losing their own identity," he said. "Such a spirit is needed in this present crisis, and the bonds between the Welsh in this country and in the Old Country serve to increase the ties of Empire."

Mayor John W. Fry paid tribute to the late J. J. Duggan, outstanding Welshman of this city, whose death occurred recently.

"Not being Welsh," he said, "I cannot pay the tribute I would like to pay to you, but through my associations with Welsh people, as mayor, and with my Welsh neighbors, I have become more keenly aware of the splendid citizens you are," he said.

The guests stood in silent tribute to the memory of Mr. Duggan.

TOASTS TO ST. DAVID

Toast to St. David and to Wales were proposed in Welsh by Mrs. Gordon James and E. H. Jenkins. D. M. Duggan, son of the late J. J. Duggan, Welsh boys in this province who have gone overseas.

Mrs. James briefly outlined the history of St. David, and told of the tremendous influence he had over the Welsh people.

Mr. Jenkins stated that the Welsh were among the first Britons to inhabit the Old Country, and told of the contribution they have since brought to the British Isles, while preserving their own language, customs and culture.

E. E. Davies acted as chairman of the banquet.

PROGRAM

A musical program was presented during the banquet by the St. David's Male Voice choir, conducted by Mr. J. J. Williams. Frank Williams, Mrs. G. M. Blackstock and Mrs. D. Jones. Community singing of Welsh songs was led by Jack Jones. Mrs. Ernest Meaden acted as accompanist.

Guests present included Mr. and Mrs. George L. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, Mr. Ivor Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morris, Mr. and Mrs. D. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones and Mrs. D. Oswald Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. W. Roberts, Mrs. K. Robertson, Mrs. Wm. Thomas, Mrs. Arthur Davies, Mrs. L. Mellon, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Knowles, Mrs. John Milne.

Seventh Dog Show To Benefit Children In University Hospital

There is a parallel story to the history of dog shows sponsored by the Edmonton Junior Hospital League, which this year is slow to be held on Monday and Tuesday, March 25 and March 26, in the Memorial Hall of the Exhibition annual event, for it is by funds realized at the dog show that the league is able to carry on its work for the children patients (infantile paralysis cases) in the University Hospital.

Carried on day by day and month by month by the "teacher" Mrs. A. C. Smith, the work of the league helps the children to keep up with school work, and, to learn helpful hobbies and provides a cheery, child-like background for the children to live in while their bodies are being treated.

"School" is conducted by flashing cards—multiplication, addition cards, word cards, in front of the kiddies. During the year ending in January 103 patients took prescribed courses in public school work under Mrs. Smith. Some of the pupils do their school work on the stoves, others recite their lessons—they all "go to school."

Mrs. Ronald Marchland is in charge of the event, Mrs. John Wright Procter in charge of receiving entries. An office will be opened at the Hudson's Bay Company store of Friday, March 8, and will remain open until Saturday, March 16.

Do You Know?

MISS ELIZABETH B. GERWIN

Secretary to Mr. G. B. Taylor, assistant registrar at the University of Alberta. Miss Elizabeth B. Gerwin was born in Edmonton and has lived most of her life in the city. She received her public school training at Ritchie and Strathcona public schools and, later, moving with her family to Mardiaty, attended high school there.

Upon graduation from high school, she enrolled at the University of Alberta. Majoring in modern languages, she graduated with honors and received her bachelor of arts degree at the convocation exercises in 1936.

Winner of a University research scholarship, she made a survey of German people residing in the province and, writing her thesis upon tht subject, received her Master of Arts degree in 1938.

Upon graduation, Miss Gerwin worked in the examinations branch of the department of education and has only recently—in October of last year—accepted her present position. She is secretary, also, of the Edmonton branch of the University of Alberta Alumni Association.

HOBBIES

Music, reading and sport form the basis of her program of entertainment after hours. She is a student of the piano and a singer as well. A member of the Garneau United church, she sings in the choir of the church. She is passionately fond of reading, and has three languages at her disposal—English, French and German—with which to indulge her hobby.

She is fond, too, of skating.

Religion: Protestant.

Residence: 11151 84 avenue.

Business address: the registrar's office, University of Alberta.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home
It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.
To get quick relief from a distressing cough, try this famous home remedy. Once tried, you'll say it's your favorite cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.
First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.
Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a concentrated combination of Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial irritations.
Put the Pinex into a 16-ounce bottle, and add your sugar syrup. Fill the bottle with 16 ounces of very efficient remedy, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils.
And for quick, blessed relief, it is splendid. You can feel it penetrating through the throat in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy and helps you get restful sleep.
Just try it, and if not pleased in every way, your money will be refunded.
Sweet Bells Jangled Out of Tune
Hysteria or nervous exhaustion has marred the life, as well as the beauty, of many a charming woman. Nothing so quickly brings the care lines and wrinkles of age as the worry, irritability and jitteriness which are associated with exhaustion of the nerves.
There is a way to overcome this condition effectively and that is by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You, of course, know of this medicine but perhaps you have failed to realize what great good it has in store for you. Why not change your condition of unhappiness and win back good health and the beauty and joy which goes with it?

Speak For Canada

By Nellie McClung

(Copyright Reserved)

WORDS fall into bad company, like people, and acquire a bad name quite innocently. Take the word "propaganda"—a proper word, which began life innocently enough when Urban the Eighth in 1622 set up a college called the College of Propaganda, to prepare priests for missionary work. Unfortunately for the word it is now associated in our minds with the name "Goebbels" and concentration camps and secret police.

But we cannot let it go at that. There is something we should do, doing, here in Canada, with our own people. We have been too tight-lipped and sure of ourselves. Let us not be too sure that all our people's minds are unaffected by foreign propaganda. Someone should be speaking out for Canada, early and often. We take too much for granted.

There are two bodies of opinion doing an injury to Canadian thinking. Class A are the fundamentalists (I do not mean to start a theological discussion). I mean the people who believe that the British Empire has always been right, could never do wrong; that anyone who ever dares to question any action of the British Empire is boring under the foundations of law and order, and should be tried as a traitor.

I have many of these fundamentalists among my friends, and I envy them their peace of mind, and gladly admit that they are delightful people to know.

When one of the members of the B.C. legislature criticized British rule on the floor of the House, the fundamentalist had just one remedy for her—deportation. A fellow member, who belongs to Class A too, in the heat of anger recommended corporal punishment. But he did not get a seconder, and after a spate of letters, full of sound and fury, the incident died away. No one was any wiser or better, and some hard things had been said on both sides. But not know yet just what was said by the member, but I am quite sure it could have been answered, and without abuse. Vilification is not argument.

Class B are the subversive ones, who remember every mistake ever made by the British Empire; who tell half a story, who twist the truth to suit themselves. Native Cough-lin is a good example. He pours out hatred for Britain on the radio, and is eagerly listened to by hundreds of thousands. He is an emotional, illogical, dangerous man who appeals to the baser passions of men. He does no harm to the intelligent listener, for the intelligent listener tunes him out. But we should ignore such a stream of vituperation and half truths coming across the border.

DONNYBROOK FAIR

For my country I have always craved something similar to Hyde Park in London, where any person can speak on any subject that is not indecent. A place where old spites and grievances can be drawn into the open. I know it sounds like a Donnybrook Fair with broken heads and black eyes. Election time is not just the psychological moment for launching such a project. But that will soon be over.

A letter from a woman in one of the prairie provinces started this vein of thought. She is evidently a woman of intelligence, but the victim of gross misinformation. She took violent objection to my reference to the Finns and their gallant stand against Russia. She said I had become an apologist for war, and a defender of the capitalistic system. She said Russia is fighting for the liberation of the workers in Finland, etc. She is an Englishwoman, and her husband served in the last war. Now, it's easy to wave such cases aside and put it down to ignorance and Communistic literature, but these are our people; we can't desert them. They are the victims of half truths.

Lady Tweedsmuir's distribution of books on the prairie has done something to keep our people thinking sanely, but a book is a cold thing at best. We need something more direct and personal.

RUSSIA CHANGED

Situations change overnight. The whole face of Russia has changed since the leaders of the 1917 revolution have been purged. Litvinoff and his associates, who had a vision of brotherhood, the emancipation of laborers from ignorance are gone, and black tyranny rules in their place. What was true six months ago is not true now.

Now, instead of holding on to the old hope that Russia was solving some of the problems of production and distribution (in which many of us shared) we have to acquaint ourselves to the black disappointment which came when Stalin showed his hand in his union with Germany and in his unprovoked attack on a peaceful country.

We have to begin here and now without burrowing in the past, for the war is on. We have taken our place with the friends of liberty. There is no turning back. We must strengthen our hearts for the hardest struggle we have ever endured. Impatient people are crying out in their anguish that God has deserted the world. His church has failed and hope is gone. But they are wrong. We were never promised an easy road. We were promised strength and guidance for a hard road, and that has not failed.

MASSED BOMBINGS

If all the nations of the world were consenting to the injustices and cruelties of the dictators we might well despair, and say that mankind had gone into slavery. In a booklet that bears the date December 7, 1939, printed in Finland, I read these words, spoken by the president, amid the terror and confusion of massed bombings:

"We do not deny that, nearest our hearts, are our own homes and the whole system in which we have become rooted, which is now threatened with destruction, but it is just through these values that we have been able to contribute our share to the world's culture. . . . The rule of force can be erected only on the ruins of western civilization."

While people, harassed and tormented, worn in body and soul, in danger, in weariness, torn by anxiety, and saddened by loss, can utter words like these, we, in Canada, should cast from us the last bitter suggestion of selfishness and gloom.

Dorothy Dix Says:

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — Leap year has a lot of boys trembling in our boots. It is hard enough for us to steer clear of the altar when we have to do the actual proposing ourselves, so how are we to play safe when the girls have the right to pop the question?

THE BOYS.

Answer;

Take heart, you timid dears. Being proposed to is not half so unpleasant as experience as you seem to apprehend. In fact, it has its points, even for a man. It is soothing to his vanity, for one thing, and, for another, it may offer unexpected opportunities for gain. For surely no girl would be so little a lady as to ask a man to marry her if she was not able to support him in the style in which his father had always done.

Also, believe it or not, you are really safe, in case you prefer to be a bachelor, now than you were when girls had to do all of their courting on the sly, as it were. It is the difference between being pursued in the open, which at least gives you a chance to dodge, and possibly escape her who is after you, and being chased under cover so silently and secretly that you do not even suspect your danger until the noose is about your neck.

Furthermore, when a girl asks you to be hers you can flatly decline the honor, and that's that. But what can the poor simp do who is insidiously inveigled and manoeuvred into saying the fatal words himself some night when the moon is shining and even homely girls look pretty and he has had too many cocktails?

Now, as to the etiquette of the occasion, I confess I am unable to speak. I should think, however, that if Miss Millionbucks should take your mitt in hers and say: "Dear John, marry me and your workworn hand shall never have heavier labor to do than cut coupons," that the proper thing would be to clasp her to your manly breast and say: "Gee, Emily, that's a swell job and I am ready to sign on the dotted line." Something sweetly sentimental like that, you know.

And the timid man might fall back on the feminine formula of "How sudden this is! I never expected you felt about me like that," when Sally Gogetter offers to share he fist and job with him. And the widower with small children might at least say "yes" and "thanky," to, when the old maid offers to mother his brood.

No, indeed, being proposed to isn't at all bad medicine. The fact, it is pie. —DOROTHY DIX.

Create Beauty Spots In Your Garden

Put in Trees the Right Way

An old well in a bower of blossoms! Lovely to have such a beauty spot in your garden—and you may plan one, if you prefer, around a birdbath or a rustic seat.

For shade, and a riot of blossoms in season, have flowering fruit trees such as crabapple or peach. These you may plant in early spring—other trees too.

First dig a hole large enough for the roots at full spread. Loosen subsoil (A in the diagram), add a layer of sod, leafmold or old manure (B), a layer of fine soil (C). For support have a stake next to tree and pass buy wires through rubber hose at trunk (D).

Climber roses, shrubs such as the white-flowering spirea will complete your picture. They will thrive year after year with simple care. Close-to-the-ground pruning in early spring often rejuvinates old spirea. Prune laterals, worn-out wood of climber roses.

Complete instructions on planting and caring for roses, trees, shrubs, lawns are given in our 32-page booklet by a noted horticulturist. Write now to this bureau, perennials, herbs, bulbs, vines. Gives directions for fertilizing, checking pests.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of How to Plant and Care for Your Garden to Home Service, The Edmonton Bulletin, Edmonton, Alberta. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Heart - To - Heart Talks

By Kathleen Norris

Young Wives, Beware!

Yesterday a lawyer from Bill's town called on me. He says that Bill's wife has gotten possession of these letters.

WHEN the mother of a 18 or 18-year-old girl advises her against doing something, or warns her about it, she is usually actuated by pure affection and loyalty to her daughter.

She knows that the years between 16 and 23 are the years when a woman who is indiscreet, reckless, inexperienced, can throw away all the happiness of her later years.

Thousands of girls do, and live to regret it for the rest of their lives. But somehow they never will believe that their mothers are right.

"MOTHER OLD-FASHIONED"

"My mother hasn't the least idea of how things are today," they write me. "Mama is so old-fashioned that it's perfectly maddening. Mama thinks the most innocent things are dangerous. Mother doesn't want me to have any fun. My mother is always afraid of what the neighbors will think."

Any explanation of her anxieties will do, except that she is your mother, and loves you, and wants you to grow safely to honorable and happy womanhood, and not make mistakes.

"My mother talked to me the night before I was married," writes one woman, "and if I'd taken her advice seriously I might have spared myself the misery I'm in today. But I always thought of Mother as straightlaced and fussy, and I didn't pay much attention. She told me always to put Len first in everything, and, like all brides, I did more than that. I put him first at first. We had a dear little boy and were very happy for the first few years.

KNEW BILLY AS GIRL

"Then a man I will call Billy turned up. I had known him as a girl, and we had had a pretty exciting time after Prohibition. He told Len. Nothing wrong, but we had been engaged, and I thought Len ought to know.

"Mother had never liked Billy, partly because he is divorced, partly because he is quite a sport. But he is very attractive to women, and when he showed that he still admired me I didn't mind making Len a little jealous. This worried Mother terribly, for she adores Len.

"When Bill went away after a short visit he asked me to correspond with him. He sent me books and articles, once a beautiful handkerchief, and once perfume. His letters were amusing and admiring and I answered them, saying a good deal more than I really felt. This was about a year ago. We wrote each other about every ten days, so I suppose he has at least thirty of my letters.

BILL'S LAWYER APPEARS

"Yesterday a lawyer from Bill's town called on me with a great deal of discretion and secrecy that drove me nearly mad. He says that Bill's wife has gotten possession of these letters. Never having dreamed that he was married at all, I was shocked beyond words. I said that I had not known that Mr. D. was married, whereupon this horrible man said 'But you knew you were, didn't you?' She wants $1,500 for the letters or she will sue for divorce, naming me. Some of these letters I signed 'Your-little-wife-that-should-have-been,' and others the pet names he had given me in his letters. Our actual relationship was always strictly within the bounds of morality, of course.

"I did not close my eyes last night and I am half frantic today. At first the lawyer said he would be here until I decided what to do, but he telephoned this morning to say he is going back to Trenton and will wait to hear from me. What maddens me was that I have never been in love with Bill, but only enjoyed this correspondence as a sort of romance. My husband and child are my very lifeblood, and any thought of trouble at home breaks my heart. I do not even know that Bill is married; it may be that he needs money and trusts he will get it this way. For the sake of a home, a good husband and an innocent baby, do, do help me find some way out!"

THRILLS AT AN END

Poor Joan, she has had a whole year of flattery and excitement and the thrill of a secret love affair; she has made nothing of Len's rights and Len's dignity, and now she expects to be extricated from it in a few minutes! The matter has been far too long in building for that.

Her only way out is one of humiliation and estrange and risk. Joan has been stuffing greedily on poisonous sweets for twelve whole months. Now for emetics and castor oil and general wretchedness.

For she will have to tell the whole story to her husband at once, and have him get in touch with some friend in Trenton, or some city authority, who can find out exactly what the engaging Billy's marital status is. If he really is married, then Len, Joan's husband, might write him, remind him that he has some letters from Joan and ask their return. This may work, inasmuch as Billy may not want trouble with his wife over them, should Joan turn the tables and inform her of anything that has been going on. If Billy isn't married, the matter is comparatively simple. Joan's husband may ask for the letters, thus showing Billy that he knows of their existence, and so spiking Billy's guns on blackmail. Then forget the whole thing.

JOAN MUST CONFESS

Whatever the outcome, Joan's complete confession to her husband must be the next step.

"And is it a crime to write to a man when you're married to another?" many a young wife who is playing with the same sort of fire may indignantly demand. No, but the advice of Joan's mother was good advice. Put your husband first. Don't do anything that you wouldn't like him to do. Keep your own friends, of course. But keep them as a wife, not a flirt. Act like a woman embarked upon a serious business, not a few lawns still in the market for affairs. There's no law against writing letters, affectionate, romantic, emotional, to a married man. There's no law against making a complete fool of yourself. There's no law against living on chocolate cake and sleeping in a bathtub.

TERRIBLE ALTERNATIVE

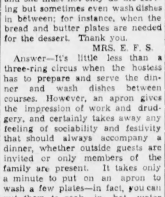

For a long time after this stabbing experience Joan will be a very meek and devoted little wife. She'll have to be. The alternative, divorce, and the surrender of her child, as being an unfit mother, is too expensive. A few of those "little-wife-that-should-have-been" letters would convince any court of domestic relations that Joan was a pretty flighty parent. She's now held a sharp and effective knife in Len's hands. For months, perhaps for years, he won't believe anything she says. If she needs a defense action for him, if she cuddles the small boy, praises her home, expresses delight at living there, Len may look on with a cold and unconvinced eye. I know of one case in which a marriage has gone on for the sake of two daughters, for thirty years. The couple are proud grandparents now, and approaching old age. But the young wife's infidelity in the third year of her marriage destroyed something of love and trust that was beautiful and fine and dignified, twenty-seven years ago, and it has never been wholly restored.

So don't despise mother's suggestions, you younger girls. They have been won from that same hard school of experience that you have to face. They form that most valuable possession that a wife or any other woman can have. The impalpable, undefinable, indispensable thing called CODE.

Changing Daily Routine Will Prove Restful

What To Do

By ALICIA HART

3-2

For the sake of her appearance as well as her spirits, the woman who cannot take a late winter vacation or even a short trip, figures out some way to vary her daily routine. At this time of year, something to change the pace of day-in-and-day-out living is a happy thought.

You might, for instance, try to manage to get away from household responsibilities every afternoon for a week and use these free hours to pay social calls you've had time to sit down and talk to for at least a year. You might visit an art gallery, go to a gymnasium for some much-needed exercise or take time to talk to the librarian about waiting lists you want to be put on.

Sounds too simple, you say? Well, it is simple. But it is just as true that finding time to do a few things for yourself pays big dividends in the way of improvement in outlook and therefore health.

GIVE YOURSELF A DAY OFF

Even one entire day with which to do whatever you please is a help. You might arrange to have someone stay with the children while you do some early-morning shopping, have your hair washed and set, then go to an afternoon movie or to tea with somebody you don't have a chance to see often. Such a day might do as much for you as a new hat or even a weekend holiday.

It's important that every woman allow some small part of each day for herself anyway. She needs at least an hour for a nap, to read, do her nails or just quiet in the cold cream jars or simply to think and plan her life.

A quiet few minutes alone often are exactly what it takes to eradicate the worry lines of the day, the harassed expression around the mouth.

Will you believe that at 8 months or thereabouts, a baby will be able to recognize family names? Well, he can, so we're told. And now you say "no, no" and he will know you don't want him to do something on the bed. He understands fat and more than we think he does. He just doesn't know how to let on that he knows. And he'll please don't think he is dumb.

Language specialists tell us that at a year, babies actually know nearly a hundred words. One puts it at 84, but another insists on a still larger vocabulary. It depends on how closely for one thing. Much talking, or other children near, enlarge his chances for learning. He will talk earlier in a chatty family, too.

And now, at a year, he begins to know what a command means. He already knows when he must not, but now he gets the other a little better.

Suppose he tears off his cap. If we say: "Put it on," he is just as likely as not to try to get it on his head again. That is the first symptom of direct and active thought as we know it. Obedience consists of the "do" things as well as the "don't" orders.

He likes his noise and his motion mixed. He doesn't like any kind of racket very much. He likes to see, except music and sounds he recognizes. He also gets embarrassed, believe it or leave it, when people laugh at him. Bad business that is. It is the beginning of that old devil we all have, hurt pride. From 9 months on, this mite is going to be all eyes for praise and all ears for being made fun of. Watch it.

And now, with this picture of baby, we know that we have a real person to reckon with, not just a little puppet that moves to our strings.

Perhaps you may want to know how fast his sight and hearing are up with behavior.

GROWING INTELLIGENCE SHOWS IN HIS EYES

He begins to know faces at 10 weeks. At 3 months he distinguishes pretty clearly the lamp from the stove and the bottle from the bottle. Distinction is budding. Another month or two and he'll reach for the things his eyes behold. "Get. Try hard," say the eyes. At six months his eyes have such an expression of intelligence surely no one could call him a dummy.

Eyes and ears are not only the keys to knowledge, but to feelings as well. At a year, baby is so full of impressions as a record.

Raising A Family

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

O. R. Barton

Debunker

Catherine de' Medici once took the notion of producing a race of midgets so she promoted matches among the living midgets of her day. The experiment failed fort wo reasons: First, that most such matches prove sterile, and second, that those who do produce offspring do not produce midgets, but normal sized people. This has since been found to be a biological law. Likewise, any two short people who marry are likely to produce children taller than themselves, while tall parents much less frequently produce short children. It is possible to produce a race of giants as Friedrich Wilhelm I set out to do before his death, but it is not possible to produce a race of midgets in this way.

You Can Have Your Glamor And Eat It Too

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Eat and be glamour and live longer. That's the advice of Mariposa, who has just written a book combining much sense with some nonsense called "Hollywood Glamour Cook Book," or a "Thousand Ways to Make Yourself Beautiful." It contains these items (and many more) sensible recipes.

HOLLYWOOD BREAKFAST CEREAL

One rounded tablespoon unbolted wheat ground) cornmeal or rice bran, 1 rounded tablespoon whole wheat cereal or vegetable flour, 1 tablespoon soy bean flour, ¾ cup fruit juice optional or oatmeal flour, a pinch each of bag salt and herb-salt, 3 cups boiling water.

Stir into boiling water and cook for one hour in double boiler all night. Place on the back of the stove or over your pilot light overnight, where it will be warm for breakfast in the morning. Stir several times before retiring to prevent cornmeal from settling to the bottom. Heat again while heating it for breakfast.

TUNA FISH SIZZLE, DOWNING

(Serves 4)

Three cups boned tuna fish fresh or canned, ½ cup finely chopped okra, ¼ cup finely chopped celery, 1 tablespoon minced chives, ¼ tablespoon lemon juice dash of paprika, dash of salt, 2 tablespoons best tub butter, a few sprays of parsley, for garnishing.

Mix all ingredients together thoroughly. Select 4 shallow, individual glass or earthenware dishes, line well with butter. Fill the baking dishes and make in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 20 minutes or until a nice golden brown. Top each dish with a spray of parsley and serve. Do not combine with starchy foods.

VITAMIN BROWN RICE PUDDING

Two cups cooked brown rice 4½ cups whole milk; 1½ cups raw or brown sugar, 1 fresh egg, added last, 1 cup raisins (optional), 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon salt, a dash of herb-salt.

Stir sugar into the cooked brown rice, alternating with milk; add raisins, nutmeg and herb-salt. Place in a large buttered glass or earthenware baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (325 to 350 degrees F.) for 30 to 40 minutes or until the pudding is an even brown on top. Remove 1½ cups rice to a soup plate, beat the raw egg swiftly into the hot rice with a small wire whisk, or fork, and return to the pudding. Stir all together and serve hot, or slightly chilled with whipped or plain cream, if desired. However, the beaten egg makes it very creamy. This pudding combines with any meal.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit juice, Hollywood breakfast cereal, tiger cream, brown sugar, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tuna fish sizzle, Downing, mixed green salad, chocolate Indians, tea, milk.

DINNER: Pan-boiled round steak, tomato and butter, mashed potatoes, spinach, celery, vitamin brown rice pudding, coffee, milk.

LENTEN MESSAGE AT MCDOUGALL

Rev. A. K. McMinn, the minister of McDougall United church will continue his Lenten messages speaking on Sunday morning on "The Greatest of the Miracles" and dealing with that which wrecks every splendid effort for moral and social reform and prevents the creation of a better world.

At the evening service a stirring and gripping religious drama will be staged by a cast of nine young people, five men and four women. The drama is entitled "Into Thy Kingdom" and is written by Dorothy Clarke Wilson. The scene is laid in the sunrise room of the home of Caiaphas, the high priest. In the early morning of the third day after re-resurrection of Jesus Christ.

It is a searching and inspiring drama staged in impressive simple manner in a setting of worship which adds to its power to reach heart and conscience.

Honor Wales At Knox Service

A special service to mark the feast of St. David will be held in Knox church on Sunday night. The minister, Dr. MacDonald, will have as his theme "St. David, a tradition in music, courage and faith." Bible Society Is Doing Fine Work

Lady Astor recently informed a Gloucestershire audience that Joseph Stalin once asked her why England had a third of the world. There was a map in the room with huge Russia and large Germany, and these little islands in one corner, so she pointed to it and said: "It cannot be might, so it must be right. There must be something right in their thinking." Asked by Stalin to explain further, Lady Astor referred to the Bible which, she reminded him, the English had had for so long in the mother tongue, "When the common people began to read the Bible they became an uncommon people."

6,000 Mice Die

FARMINGTON, N.Y., March 2.—A $1,750 garage fire cost 6,000 lives Thursday. The dead were white Swiss mice, valued at $1,000 by their owner, Robert Bowerman, who said he had been raising them for a hospital for experimental purposes

J. W. Smith. Mr. Scragg will be in his own pulpit at night and will speak on the subject "A Radiant Certainty".

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon at all Christian Science churches on Sunday. The Golden-Text is II Corinthians 4:6. One of the Scriptural citations is "For God, who commanded the lgeht to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

Among the citations is the following from the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is "Jesus' example, his church and maintained his mision on a spiritual foundation of Christ-healing. He taught his followers that his religion had a divine Principle which would cast out error and heal both the sick and the sinning." (p. 136).

CANADA LIVING COSTS ADVANCE LITTLE IN WAR

BRANDON, Man., March 2—Post-master-General C. G. Power in an address here last night stated, as proof that Canada entered the war "on an even keel," that the cost of living in the Dominion advanced only 3-4 per cent during the first six months of war.

Canada is organizing on an economic and civilian basis that will direct every effort toward winning the war, Mr. Power said in a speech in the interests of J. B. Matthews, Liberal candidate in Brandon riding.

He gave great credit to the civil servants carrying the bulk of the work under direction of cabinet members. Two years before the outbreak of war, when world events indicated it was coming, the Liberal government had set the proper machinery in motion to prepare Canada for such a catastrophe.

Coldwell Claims Aberhart's Plans Are Unworkable

MACLEOD, March 2—M. J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. chairman, here yesterday, told a meeting Alberta Premier Aberhart's economic reform plans were unworkable.

He said that just as bondholders were assured of interest payments for war bonds so should soldiers who come back from this war be provided for until he is re-established in civil life. If he doesn't some back, his dependents should be cared for.

Terrorist Bomb Breaks Windows

LONDON, March 2.—A bomb, which police said they believed might have been planted by members of the outlawed Irish Republican army, shattered several windows in a London store at midnight last night. No one was injured.

LAPOINTE TALKS AT CENTRE FOR THREE RIDINGS

Minister Of Justice Pays Tribute To Hon. J. A. MacKinnon

Addressing a meeting at Lamoureux, near Fort Saskatchewan, on Friday, Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Canada's minister of justice, stood in the federal riding of Vegreville, but his audience were all in the riding of Edmonton West.

Lamoureux is the point where the federal ridings of West Edmonton, Vegreville and Jasper-Edson meet, and the boundary line runs directly through the Parish Hall where the meeting was held.

LAUDS MACKINNON

Rt. Hon. Mr. Lapointe paid tribute to the work of Hon. James A. MacKinnon at Ottawa, and said that with his elevation to take charge of an administrative department of government after the elections, the West Edmonton member would be in an even better position to be of service to Alberta than he had been in the past.

On the platform with the justice minister and Hon. Mr. MacKinnon were Senator Blais of Edmonton and Dr. A. E. Archer of Vegreville, federal Liberal nominee, both of whom spoke briefly.

ARCHER MENTIONED

Rt. Hon. Mr. Lapointe stressed the capabilities of Dr. Archer to meet the problems of the people of Vegreville, while Hon. Mr. MacKinnon devoted his attention to Canada's war preparations and gave a resume of the government record in that respect. He also outlined what was now being done to speed up Canada's war effort.

Rt. Hon. Mr. Lapointe left Edmonton Friday afternoon in a department of transport plane for the Pacific Coast.

VARSITY GRAD MENTIONED IN CRITIC'S BOOK

Fraser Macdonald, graduate of the University and now a teacher in Lacombe where he is also choir leader in St. Andrew's church, has received an autographed copy of "The Well-Tempered Listener," by Deems Taylor, music critic and consultant for the Columbia Broadcasting System. A letter written by Mr. Macdonald to Mr. Taylor forms part of one of the chapters of the book. Mr. Macdonald wrote the letter after hearing one of the Sunday afternoon talks by Mr. Taylor during the regular concert of the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra.

City Welsh Folk Honor Their Patron Saint

—By Bulletin Staff Cameraman

More than 200 Welsh folk in Edmonton gathered at the Corona hotel Friday evening to honor St. David, patron saint of the Welsh. Songs and tales of the home land provided pleasing entertainment for the gathering. Shown above are some of the people seated at the head table. From left to right are: Mrs. E. H. Jenkins, Mrs. N. B. James, N. B. James, E. E. Davies, chairman; Mayor John W. Fry, Mrs. E. E. Davies and Mrs. W. T. Williams. Others seated at the head table included Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Blackstock, E. H. Jenkins, W. F. Williams, Mrs. R. B. MacKenzie, and Mrs. Wootton. In the foreground are Mrs. M. A. Sharpe, left, and Mrs. John Oare. (See story Page 8.)

RIDING ASKED RETURN KING GOVERNMENT

Casselman Appeals For Support At Beverly Campaign Meet

Declaring that the war "is the important thing right now," Lieut. F. C. Casselman, M.C., city alderman and Liberal candidate in the East Edmonton Dominion constituency, addressing a public meeting at Slavonic Hall, Beverly, Friday night, appealed for his own election and the return of the Mackenzie King government.

Mr. Casselman, speaking as a veteran of the World War, declared: "I believe that Canada's front line trench is in Europe. If we wait for the war to come to Canada we wouldn't last two weeks before the mighty mechanized power of the Nazis."

DON'T SWAP

He counselled the people that it was better to return the King government, which had proved its worth in carrying on the war, rather than "swap horses in the middle of the stream" and return another government of "unnamed men."

Mr. Casselman declared that "Much credit is due to the King government for the prompt and efficient way they have handled the situation so far and have taken almost from the beginning, to secure Canada's maximum effort and to prevent the abuses of the last war."

He dealt with the necessity of maintaining the home front. He lauded the King government as being the first to definitely tackle the problem of price disparity between primary products and manufactured ones—citing the wheat and fish bonuses and advocating that this should be extended to coal.

MACDONALD SPEAKS

Ald. Hugh John Macdonald, K.C., spoke briefly in support of Mr. Casselman and recalled that he had taught in a Beverly school.

W. J. Maslinch spoke in Ukrainian on the issues of the election.

The meeting was largely attended. Several questions were asked of the candidates, mostly dealing with problems affecting the individual asking the question.

Cottage Plan

Two more "sunset cottages" for aged couples may be built this year by the city, with the Lions' club furnishing the homes, on the site of other similar cottages near the south gate of Borden Park. The project was started in 1937 and it is planned to eventually have 16 duplex cottages on the site. Four of these were built at the inception of the plan. Built on a revolving fund plan, the new cottages are expected to cost some $4,000.

Inquiring Cameraman

THE QUESTION:

Dean Saks, of 11252 94 street, wetted the curiosity of The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter along sport lines sufficiently to win one of The Bulletin's dollars with a roundup question on pertinent sport subjects of the day: "What team do you think will win the Alberta Senior Hockey League championship, and how will it fare in the Allan Cup playdowns; and do you think the west should keep their own football rules, or give in to eastern football moguls?"

THE ANSWERS:

LORNA McLEAN, 9203 117 avenue: I'm sure hope our Flyers will make a good showing, but I'm afraid Calgary or Turner Valley will win this year. Lethbridge can't be counted out either. I haven't any idea how the Alberta Golfiet will make out in the playdowns. As far the current football squabble, I'm all for the west keeping their own rules. We can get along nicely without those old stuff-bidgets in the east.

Lorna McLean

D. S. Archer

D. S. ARCHER, 9634 107 avenue: I do sure hope our Flyers can get a good club and can really play hockey if they want to. If they don't I'll sure be mad. The east and west should get together on the football situation. This continual squabbling is getting tiresome. However, I think the west should be foolish to compromise to such an extent that they would have to give up all the color in their game.

WOODROW CASE, 8805 88 avenue: I'm pulling for our Flyers. I hope they will go all the way, cleanup in the east and bring home the bacon for a change. Personally, I'm strictly neutral on the football question, although I do enjoy watching the games as they are played out here.

H. A. Brown

Woodrow Case

H. A. BROWN, 9114 105 street: Lethbridge appears to have the strongest senior team in Alberta. They are really rolling now and should cleanup in the west. However, I'm afraid the east will take Woodrow Case the Allan Cup this year. I haven't been following the football mixup so I'm not qualified to give an opinion on it.

MRS. T. VISER, 153 street and 97 avenue: East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet, seems to be a very fitting caption for the current football war. If the east is afraid to play western teams, why I guess we'll just have to let them alone. Turner Valley looks like a good bet to cop Alberta hockey honors, but the Allan Cup is a big mystery to me.

W. Gwynne

Mrs. T. Viser

WILLIAM "BILL" GWYNNE, 11731 94 street: I'll keep pulling for Flyers as long as they have the barest chance, but I'm much afraid that one of the southern teams will take the hockey laurels this year. Don't just forget the east when it comes to football. If we were to play a full season under eastern rules, the western champions would smear the east so badly they'd probably lay assault and battery charges. Then there would be a sweet mess to untangle.

AROUND THE TOWN

Jules Audette, former manager of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, is leaving with his family Monday night for Montreal. A farewell luncheon will be given Mr. Audette by his French-Canadian friends in the Edmonton club on Saturday.

S. A. G. Barnes and John H. Green, candidates of the Independent Progressive Association in the provincial elections, were the chief speakers at a rally held in Calder Public School on Friday night. Ex-Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., who is not a candidate, spoke in support of Mr. Green.

Mrs. Agnes Gertrude Dalsin, 49, of 10563 76 avenue, died in the city Saturday. She is survived by her husband, six sons, Leo, Ralph, Bert, Clifford and Ronald at home, and Goodwin of Banff, Alta., and six daughters, Norma, Marjorie, June, Joyce, Doris and Audrey at home. Rev. Monsignor Carleton will officiate at the funeral service Tuesday at 10 a.m. from St. Anthony's pro-cathedral. Interment will be made in the South Edmonton Roman Catholic cemetery. Hamilcock and Son are in charge of funeral arrangements.

Rev. Ross K. Cameron will officiate at the funeral service of Alexander D. MacKenzie, 76, of Suite 111, Bradburn-Thompson Block, whose death occurred Friday. He is survived by his wife; one brother, A. B. MacKenzie of Edmonton, and three sisters, Mrs. J. S. Purvis of Las Animas, Colo., U.S.A., and Mrs. J. A. Taylor and Mrs. J. C. McTavish of Edmonton. The funeral service will be held Monday at 2 p.m. from Howard and McBride's chapel. Interment will be made in the soldiers' plot in the Edmonton cemetery.

Representing the Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer, Dr. Harold Orr, and John Blue will address a meeting of the Business Men's Club of the Riverdale Community league in the Rundle church hall, Monday at 8 p.m. F. D. Sutcliffe has arranged these seeing of talks on subjects of a timely nature.

Tax collections in the city for the first two months of 1940 are up $74,706 over the corresponding figure last year, it was revealed by City Assessor Thomas Walker Saturday. Collections were: Current land taxes, $1,164,846; land tax arrears, $192,134; and business taxes, $3,238, making a total of $1,360,231 as compared with $1,291,544 for the corresponding period in 1939.

Rev. S. Shewchuk of Vancouver has been named assistant pastor of the clergy staff of St. Josaphat Ukrainian Catholic Church, 97 street and 106 avenue. He will be associated with Rev. S. Dydyk, parish priest of St. Josephat's. For the past two years he has been superior of the Ukrainian Catholic mission in the coast city.

Men and Money Answer Finns' Plea for Help

Finland's call for help to stem the Russian invasion is being answered with men and money in Edmonton. Saturday the Scandinavian Committee to Help Finland poured scores of taggers out on Edmonton's streets seeking cash contributions in aid of the Finnish cause. And from Winnipeg came word that already eight trained men are now en route to Finland.

The taggers will work in three shifts. The first appeared on street corners at 9 a.m. All funds will be cabled immediately to Finland, Rev. C. S. Lyang, campaign manager, said.

Already from Edmonton V. Kivela, 25, and H. Hellinius, 35, both former Finnish soldiers, have set out again for their homeland. J. W. Deschamps, 25, French Canadian pilot, and E. Brassiner, 36, air engineer, both of Edmonton, have also been accepted for service and are now in New York awaiting passage to Finland. Other volunteers have come from all parts of the Dominion, and include Brifon L. Whyte of Calgary, pilot.

VOTE LISTING 75 PER CENT. FINISHED NOW

Expected To Be Completed Saturday Night, Crawford Says

Enumeration of the Edmonton provincial constituency was 75 per cent completed Saturday and by nightfall was expected to be completed, according to H. H. Crawford, returning officer. Any last-minute delays might run the work over until Monday, by which time every detail will have been completed.

Mr. Crawford stated that lists were being handed in by enumerators as fast as they could be handled and as they were turned in they were being posted.

Total of 200 enumerators have been engaged on this work. Mr. Crawford stated that up until Saturday, only one nomination had been filed, namely, Edward C. Fisher.

It is expected that between 15 and 20 candidates will contest the five Edmonton seats.

Candidates have until 2 p.m. on Monday March 11 to file nomination papers. At that hour Mr. Crawford will declare nominations closed and will announce names of candidates who have filed.

Nominations for the Dominion election close at the same time.

BIRD FANCIER SELLS PIGEONS SOUTH AFRICA

Edmonton pigeon fancier, Thomas Walters, 11420 105 avenue, has received an order for some of his pigeons from South Africa. The order for 10 of them came from R. J. Neill of Cape Province, South Africa. The birds, when received, will undergo blood tested by a veterinarian surgeon in compliance with the law in the country to which they are being shipped. This is the second order Mr. Walters has received for his birds from distant points. He won four prizes with his pigeons at the January poultry show here.

MacKinnon Will Speak At Meet Young Liberals

Hon. James A. MacKinnon, P.C., federal liberal candidate for West Edmonton, will address a joint meeting of the Young Men's Liberal and the Twentieth Century Clubs in the I.O.D.E. hall, 103 street, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Other speakers will be Ald. Hugh John Macdonald, K.C., and Gerald O'Connor, both Citizen's slate candidates in the Edmonton provincial constituency, and J. J. Cheney president of the Twentieth Century Club.

ALBERTA HAS BIG FUTURE IN TOURISTS

A.M.A. Expects Large Influx Of Travellers From United States

Greatest tourist year in the history of the province and the future predicted Saturday for the coming summer by J. A. McNeil, secretary of the Alberta Motor Association.

"Requests for information on all parts of Alberta is far in excess of this date in past years although the greatest number of inquiring are for information on the National Parks and the two great scenic highways that will be opened this July through the heart of the Rockies.

BEST IN WORLD

"One of these is the 190-mile stretch between Jasper and Lake Louise and the other is the 100-mile stretch from Golden to Revelstoke along the Big Bend. These two roads will bring to tourists the greatest mountain, river and glacier scenery in the world.

"Indications of the widespread interest in these two roads can be seen in the fact that we have received queries concerning them from Motor Clubs in both Los Angeles and New York," Mr. McNeil said.

"The A.M.A. has prepared and sent a special letter to the touring bureaus of the 700 clubs throughout the U.S.A. requesting them to advise all tourists desiring to visit Canada that they will have no difficulty in crossing the line, either going or coming, nor will they be subject to any different conditions while in Canada than they were prior to the war.

"In addition to this, President Roosevelt has issued a proclamation to make 1940 known as "Travel America Year" and Prime Minister Mackenzie King has issued an invitation to the American tourists to visit Canada this year. As a result of all this interest and publicity Alberta can truthfully look forward to 1940 being the banner year for tourists in its history," Mr. McNeil said.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

ANN BROOKS, orphan daughter of a gambler, alone in an unfriendly city.

PAUL HAYDEN, stock room boy with ambition.

STEVE CLAYBOURNE, wealthy playboy.

CLARA BROOKS, dime store counter girl.

IRENE TEMPLE, society debutante.

YESTERDAY: Ann makes it clear to Paul that she has no intention of marrying him, and they agree on a movie date. Later she meets the other roomers in her new home. One of the girls, Florabelle, promises to arrange a date for Ann soon.

CHAPTER X

CLARA said, "This is our place, Ann. Come in and start living with me."

Ann followed her into a small living room. Worn carpet, sagging chairs, limp curtains, grimy walls covered with pictures. Evidences of Clara's artistic attempts crowded the room. Artificial flowers, blatantly artificial, sprang stiff from cheap vases and bowls. The pictures were garish and impossible. Little china dogs and cats and elephants littered the tables and window sills. A cot, covered with a pseudo-oriental rug, did duty as a davenport.

Off the living room was the kitchen, a small cupboard arrangement with doors swung wide. Through a door in another wall, Ann glimpsed a bedroom. In spite of the atrocious color combinations, the place had a homey, pleasant air.

"Isn't it nice?" Clara asked proudly. "The furniture belongs to me. When Ma divorced Pa and married Dave she gave me the stuff. Pa didn't want it because he was marrying Rose and she had swell things."

"It's very nice." Ann agreed, wondering what her little violet plant would think of the riotous atmosphere.

Clara led the way to the bedroom. Ann's quick eye noticed that the bed was a good inch thicker than the one she had left. Clara pulled back a curtain which hung from a shelf. "This is the closet. See—You can have half and two drawers in the dresser. Pretty nice diggin's, don't you think?"

They were interrupted by a quick knock on the door. "It's Sam," Clara exclaimed, "my boy friend—the one I told you about." She opened the door to admit a big, loose-jointed youth who looked most uncomfortable in a necktie and ill-fitting suit.

"Hi, Sport," Clara greeted him. "Come here, Ann, and meet Sam Little. Little—" she laughed. "Isn't that a name for him?"

The young man awkwardly held out his hand and Ann put hers into it. His hand was huge, hard as a table top.

"How do you do," she said politely.

Clara bustled into her coat. "We're going to the movies. Make yourself at home, Ann."

"I will."

She watched them as they went down the stairs. She saw Sam kiss Clara at the turn. She stood there a moment, thinking of Clara and Sam. Were they in love? Was that why they had kissed?

Strangely enough, Ann had never been kissed. The reason was quite simple. There had been no opportunity while she travelled from one end of the country to the other with Pete, always under the watchful eye of her mother. And there had been no opportunity since.

She thought of Paul Hayden with a quickening of the pulse. Perhaps he would kiss her some day. But no, he was afraid of girls, afraid that one of them might marry him. Ann sniffed. He needn't worry about her. She heard an impatient honk and Neddy and Teddy, one a definite repeat of the other, tripped down the stairs.

• • • •

Ann went back to the bedroom. She put clean newspapers in the dresser drawers and carefully placed her few belongings in neat piles. Clara's jumbled toilet articles had been moved to one side and she set out her jars and boxes, comb and powder puff. She got the wire hangers from her bag and hung up her dresses and coats.

A warm feeling of home enveloped her. The girls in the hall had been friendly. It was nice to know that Clara would come in later. She had a date for the next evening—a date with Paul Hayden. Perhaps life had found her at last.

She placed the silver spoons under her nightdresses and carried the plates and cups to the kitchen. Here disorder reigned. Her fingers itched to get at it and she did a little preparatory straightening. She'd buy shelf paper—only a dime—and a tough little scrub brush—a nickel at Clara's store.

"Mind if I come in?" It was Florabelle, still in the orchid draperies, still insolently smoking.

"Mind? I should say not. Sit down." Ann came from the kitchen and dropped into a chair, curling her feet under her.

"God, I'm sleepy." Florabelle groaned, throwing herself among the rainbow hued cushions on the cot, stretching her long, lovely body. "Didn't get in until 4 this morning."

"Gracious—I'm afraid I couldn't work if I stayed out so late."

"It's all in getting used to it. I figure I won't always be young and may as well make hay while the beauty lasts."

Ann could think of nothing to say. She thought, "You're beautiful but not so terribly young."

Florabelle said, "Guess you haven't been around much, Ann."

"No—well, in a way, yes. I've lived in almost every city in the United States. I've stayed in the best hotels and—"

"Well, well—" Florabelle sat up. "Looks are certainly deceiving. I thought you'd come from Yahoo or somewhere. Not that you look like a hick. What are you doing in a dump like this? Lost your cunning?"

Ann flushed. "I travelled with my father. He died a year ago. I've been on my own ever since."

"Oh, I see." Florabelle got to her feet, yawning. "Come over and see where I hang out." She trailed across the hall and Ann followed. Stepping inside Florabelle's door, her eyes opened wide.

The apartment, architecturally speaking, was like her own, but the furnishings were vastly different. The walls were pale yellow, the woodwork had been painted silver, the carpet was dove gray. Chromium glittered.

There was a low davenport flanked correctly by two overstuffed chairs and a coffee table with a glass top. Lamps and ash trays and pictures of men stood upon other tables. A radio, encased in aquamarine colored glass, hummed softly. The room was ornate cheaply and fantastically modern.

"It's—it's very lovely," Ann said.

"It'll do." Florabelle pushed the bedroom door open and Ann received another shock. The bed was low and wide, it was soft and thick, a velvet cover fell to the floor. The dressing table, two small chests separated by a shelf, stood below an immense, circular mirror. There was a gold brocade slipper chair and a wardrobe. The door of the wardrobe stood open and Ann saw rows of gowns, shoes on a rack, hats in transparent boxes. Beside the bed, on a chromium table, stood an ivory telephone.

Florabelle opened another door and displayed a small bathroom. "Mrs. Follet made this out of a closet," she yawned. "I had to have a private bath."

Somehow, the place shocked Ann. She said, because Florabelle expected her to be impressed, "It takes my breath away to find such a beautiful apartment on Mrs. Follet's third floor."

"Well—I just happen to be here."

Ann said, "I want lovely things some day."

"Why don't you have them?"

Ann's eyes widened. "I can't afford them. I only make fifteen a week."

"It isn't what you make. It's how you manage."

Ann looked dazed. "If you know the answer I wish you'd pass it on to me."

"Get men to give you what you want."

"I don't know any men. Anyway, I wouldn't—"

"I said I'd fix you up." Florabelle looked Ann up and down, her eyes droopy and speculative. "I went with a rich guy once," she said. "He bought this stuff for me because he said I deserved beautiful surroundings. He had the place redecorated and paid Mrs. Follet to have the bathroom put in."

Ann looked at her new friend with faint suspicion. "Wasn't that a great deal to accept from a man?"

Florabelle started to laugh, then thought better of it. "We were to be married," she said. "He was getting the place ready for us."

"And did something happen to him?"

"Yes, something happened."

"Oh, I'm sorry."

"You needn't be." The telephone rang and Florabelle hurried her guest out. "Come every few minutes," she said.

Ann went back to the worn carpet and artificial flowers. She sat down and thought for a long time.

Not Only Adders Sting

A Bulletin Short Story Complete On This Page Every Saturday

By Douglas Newton

WHEN an abrupt political crisis, coupled with poisoned rose-petals in his sherbet, removed Ngwato, Kai of Karishimbi, to a better and, it is hoped, less tropical world, raising his cousin, Ba-Chwene, the Son of Apes, to the Ivory Stool, it was no doubt no more than the normal process of succession in Africa's Bitter Water Belt. Or it might have been had it not disorganized one of Savaran's minor dreams of Empire.

That gypsy-adventurer having been in Karishimbi only long enough to list his enemies, was not in the secret. Indeed, he had risen with more than his usual zest that bright morning, donning with a notable nicety a new field marshal's jelabia of green over a kraftan of daffodil and silver.

He was to accomplish the hanging of Seleka, Wizar and prime source of evil in the realm that day, and it was characteristic of him to do it with magnificence as well as despatch. Only as he stepped from the door of his house in the Guards Compound, did the screech of a bullet two inches from his fulturine nose warn him that changes of government were in the air.

Before him stretched the royal parade ground, apparently deserted of all life—until the shot sounded. After that it became almost too congested with Karsihimbi's home troops as they raced forward to bury their shovel-headed spears in his midriff.

The lank adventurer did not tarry upon their pleasure, he knew Karishimbi too well. His redoubtable pistols leapt into his hands and spoke, and those not quick enough on the turn died amid the increasing dust of universal flight.

Also when that dust thinned there was no Savaran. No sight of his bizarre arrogance in the square, no hint of him in his house when the mob gathered enough courage to gut it. He had vanished as he alone could, leaving only the shouts of searchers to tell Ba Chwene and Seleka that the Fear of Lions was still free and death for usurping kings and shifty Wazirs was abroad in the city.

Savaran heard the yells yet was not so flattered. His own continued existence was rather more important at the moment, since he recognized that Karishimbi city was a trap which gave even his genius in escape few chances.

He headed not for the open but for the royal palace itself, on the assumption that no hiding place is so safe as under the nose of the pursuer. Also he entered the royal rabbit warren by that hole in the wall through which the more sanitarily advanced families of Karishimbi get rid of their rubbish.

Pausing in a veritable Holy of Holies of stenches, darkness and disease-carrying flies abutting the royal larder, he stripped off his gaudy robes and, all but mother naked, merged his dark-skinned body into the shadows of the honeycomb mess of chambers that filled the darkling pile.

Armed Men Howled For Savaran's Blood

The chase was hot on his heels. Armed men baying for blood, were pouring into and along the jig-saw corridors, forcing him up the dark and ladderlike stairs. In first floor passages he twisted left, aiming for the royal wing. But at the last turn of the passage he spun in his tracks like a hunted cat—the rattle of spear butts and the growl of voices warned him that the sacred person of the king had realized the necessity of many guards.

Back along the galleries again, only to halt in ten strides. Voices coming toward him told him that swords were closing in from that end. It seemed the finish, for there was no stair to help, but catching the glimmer of light through a door hanging, he dived through, crossing the room at a bound and found himself on a balcony overlooking a dark inlet from the Karishimbi River.

Not a pretty prospect, for it was full of crocodiles who, stirred by the unwonted shouting, were lifting their ugly snouts in hopeful anticipation of unexpected meals.

No way out there and not much anywhere else, for only a crazy balcony on the floor above offered perilous possibilities. Savaran sprang to the rail and, as it sagged and cracked under his weight, leapt upward, catching the rickety beams of the balcony above, hoisting himself to it with the power of his steel-wire arms.

Half of it was lattice screened and from the rooms beyond this came a twittering shillness that meant only one thing—the harem. It had possibilities for as supreme a master of hearts as armies, but not at that moment. Women in the bulk always thought of screaming before loving; so ignoring even the open section he lengthened his arms and climbed further.

Escape From City Found Impossible

A moment later he was lying flat and panting on the roof, could survey the situation and note its hopelessness.

The royal city of Karishimbi is a substanaial dung heap admirably adapted for the harboring of assassins and other regular citizens against the world and its laws, but highly incompatible for those who wish to escape from it.

A broad river hems its dusty battlements on three sides. Not only is it commanded by gunfire from the wall, it is so deeply infested with crocodiles that they lie on each bank as thickly as logs in a Canadian timber boom. More, they are highly practical crocodiles, used not only as scavangers but to save hangman's fees.

The fourth side of the city is a black and bottomless swamp that no man can pass except by the single causeway road that winds across it from the city's land gate. The guards were already stopping and seaching every man and beast that left the city: also they had strung watchers along the whole length of the road to examine each passer, while a whole company blocked the end where it reached firm land.

The Hunt Reached Its Deadliest Phase

Ngwato, the dead king, had been a weak youth with good intentions. He had been just wise enough to realize that he was but a puppet figurehead, under cover of which the gangsters, who really ruled his court, were able to exercise, without risk, their talents for greed, extortion, tyranny and viciousness. Recognizing that the crown was hated for the sins of others and also that he himself had no capacity for dealing with the cunning of the criminal junta at whose head was the powerful Wazir, rightly named Seleka, the Adder, he had called in Savaran to aid him clean out the crooks.

Wazir seeing the profits of power and graft swept away by an ideal for honesty backed by a ruthless sword for enforcing it, recognized that swift action was necessary. When Savaran with no more than a riding switch and the terror of his bearing stalked through the armed mob of hand-picked murderers who were Ba-Chwene's retainers, and plucked even that vicious cousin of the King from the diwan of Chief Justice and, with his own scornful foot, kicked him into an obscurity where his gifts for tyranny and greed would flower no more, Seleka saw his chance. Ba-Chwene was of royal blood and, if hated by the people, would yet be the right ruler to deal with Savaran if supported by Selcka's power. Therefore the poison did its work, Ba-Chwene was now king, and once Savaran was wiped out vice would rule again.

Huddled among his guards a few roofs away, Savaran saw the waddling figure of the new king. As Savaran sighted his pistol and waited for the shifting guards to uncover the figure, another shape appeared among the shields. Seleka the Wazir had come hurrying with some fresh news.

From the gestures of the Wazir's hands and the shouts that followed, Savaran guessed what that news was. His discarded clothes had been found, and all Karishimbi now knew that he was somewhere in the palace. He heard, indeed, the royal bellow of fear, the screech of Seleka's command, saw the guards swirl and scatter as they came running over the roofs. The hunt had reached its deadliest phase—it was about to work downwards from the roof as well as up from the ground.

Savaran was over the parapet in a flash, climbing back to the crazy balconies. The topmost sagged and groaned under his weight and he could almost feel the upraised jaws of the crocodiles waiting to catch him as he dropped. He swung desperately to the end free from the lattice—a beam broke under his hand and he was falling. With a frantic wriggle he twisted to save himself, hit the rail, hung, poised for a moment, then, by the luck of his star went inward onto the boarding.

He Kissed As Only a Great Lover Knew How

He was up at once and diving for the dim room beyond, for a tall, muffled, rawboned shape was flinging at him, knife swinging. He ducked the blade, grappled a creature of iron and lathe, who bore him down so fiercely, that he himself dropped to his knee, twisted and flung the fellow with all his might against the door jamb. As the man crumpled and fell within the room, Savaran snatched the dropped dagger, waiting for him to rise again, but he did not rise. He did not move.

But beyond the room a tall, slim shape turned sharply against the latice of the further window, and in a single leap he was across, his gripping arms about her—and telling him it was a woman. For all that he held her savage and hard against his body, crushing her face to his chest. He could master women more prettily, but there was no time for parlor niceties.

Already the passage outside the room was clamorous with the clash of weapons and the shouts of men. He shot a glance at the door and saw, as became the harem, that it was of stout timber and shut. Yet would that door, even the sanctity of the harem hold back men mad to kill?

He heard hands upon it, fumbling and thumping. The silken softness within his arms hardened to whipcord; the woman's head wrenched free to scream. Savaran with the laugh that always came to him when death was near, did the one thing guaranteed to keep her sex quiet—clapped mouth on mouth and kissed as only a master in the art knew how.

She did nothing. Her lips remained cold, she stood oddly still and stiff within the iron of his embrace. Even when, to re-enforce the need of tact, he lifted the dagger and rested the point beneath her breast, she neither fought, fainted nor melted. Not even when the hands pounding at the door abruptly stopped as a loud voice lifted in command. . . . Had some one come to open that door?

Strangely only animal laughter bayed out and then trailed away—amazingly the killers had left the door and trooped off to hunt elsewhere.

Savaran Was Trapped In the Condemned Cell

He stepped back, exultance blazing in his keen, high face. And with a victory worthy even of himself—for as the dim light showed her swift, strong figure and the clean cut arrogance of high blood, he knew her to be a woman as peerless as himself.

"Oh Tiger Lily of Beauty," he said magnificently, "What wisdom to prefer love instead of death."

"Thou wilt be Zavarani," she answered with so strange a lack of fire that he blinked and hastened to correct it.

"Achla! Savaran! First among warriors and lovers, the Fear of Nations and the Lord of Lions and Battles, before whose glance kings wither and bright eyes shine—"

"Wa Siddat—I knew it," she said—and she sighed.

"And recognizing twin greatness refused to betray me."

"No," she answered tonelessly. "It mattered little—we are both doomed!"

Even Savaran frowned at that, and frowned again as she lifted her arms—for there were gyves upon her wrists, and he heard the clink of chains that ran from them to the bands about her ivory ankles. He glanced quickly from them, saw the bareness of the room, saw a new significance in the pool of crocodiles below and the stoutness of the door.

"Yea," she said following his glance. "You have taken refuge in the condemned cell."

* * *

Savaran Discovered Way To Escape Cell

He threw back his head and cried. "It takes Savaran to find a place uniquely safe from all but the hangman."

"But the hangman will come," she said evenly. "He is the only way that you and I will get away from here."

"Nay, with beauty like thine to inspire him, Savaran will find a sweeter mode of leaving."

"Why beat the air with vain talk. You and I have no hope. We are fast in a trap that allows no release, but death."

Savaran suspected she was right, but considered it more in keeping with himself to change the subject.

He twisted frantically, and saw above the Taureg mask eagle eyes whose sardonic ferocity madee him swoon in sheer terror.

"Who are you to carry the pride of blood in your bearing and the beauty of queens in your face?"

"A queen," she said with abrupt fire. "I am Nefleech, who, yesterday, was wife of Ngwato, the Kai."

He cried out in astonished understanding and, catching her smooth shoulders, turned her face to the light.

"So you were the strength and sweetness behind his weakness . . . Shaitan take all harems, we'd wrought better, you and I, if we could have known and worked together."

"My man had a good mind and thought well of thee, Zavarani."

"True, and I, Savaran, would have made something of him if it hadn't been——" his Lucifer gaze narrowed. "Which of these spawn of vileness put this affront on thee, Oh, Star among women?"

"Seleka, the Adder!" she whispered fiercely.

"Seleka! So another vengeance to add to his torments when I, Savaran, take my payment."

"From the condemned cell?"

"Were it the vaults of Eolis itself I'd burst them apart to deal with those who did such a queen—and Savaran—ill."

He scowled at the figure of the man on the floor. "Does that eunuch carry a key?"

"Would they take such risks? He was locked in with me." She stared down at the man, too. "He is long quiet under thy blows, Zavarani?"

"Not unnaturally," he said loftily as he bent and felt. "I broke his neck."

"He was the most redoubtable and dangerous guard they had," she breathed. "A savage Taureg, as you see by his veil."

"And yet was a reed in Savaran's grasp—he had not time, even, to shout an alarm."

"Nor the means—he was dumb."

"Oh," grunted the lean man, taken aback in pride, and sought other topics. "Yet why did they guard thee so closely, that door and those chains——"

"There is a pool below the balcony, I might have flung myself to the beasts—too soon."

"Too soon—surely if your man is dead, his wife——?"

"I have a son—and there is treasure," she said. "Much treasure, put safely away by a king who knew the treachery of his ministers—and both are well hidden save for my mind."

"Ah, the treasure at least explains Seleka's clemency."

"Yea, he has offered me life and freedom to go to my son, if I but tell him where the gold is hid."

"And thou?"

"I have said no. The gold and my son are together, and the day will come when they will find power in each other to avenge the death of their father."

"You have said no, yet still live?"

"Until dawn tomorrow. I have a day to think on my dying. Seleka will come tonight, expecting me to yield, for my end will not be pleasant."

"A sack and the crocodiles in the Karishimbi River."

"You know—aye, and the shame of all Karishimbi on the city walls watching a queen dying like a false harem wife."

"He has a sweet mind, this Seleka, yet he shall savor to the full his own delights, or Savaran's boasts at last have failed him," the grim lips spat, yet the queen cried impatiently.

"Boasts! Vain boasts in such a death trap. What can you do, who are as helpless as I?"

She stopped and stared side-eyed, for suddently Savaran was laughing.

"A Taureg!" he chuckled, stirring the dead eunuch with his foot. "And dumb! No, Savaran is never mistaken in his star. Even in the impossible, he finds a way."

"Zavarani!" she gasped. "You see a way?"

"You are as good as free and with your son already—listen." He laughed, and with his eyes aflame began to talk.

He talked swiftly and with zest, taking her soft cries of wonder as his natural due. And after he had talked, he did . . . Ten minutes later the guards, still hunting but losing heart, were startled by the crash of a pistol shot from the harem wing, and the scream of a woman and as they ran to the roof edge and balconies to look, noted a turmoil and quarreling among the crocodiles in the pool below—even saw the great jaws rending body limb from limb.

The Queen Told Of Terrible Struggle

The weazened Seleka came swiftly with the key which he alone had, and with strong guards at his back, broke in upon the queen. He found Nefleech crouching back against a wall, her hands shutting horror from her eyes while the tall Taureg stood panting upon the balcony, his bright fanatic eyes burning above his tribal veil as he glared down at the seehe of crocodiles in the foam-torn pool below.

Dumb, he could only make uncouth noises and excited gestures of battle, at the Wazir's demand; it was from the trembling queen that Seleka got the story of what had happened.

A lean vulture of a man had suddenly appeared scrambling down to the balcony from the roof, she said . . . Yes, a veritable spider of a man, who had fought like the fiend himself when the dumb eunuch had sprung at him. There had been a terrible battle in the room, but the intruder for all his ferocity, seemed hurt, for slowly, surely the eunuch had prevailed, forcing the man back and back until he was half over the rail of the balcony.

Then, knowing what death was under him and so near, the intruder had plucked a pistol from his girdle to shoot the eunuch only, that very relaxation of his hold was his undoing. The Taureg had made good his grip, had lifted and tossed the intruder into the pool below even as the pistol spoke too late—and that was strange, for the man had two pistols, which might easily have mastered the eunuch with only a dagger . . .

"Zavarani!" he cried with oily exultance, and he ran to the balcony to look down at the crocodiles.

He was just in time to see a great blast crash away from the fighting mass and go off in a lather of foam towards the main river, while half a dozen of its playmates heaved along behind in an anxiety to share the brown and spindly leg protruding from the leader's jaws. That lean leg confirmed Seleka's dearest hope.

He heard the crowd on the roof tops take up the glad tidings: "Zavarani is dead! The Lord of Lions has been taken by crocodiles! Zavarani is no more!"

Seleka, safe at last in power and evil, turned from the balcony to leer at the queen.

"A very piecemeal and dismembering death," he smirked. "You should have watched it. You would have found it most instrucdional."

"I know—I know!" she shuddered and buried her face in her hands.

"Well, think on it well," he whispered. "It will help to make our talk tonight a happier one."

Seleka, the Adder, Screamed With Terror

Patting the tall eunuch's back with a "Guard her with your life and let none but me approach her," he shambled off to give his cringing king the joyous news.

He must plan a celebration, to include execution with a sack at dawn tomorrow when, before all Karishimbi using the town walls as grandstands, the power of the usurpers to treat even royal blood with contempt would be demonstrated.

He took the sack with him when he visited Nefleech that night. When she shank at the sight of it, he told her bluntly that it was a mere item of final persuasion, which he hoped not to have to use. He even pointed out that he had not only come secretly, but alone, and i-d only an old and feeble man hope to be one so young and vigorous in a sack.

In saying this he was enjoying his own lying. Indeed, he all but winked at the lean Taureg eunuch, since he had already decided that a man strong enough to defeat Savaran had muscles enough to cram a mere pulling woman into a bag. Thoroughly inflated by the poison of his own deceit, he squeezed the iron arm of the eunuch and set him with his back against the door.

"Stand there, let no man in," he said loudly, and then, in a whisper: "At my signal seize, gag and bind her tight—but harm not her neck. The people like to see life in those they fling to the river."

He smirked again as he turned and walked back to the queen. He would not only learn her secret, but would prevent any whisper of it or his duplicity reaching Ba-Chwene by tying her in the sack at once. With a smile of honey, he drew close to her, confident of her chains—and stopped with the violence of a shock.

She was advancing on him. Her strong young arms were reaching for him—and they were no longer chained.

"Dirty treachery!" he tried to yell, but it was only a croak. Iron fingers closed on his neck from behind. He twisted frantically, and saw above the Taureg mask eagle eyes whose sardonic ferocity made him swoon in sheer terror.

When he recovered consciousness he was tightly bound and gagged. And he could smell and feel the texture of coarse sacking enclosing his now naked body from head to foot.

Without Seleka King Was As Good As Dead

All Karishimbi packed the river walls at dawn, for all Karishimbi knew that a queen was to be flung to the crocodiles.

Some glowed in the anticipation of the morning's simple pleasure and tossed gobbet of meat to the beasts to whet their appetites and make them livelier for the great moment. Others felt shame, more hot anger against the usurpers for this outrage against royal blood, yet in all fear shackled the desire to tear the evil-doers to pieces.

Ba-Chwene, the new kai, gloried in it. He sat in cloth of gold upon the high, jutting tower of the palace that was in one royal box and execution gallows, more bloated and beaming than nature had made him. Even the loathing of his subjects was satisfaction to such gross pride as his; for this was the moment of moments when he showed them that however they felt about it, his alone was the power that counted. Having removed their king, and, greater wonder still, killed Savaran, he was now to destroy all the hopes of the rightful royal line by the shame of this public execution.

He looked lovingly at the ingenious chute stretching from his elbow to well out over the wall. It was built like a see-saw and it gave him a kittenish delight that for royal blood etiquette demanded that his alone should be the hand that pulled the lever tipping it up and sending the sack shooting well out to the middle of the river below.

He smacked his fat lips as he thought of the sack wriggling—for she would be still alive—until it hit the water with a great splash, a splash that would be nothing to the tumult of foam as the crocs charged and fought for it in a body.

Seleka, the Wazir, came cringing and bustling, a mean and muffled figure with flannel round its head, squeaking apologies because a sudden attack of earache had made him late. Ba-Chwene had scarcely thought or glance to waste on him. His gooseberry eyes were popping with glee as he watched the tall and raking figure of the Taureg eunuch bringing forward the sack. Slight though the victim was, she would undoubtedly give them sport, for her wriggling and kicking already looked violent enough to burst a way out.

"Onto the execution plank quick! Quick!" Ba-Chwene panted, stumbling from the Ivory Stool in his eagerness to pull over the lever and release the chute.

The tall eunuch dumped the sack onto the chute with a violence that made its inmate fight like a mad thing. He must have been clumsy in other ways, too, for even as Ba-Chwene flung over the lever and the see-saw sprang up, the cords at the sack mouth flew asunder and a head thrust itself out—a bald, weazened, shifty but unmistakable head.

"Seleka!" Ba-Chwene screamed, and stood paralyzed and agape as the sack shot beyond the wall and downwards and began to whirl towards the river.

And as it whirled the sack and its contents parted company in mid air, so that every startled eye along the walls saw what there was to be seen—not the body of a queen, but the scrimshank figure of Seleka curving and twisting down towards the crocodiles.

As the Wazir struck the water and the great beasts surged together to battle for him, Ba-Chwene screeched again:

"The Wazir! Seleka, the Wazir. . . . Thrown to the crocodiles . . . ! Destroyed . . . !"

A moment after he spoke he was shrinking in fear against the execution chute, for he heard his own words repeated by five thousand voices: "Seleka, not the Queen! . . . Seleka himself has gone to the crocodiles . . . The Adder is dead!"

It was not only the words, it was the note of glee and relief in the voices of a people freed, that filled Ba-Chwene with terror. Without Seleka he was as good as dead.

"It's not true . . . It can't be," he yelped.

He stopped, goggling. The figure, still as slight and frail as Seleka, had straightened and shed Wazir's outer garments, even the flannels round the head. Before Ba-Chwene and all men's eyes, she showed herself what Seleka never could have been—life and lovely and a queen.

"Nefleech!" Ba-Chwene whined. "This is treachery! Guards! Guards! Strike for your king . . ."

But his guards were backing away, massing behind the Ivory Stool to which Nefleech, the queen, had already moved. They seemed to be obeying not only the queen, but orders more powerful than the queen's. In a moment Ba-Chwene would be alone, left alone to face the populace, and he knew what that meant. It was terror rather than courage that made him drag dagger from his girdle, crouch to spring on the Queen, but a mocking voice said near him:

"Not even a woman's blood will make you worthy, oh misbegotten even of baboons. Your reign is done, assassin king; it is time for evil to pay. What shall it be—the crocodiles tearing you limb from limb, or your eager subjects?"

At the soud of that sardonic voice he turned quaking—saw the tall Taureg eunuch regarding him with a glance that was as magnificent as a gesture—only with the veil removed it was no Taureg, not even the eunuch's clothes could change that bizarre and audacious figure once the mastery of its face was revealed.

"Zavarani!" the false king moaned. "Zavarani—alive, who must be dead."

"Savaran does not die so easily," the hard voice mocked. "You should have known that rather than take a skinny eunuch's figure for his. And you should have remembered that he who hurts Savaran suffers most."

"Wa joga I should have known!" the Ba-Chwene wailed. "Zavarani—not even Seleka could hope to beat you though he thought he could. And now he is dead."

He paused and shuddered. From the roofs there had come the baying of a multitude hungry to redress many wrongs. Men were swarming toward them over the roofs, knives flashing in their hands.

"Yes, your devoted subjects are coming for you," Savaran said grimly. "It is time for you to choose—them or the river."

Ba-Chwene stared once at the oncoming people, saw the hate that was in their eyes, turned and stumbled towards the parapet, and leaped.

"It was wiser of him," Savaran said to the queen when the shout of disappointment had died down. "And just. He died as he made so many die."

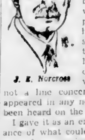

"Aie, Savaran orders all things well," she said softly. "But what is that in your hand, Oh, Power over Thrones?"

"It is the king's robe," he said, showing her the gorgeous garment of gold cloth. "I thought it best to save it until you found a king to sit beside you on the throne."

His keen eyes sparkled as he saw the warm blood rise to her lovely cheek. She was a queen after his own heart—so quick to understand his meaning.

Our Old Country Letter — By J. E. Norcross

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND.—(By Mail)—In a recent letter I told how the censorship in this country declined to allow us to know anything about our own weather until a fortnight afterward when, of all news, weather news seems most stale, flat and unprofitable.

J. E. Norcross

In the hope that it would not be cut out, since it could not possibly be published until weeks after the prescribed period had elapsed, I said something about the extraordinarily severe weather of the first three weeks of January not a line concerning which had appeared in any newspaper here or been heard on the air.

I gave it as an extraordinary instance of what could be done in the way of suppressing the news when such suppression was deemed to be in the interest of the State in time of war.

But I did not know, even then, to what lengths the censorship could go, that it could actually keep out of the public prints and out of the broadcasts the fact that Great Britain had been blanketed with snow by the worst blizzard known in 60 years.

Take our own experiences in the little town which I make my headquarters. Snow began to fall on a Saturday morning. It fell all day and all night, and well into Sunday. It was driven by a bitter east wind into every railway cutting and lodged between walls and hedges on the highways until it was level with the tops of them.

We stand on a main line of railway, but there were no trains that day, and the roads were impassable. Two engines, it was reported, were lost in the drifts somewhere up the line, and motor-busses that had left the night before for destination only a few miles away had failed to arrive. Private cars were buried deep, left to their fate by their owners. We were blockaded.

Of course, no newspapers were to be had, so we waited to hear something about conditions in the outside world by wireless. So far as Broadcasting House was concerned, however, weather conditions in Great Britain might have been perfectly normal. We were told about the fearful cold on the Finnish front, and the snow and ice on the Maginot line, but there was not a word about the biggest snowfall England had known in two generations.

Only for one thing we should not have known that day that the blizzard had not been peculiar to our own part of the country. In that respect, however, the broadcasters did let the cat out of the bag. They relayed an official notice to milk producers telling them what to do with their milk if they could not deliver it to the usual recipient. Nothing was said as to why there should be any difficulty in delivering milk or anything else, but the fact that the notice was a general one apparently issued to producers all over the country, told its own story. We knew then that the snow must cover practically the whole island.

Monday came but, no newspapers arriving, the day passed without any further enlightenment. The British Broadcasting Corporation amused us with the newly-released story of the weather of the first fortnight in January, sublimely ignoring the fact that, bad as it had been then, we had since undergone and were still undergoing, worse weather still, and thus adding insult to injury.

But murder will out, and that evening the War Office issued a notice that "owing to the severity of the weather" the granting of leave to soldiers, whether here or in France, had been suspended. "Pretty bad everywhere," we remarked.

And then the floodgates were opened. The B.B.C. told us that the whole country was suffering from the worst transportation blockade ever known. Of three main lines from London to Scotland only one was operating, and trains on this were taking a day and a half to make a journey that normally took 10 hours. Road traffic was at a standstill everywhere. Big towns were completely isolated. Trains were "lost" in Scotland.

What had caused all this? The B.B.C. did not say. Snow and snowdrifts were never mentioned. It was Wednesday before the morning papers came through and they were equally reticent. They told of roofs of houses collapsing but left the cause to the imagination of their readers. There were columns and columns about the consequences of the blizzard but no mention of the blizzard itself. The biggest weather story of the century was untold—and remains untold at this time of writing. Years and years hence, when the Great Blizzard of 1940 is remembered by only a few old people, the newspapers of the last few days will read curiously to anyone who delves into them in search of the facts. He will learn all that happened except that snow fell, a magnificent example of "Hamlet" without the title role.

The student of A.D. 2001 will not be without a clue, however. The newspapers were not allowed to say anything about the blizzard, but they were permitted, such is the charming inconsistency of the censorship, to print pictures of roads and vehicles deep in drifts, of half-buried passenger trains, and of streams covered with great blocks of ice.

The terrible weather in January has sent the unemployment figure up again, with an addition of 157,371 to the December total it is once more over the million and a half mark, being now 1,518,896.

Even so, the increase was the smallest December-January increase, with one exception, in the past 12 years. The record was taken on January 15 and, as might have been expected, the increased numbers were found principally in outdoor occupations, building, agriculture and public works accounting for an additional 130,696.

Coincidentally with the announcement of the January unemployment statistics it is revealed that the government has completed its plans for a further rapid rise in the output of arms and is discussing them with the engineering industry.

Mr. Ernest Brown has already met the employers and the executive of the Amalgamated Engineering Union, the general secretary of which latter body, Mr. Fred A. Smith, has declared it one of the most ambitious programs he has ever seen.

THREE FORMER CHAMPS SEEK BRIER

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

Flyers Hit Rather Neat From England

TONIGHT the Edmonton Flyers open their best of three series with the Stampeders at Calgary—the series that will decide which team will advance into the Alberta senior hockey final—and right now there is more uncertainty about the Flyers' lineup than there is about the results of the forthcoming elections.

The Flyers' luck, which has been nothing to rave about, turned as sour as a lemon yesterday. Efforts to get the services of Sprout of Coleman to bolster the Edmonton defence were defeated and then yesterday afternoon Goalie Robbins came down suddenly with a severe case of influenza. Late last night he was taken to a hospital with a serious temperature.

Today the Flyer executive is making frantic efforts to get Calgary approval for the use of Harney of Olds in the Edmonton goal tonight. Who will don the pads if Harney is turned down is likely to be a bit of a surprise to everyone.

The Flyers' efforts to use Sprout were based on the CAHA ruling brought in the season to permit replacements for players taken away by army duties. Harry Brown is the defenceman the Edmonton club lost to the army, Coleman and Sprout were agreeable to the plan.

However, the league executive in the south wasn't agreeable. They got to discussing the rules and came up with a spicker. While replacements for army men are legal, they are not permitted once playoffs reach the branch stage—or provincial. Always in the past the Alberta Senior League playoff has been considered a league playoff and has been handled by the league regardless of the fact there are no other senior contenders in the province. If it were declared a league playoff this year, Sprout would be eligible for the Flyers. But the executive killed that by declaring the coming games to be branch playoffs.

Rather neat, eh?

Reports From "Somewhere In England"

FROM Private Bennie Tate of the Edmonton Regiment at that famous army resort, Somewhere in England, comes a letter with some interesting dope on boxing as presented by His Majesty's army.

They have one red corner and one green corner in the ring, with a light above each corner. The boxers come into the ring with red and green robes and go to the corner corresponding to their robe in order. Each wears a strip of the same color as his corner.

The referee is outside the ring with the other officials. The announcer just says so-and-so is in the red corner and so-and-so is in the green corner. Then the referee calls "Round one" and the boys come out of their corners and start to box. A bell ends the round. Seconds are allowed to go in then and work over their man.

In the case of a foul, the referee hollers "Stop" and the boys step and both walk over to the referee and find out what he has to say, then they go at it again. When the referee decides to stop a bout he merely announces that the red is the winner or vice versa and that is all there is to it.

Bennie admits that he is deeply impressed up in a remote outfit, staff. He is starting in to some boxing now himself. He adds that all the boys from Edmonton are in top shape and that most of them are beginning to like England now that the weather is improving.

The same mail also brought a letter from Ed. Barker, the Edmonton boy who is back in England again wrestling and refereeing a wrestler bake in the speedway arenas. He says wrestling is going big again after a short halt at the start of the war. He has been wrestling regularly and is now being billed steadily on main events.

Feller's Yen For Work Worries Boss Oscar

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 2.—Bob Feller is training too fast for Manager Oscar Vitt of Cleveland Indians.

"He probably needs less work than any man in camp," growled Vitt. "He's always in condition, but he thinks he isn't getting any good out of exercise unless it leaves him dripping wet."

SNAHEIM, Calif.—Bob Johnson, who got a nice raise and a two-year contract for his fine play with Philadelphia Athletics last season, is looking forward to another big year.

"He's ready right now," appraised Assistant Manager Earle Mack.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—Manager Bill Terry took a look at Nick Weltex in one practice session of New York Giants and endorsed the rookie enthusiastically.

"From what I've seen," he declared, "I think we've come up with a real second baseman."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Maybe you would think New York Yankees would be satisfied with Babe Dahlgren at first base. He is one of the flashiest fielders in the game, batted in 89 runs last year and the champs could afford to carry a light batter if any club could.

But Manager Joe McCarthy is giving a lot of attention to Johnny Sturm, a first sacker up from Kansas City, and in addition has disclosed Mike Chartak, an outfielder from the Newark Farm, would be tried at first.

PASADENA, Calif.—Ted Lyons, beginning his 18th campaign with Chicago White Sox, is an eager as any rookie to get into action. He started working out two weeks before reporting at camp. He says he has mine speed now than in many seasons.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Sam Reardon, president of St. Louis Cardinals, expects to hold a salary conference with Joe Medwick during the week-end and possibly clear up the club's holdout situation. Don Padgett, Curt Davis and Lon Lazy also are still unsigned, but Medwick is the only one about whom the club is worried.

Scona United Soccer Club Meets

A general meeting of the Scona United Football Club will be held at 9007 Whyte Ave. (Bielby's Confectionery), Monday night starting at 8 p.m. All members are asked to attend this meeting.

FINAL STANDINGS WOLF CUB LOOP

Following are the final standings in the Wolf Cub Hockey league with playoff games scheduled to start early next week:

SENIOR LEAGUE (South Division)

20th	6	2	4	0	3	15	4
8th	6	1	4	1	5	26	3
27th	6	0	6	0	2	29	0

In the Junior league the 20th and 2nd Packs meet in a 2-game total goal series. The winner will meet the 8th Pack in a 2 out of 3-game playoff.

In the Senior league the 22nd and 6th Packs play a semi-final for the South division championship, while the 2nd and 8th Packs meet in the North division semi-final. Both semi-finals will be 2-game total-goal series. The winners will then play for the league championship.

Innisfree Wins In Playoff Tilt

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

INNISFREE, March 2.—After taking the short end of a 4-1 score in the first game of the playoffs on the Highway 16 league played at Vermilion the locals reversed things in a game played on local ice last night when they took the Vermilion team into camp by a score of 4-2.

The game was set and fuzzy all the way with the locals getting two first period goals while holding the visiting shorties in the second they both found the net and again in the third they both tallied.

Five penalties were handed out with the locals getting three and the visitors two. Some excellent combination play was shown by the local line of Adamson, Ryerse and Huff.

Ryerse and White handled the game.

Decks Cleared For 12th Round-up of Keglers

ENTRIES were rolling in today at the Recreation Alleys for Edmonton's 12th annual 10 pin bowling tournament as decks were cleared for play to start at 7 p.m. Monday. This spring round-up of the city's keglers generally involves some 500 competitors.

Forms for entry had been filled out early today by 29 teams, 50 pairs of doubles, 31 single competitors and 34 competitors in the knockout events.

Here are last year's winners and their scores as a guide to what prize winners will likely have to do this year:

Team, Rialto Theatre 3133
Sr. Doubles, Shedden-Miller ... 1288
Senior Singles, Bert Beckloff ... 657
Jr. Doubles, Turner-Beckloff ... 1040
Junior Singles, G. Couper ... 568
Sr. Grand Aggregate, B. Sewell, 1928
Jr. Gr. Aggregate, A. Brabazon, 1647
High Singles Game (team) 300's 1099
High Singles Game (individual), Dave McKill ... 298

For the first time in several years, the Shedden-Miller combine has been broken up, Stan Shedden now being a sergeant with the Edmonton Regiment Band, somewhere in England.

Junior events will not start before Tuesday and the knockouts probably will not get underway until Wednesday. Competitors are urged to get their entries for singles and doubles in before midnight to take advantage of the draw.

Garcia, Armstrong Draw In Savage Title Joust

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Middleweight champion Cefarino Garcia and welterweight king Henry Armstrong fought a draw last night in one of the most savage bouts ever seen in a California ring and one that wrecked the little brown bomber's dream of capturing a fourth title in his spectacular career.

Two Bobs punching Filipinos, mixing one second defence of the title he blasted away from Freddie Apostoli, last October, and Armstrong slaughtered 11 pounds Garcia overcame a deficit of 25,000 in an uproar as they battled from gullet to post and wound up the ten rounds in a furious exchange in Garcia's corner.

CLOSE DECISIONS

Referee George V. Blake threw up both hands for his draw decision as the fouls flagged before a divided—nasty, stinking Garcia's long range uppercuts, which twice hurt the weaving, bobbing, hammerin' Henry, closed at a clear defence of the crown, which is recognized in New York and California.

Garcia weighed 153½; Armstrong 154.

Armstrong, hoping to become the first man in ring annals to wear three championship belts, opened a deep gash over Garcia's right eye in the third, from then on the heavy punching Filipinoke face was a mass of blood. Garcia carried Armstrong's left eye closing in the same frame, however, and kept it tightened during blood, fell back, but only a moment as a mighty roar echoed through Gilmore stadium.

STRENGTH FAILS

Garcia's superior strength told in the early rounds but the constant machine-gun-like fire of his home own rival battered him later on. The referee took one round away from Armstrong for low punches—the fifth—and twice warned him for illegal use of his elbows and shoulders.

With the crowd on its feet, the two met in the centre of the ring for the bloody finish, hardly touching gloves, and went to it, toe to toe, blow for blow. Armstrong, for once throwing punches from long range, moved into a lead and then the Filipino titleholder would rock him with uppercuts. They kept fighting after the bell in a savage melee and Blake had to step in and pull them apart.

The unofficial crowd paid in the neighborhood of $65,000 and $75,000.

Ritchie Ties Up Midget Playoff

Scoring a 1-0 win which duplicated their rivals performance in the first game, Ritchie squared the Community League midget final last night with Calder as they drubbed the westsiders by a 1-0 score. It was the second game of the final series, Calder winning the first by a 1-0 count.

Armstrong scored the lone Ritchie goal in the last half of the third period.

Third and final game of this series will probably be played early next week.

IRISH RINK WINS OVER PONOKA IN LACOMBE'S FINAL

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LACOMBE, March 2.—J. O. "Chub" Irish skipped his Lacombe rink to a 16-14 victory over Buck Girling's curlers from Ponoka in the Grand Challenge event as play was completed in Lacombe's annual bonspiel on Thursday night. Girling had skipped his men to a good lead earlier in the game, but Irish tied it up 14-14 on the eleventh end and went on to win.

In the semi-finals, Irish had eliminated Jack Winter, Lacombe rink, while Girling had defeated the P. W. Pratt Lacombe team.

In the ladies' event the final was an all Red Deer affair, with Jim Dreyer defeating his fellow townsman, J. C. Knight, 11-5. In the semi-finals, Knight had won from Hugh Clarke of Red Deer while Dreyer was downing Mrs. Jenkins of Joffre.

The veteran Lacombe skip, Tom Hallcrow, A. Lusack, Alex Irish and Jack Lorimer had reached the finals by winning from D. Thompson of Ponoka, with Lacombe eliminating the local E. A. Bowering rink. One event, for Lacombe curlers, remains to be completed.

Personnel of rinks competing in the finals was as follows:

F. O. Irish, Lacombe, skip; H. Howe, H. Hunter, G. White.

B. Girling, Ponoka, skip; H. Keating, W. Street, D. Girling.

T. Lorimer, Lacombe, skip; N. McLearn, H. E. Wilson, A. Sharp.

Alex Irish, skip; G. Blair, A. Bissett, T. Cunningham.

J. C. Knight, Red Deer, skip; G. McLeven, L. Klabfleisch, A. A. Pruitt.

J. Dreyer, Red Deer, skip; H. Rogers, G. Wheeler, N. McDonald.

Other rinks competing in the bonspiel were skipped by Mr. Butterworth, Clive; F. Thorpe and P. Thorpe, Derby; N. Blides, Red Deer; Mr. Thompson, Ponoka; Bill Cook, Rimbey, and Lacombe rinks skipped by Harry Tease, Theo. Wilkes, J. S. McCormick, Bill Sage and Stewart Fraser.

E.A.C. and Cadomin Clubs Primed For Final Tonight

PRIMED for the second defence of their western Canada junior hockey championship, Edmonton Athletic Club will meet Cadomin juniors here tonight at the Arena with the Coal Branch champions looming as something of a threat to the E.A.C. dominance. The game will start at 9:00 p.m.

E.A.C. was successful in their first title defence, turning back Maple Leafs in three games for the city championship following a 4-4 deadlock.

Coach Lefty Grove reports his squad in top form for the game tonight and following their scouting of the Cadomin team during a practice on Friday, Grove is certain his squad will win.

Cadomin arrived here on Thursday. They have had a couple of practices on the Arena ice. While they didn't show too much promise in their drill yesterday they did show flashes of fine form and with such stars as Henry Kwasney and Jack Chasney along with Bill Lancaster, they are hopeful they may cop a winning margin.

Second game of the series will be played on Monday.

Neanderthal Menace

MAURICE TILLET, THE ANGEL

OTTAWA, March 2—Hailed by Harvard University experts as the nearest thing to Neanderthal man of prehistoric times that science has yet found and hailed by North American wrestling promoters as the greatest drawing card since Sonnenberg, Maurice Tillet, known as The Angel, arrived here today for his first wrestling bout in Canada.

Time magazine tells of his debut in the United States, when the 280-pound Angel took on his first opponent, Lou Bacalupi, 275 pound ringside. In the Boston Arena, 7,000 fans stood on their chairs as the Angel trotted up the aisle. With his gargoyle head, bandy legs, suitcase feet and ham hands, he was more a nightmare than a human being.

In the ring, Bacigalupi whanged The Angel's cowcatcher jaw with a barrage of forearm wallops. The Angel only growled, waded in, got a headlock, a full nelson, a head scissors, an arm lock, and then the hold the fans had been waiting for—his touted bear hug.

BEST SINCE SONNENBERG

Dr. Ernest Hooton, of Harvard, said recently that nobody is going to hurt Tillet. Phony as a lot of these wrestling bouts are, it was obvious to everyone in the Boston Arena that Bacigalupi couldn't make an impression on him and once The Angel applied his bear hug he was helpless.

He simply crooked his eardrooed arms around Bacigalupi's vast circumference, hooked his stubby broomstick fingers and squeezed. Bacigalupi screamed a bellowed while his breath lasted, then The Angel grabbed him with an inside crotch hold and lift, slammed him to the mat and pinned him for fall number one, just short of six minutes. Fall number two took a few seconds over two minutes and then Angel's handlers carried him off. He was out of action for a couple of weeks after his brief session with Tillet.

TOUGH, BUT NOT BAD EGG

The Angel is actually Maurice Tillet, born of French parents in the Russian Urals, 35 years ago. His mother, who had always called him Angel (Ange), he says is now a professor of languages in a girls' college at Rheims.

Something went wrong with Maurice's glandular system when he was very young, but his mother still called him Ange. Maurice turned out to be a good athlete, was once a circus strong man, played on the All-France rugby team against England, once met George V. after a match. He served in the French navy, was mustered out in Singapore a few years ago, and, as the story goes, stayed there to shoot tigers.

At any rate, a touring, Lithuanian-born U. S. wrestler named Carol Pojello met him in Singapore in 1936 in Le Laurer bar. One handshake was enough for Pojello. He took The Angel to Paris, taught him all he knew about the U. S. catch-as-catch-can, or British all-in wrestling business. Since then, in 140 matches in six countries, according to uncontradicted reports, The Angel has been unbeatable.

Behind the massive, mask-like face that looks like something out of a Conan Doyle mirror, The Angel is not a bad egg. Well manicured and groomed, his bald pate usually covered in public with a beret, he reads the French classics, speaks coarsely but genteelly, and has a smattering of four other tongues besides his native French. A prodigious eater, he stows away about five meals per diem, and in between takes absorbed quantities of fruit.

Vancouver Ace Lifts Men's Open Slalom Title

BANFF, March 2.—Art Coles of Vancouver dethroned Louis Georgas of Owen Sound, Ont., as Dominion open senior men's slalom champion and Dorothy Michaels of the Laurentian Ski Club, Montreal, captured the open senior ladies' downhill title at the half-way mark of the 1940 four-day Canadian tournament here Friday.

One champion also was crowned in the junior division, Eleanor Boyle of Lake Louise, becoming Canada's first junior ladies' downhill titleholder.

Coles, nicknamed the Vancouver Thunderbolt, won both slalom races with runs down the twisting Mount Norquay slopes of 65 and 52.2 seconds for a total of 117.2 seconds, closely followed by "Punch" Bell of Montreal, last year's downhill champion, whose total time was 118.8 seconds. Bell took one-fifth of a second longer on the first run and 1 4-5 seconds more on the second.

KNIGHT THIRD

Norman Knight of Banff, one of Canada's leading ski jumpers, finished third in 121.8 seconds, more than four seconds slower than Coles and a comparative stun Ward of Banff was fifth in 124.8 seconds. Georgas made two perfect trips to take the fourth spot in 122 seconds.

Gault Gillespie of Montreal who Thursday defended his dominion cross-country title placed ninth with a time of 133.4 seconds. Fifty-four entrants took part in the event.

WEPSALA BREAKS SKI

A hair-raising series of spills which saw favorites falling in all directions made a shamble of the ladies' downhill course. Mount Norquay's 1 1-2 mile cross-downhill course has played havoc with many a contestant and Thursday was no exception. Gertie Wepsala, the flying Finnish girl from Tyee Club, Vancouver, decided to go all out and was travelling at express train speed till the way. Out of control, however, she took two bad spills, broke a ski and finished eighth in the field of 12 to lose her title.

Dorothy Michaels of the Penguin Club, Montreal, became the new champion in this event when she negotiated the course in 2.49. Second place went to Mrs. Ruth Bagley at 2.55 and a 3rd fifth. The girls showed a tendency to point their skis downhill and shut their eyes and the speed put many of them badly out of control.

Mary Ruttan, Winnipeg was one of them and Norma Meagher, Montreal was another. Other results were: Joan Cranswick, Vancouver, 3:17; Mary Ruttan, Winnipeg, 3:22 3-5 seconds; Lorna Meagher, Montreal, 3:26 4-5 seconds; Daisy Bourdon, Vancouver, 3:33 4-5 seconds; Gertie Wepsala, Vancouver, 3:41; Doreen Ainsworth, Vancouver, 3:46; Dolly Johnston, Jasper, 4:21; Thelma Hutchinson, Vancouver, 4:29 2-5 seconds; and Barbara Whyte, Banff, 4:35 1-5 seconds.

RESULTS

Senior men's slalom, total times for two runs: 1. Art Coles, Vancouver, 117.2 seconds; 2. Punch Bell, Montreal, 118.8; 3. Norman Knight, Banff, 121.8; 4. L. Georgas, Owen Sound, 122; 5. Stan Ward, Banff, 124.8; 6. Nick Thibodeau, Montreal, 127.7; 7. Bill Irwin, Princeton, B.C., 128.5; 8. Bill Robinson, Vancouver, 131; 9. Gault Gillespie, Montreal, 133.4.

SENIOR LADIES' DOWNHILL

1. Dorothy Michaels, Montreal, 2.48; 2. Ruth Bagley, Banff, 2.55.2; 3. Joan Cranswick, Vancouver, 3.17; 4. Mary Ruttan, Winnipeg, 3.22 4-5; 5. Lorna Meagher, Montreal, 3.26.3; 6. Gladys Rochester, Banff; 7. Daisy Bourdon, Vancouver, 3.33.3; 8. Gertie Wepsala, Vancouver, 3.41.

JUNIOR LADIES' DOWNHILL

1. Eleanor Boyle, Lake Louise, 3.54; 2. Ila Labedee, Lake Louise, 4.34; 3. Betty McDonald, Banff, 4.40.2; 4. Elinor Irwin, Princeton, B.C., 5.15.3; 5. D. Mc-Ginnis, Vancouver, 5.29.1; 6. Maude Ewart, Princeton, 12.6 seconds.

HOWARD ENTRY SANTA ANITA'S BIG SPECIAL

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—Fourteen candidates were named to battle it out in the sixth running of Santa Anita's fabulous horse race—the $100,000 handicap.

Heading the brilliant field was the combination of Seabiscuit and Kayak II. Others entered were the Canadian owned Whichee, Heelfly, Specify, Can't Wait, Ra H. Don Mike, War Plumage, Wedding Call, Hysterical, Viscounty, Royal Crusader and Kantan.

Seabiscuit drew unlucky post position No. 13, and top weight of 130 pounds, but it may not be unlucky for the seven-year-old turf warrior. On the outside, away from trouble, able to move into his own position without interference—that was the attitude veteran turfmen took of his position for the start of the mile and a quarter grind.

The winning purse will range around $80,000, with the second finisher earning $20,000, the third $10,000, and the fourth $5,000.

BETS FOR ENTRY

Favored in the betting rings was the Charles S. Howard entry of the Biscuit and Kayak II, followed next by Whichee, owned by Mayor Aubin C. Taylor of Vancouver, Heelfly, Specify and Can't Wait. They were considered the class of the handicap, although Big Don Mike, the Argentine importation of Bing Crosby and Lin Howard, was well regarded by many observers. Owner Howard stuck by his latest jockey assignments—Johnny (Red) Pollard of Edmonton on Seabiscuit and Leon (Buddy) Haas on Kayak II.

There was a possibility 13 would accept the issue, with Physterical scratched if the track remains fast.

December 14. It was also their sixth straight defeat.

After leaving almost a half-column blank under his by-line Mc-Neil wrote: "Same old story, the same old story (we told you why a few weeks ago): Here are the summaries." The story carried the usual eight-column "streamer" and "decks"

Marker Decides To Quit Politics

TORONTO, March 2.—August (Gus) Marker, 32-year-old right winger of Toronto's National Hockey League club, announced last night he had decided against running as independent candidate in Cumrose in the Federal election March 26.

There are many who still cling to the fallacious theory that the mongrel is naturally more intelligent than the pure-bred, despite the mass of evidence to the contrary. A good part of this evidence is presented by the dog movie actors whose screen appearances are becoming ever more common. The large majority of these are pure-bred specimens of various breeds, unless, of course, in order to conform with the story the use of a mongrel is necessitated. Two grandchildren of one of my dogs made quite a hit a few years ago in "Bombshell" and the hound in "The Hound of Baskervilles" was a pure-bred Great Dane. To get further evidence of the great intelligence of pure-breds, sceptics would do well to read a very interesting book recently published, "Letters to Strongheart" by J. Allen Boone. Strongheart was the stage name of a prize-winning, police - trained German Shepherd dog that sprang to fame as a movie-star. Many will remember him in "The Silent Call," "Brown of the North," "White Fangs," etc.

EXPLANATION OF TODAY'S CARTOON

FAMOUS MOUNTAIN OF MAPIMI: The outlines of the famous Bufa de Mapimi (Mountain of Mapimi) resemble the profile of Martin Perez, its discoverer. Perez dreamed of a mountain in his likeness which contained great riches. The profile on Mapimi tipped him off to the discovery of the two fabulous silver mines "La Ojuela" and "San Ignacio," which to this day produce great wealth.

Rumberg Roughs Way to Lone Win In Robust Wrestling Bouts Friday

ROWDY Hal Rumberg scored the lone triumph in the top bracket of Promoter Mike Cutcher's wrestling bouts last night while Patrick Kelly, the newcomer, held his own against the classy Earl McCready in the other main go.

Kelly proved a smart matman as he went to a 45-minute draw against McCready, British Empire champion who has not lost a bout in the last 30 or so in Alberta. Each grappler won a fall in a bout sparkled with clean and clever wrestling.

TOUGH TWISTER

Rumberg was once again the rowdy lad as he roughed up the drop-kicking Billy Sledge from St. Louis, Mo. But if many of the ring side fans could have gotten their hands on hilarious Hal there would have been little left of him.

In the starry semi-main McCready won the first fall with his customary rocking chair scissors. This hold has kept McCready right on top, but only once during the three quarters of the hour did he manage to pin Kelly with the hold.

The Knoxville ace came right back in the second heat to square the bout with a figure four scissors, a hold he managed to grasp as McCready stepped too close to the ropes. They were the only falls of the scintillating go for the maimed mailed hold for hold in the remaining minutes of a bout everyone appreciated.

Rumberg was too cagey for the drop-kicking Sledge in the main go. Rumberg turned one of Sledges' drop kicks into a winning hold as he reversed the kick of the St. Louis star. A body press finished off the St. Louis ace.

SLEDGE CAME BACK

But Sledge came right back in the second heat as he kicks took their toll, and Rumberg was pressed with the body press than followed the drop-kicks.

In a riotous few minutes Rumberg appeared to have Sledge giving in with a full Nelson, but then reversed it into a crushing scissors hold that followed up with a body slam. That was too much for Sledge and he faded out of the picture.

Johnny Dean won the opening preliminary bout as he slammed Mickey Percheson to the mat for the one and only fall of the bout. During this wild preliminary, there were many thrilling minutes with the proud Percheson doing a colorful act but Dean performed with some fine wrestling.

Banff Midget Only Visitor to Cop Title

NO fewer than 18 provincial records were smashed when the 1940 Alberta indoor speed skating championships were held at the Arena here last night under the auspices of the Alberta Amateur Skating Association.

While Banff and Winnipeg were represented by strong squads of speedsters, every Alberta title was won by an Edmonton contender with the sole exception of the midget girls' 220 and 1-6 mile events that were taken by Phyllis Bonyk of Banff.

Blanche Tivoldale, A. E. Hardy, Norma Howard and Nellie Stollery headed Edmonton's sweep of championships and records.

One of lough breaks came to Nellie Stollery when she set a new Alberta record for the senior ladies' 440 in winning a heat and then placed third in the final which was two seconds slower than her best record.

All events on the long program that ran through the afternoon and evening went off like clockwork under excellent management.

Tuesday, April 2
MRS. ALICE MENASMARA, just east of Calmar. Selling everything. "Our prices are set on the basis of present conditions. Our production and handling methods are based upon the lowest possible cost. Listed now and on the anticipation of a good year's volume, and one offering."

Prices on 1940 Plymouth and Dodge models show no increase over 1939 prices, corresponding 1939 model automobiles in the same equipment adopted by the Canadian Government. This is in accordance with the company policy of giving to the car purchaser the benefit of manufacturing, distributing and distribution economy.

Ukrainian Pastor Transferred Here

VANCOUVER, March 2—Rev. S. Shewchuk, O.S.B.M., who for the past two years has been superior of the Ukrainian Catholic mission here, will shortly transfer to take up duties at Edmonton.

During 1939, domestic families of the United States flew 82,554,239 miles in passenger planes, an 18.56 per cent increase over 1938.

CHRYSLER CARS LOWER PRICED FOR THIS YEAR

A much roomier body, with numerous refinements, on a redesigned chassis, and improved riding qualities, approached in the past only by the famous Chrysler Airflow, are the claims made for the new 1940 Chrysler cars for 1940 manufactured in Canada—the Royal and Royal Windsor.

The new Chrysler Royal and Royal Windsor cars are actually longer in point from line to line, 123 inches as against 119 inches on the 1939 models. This increase over 1939 is shared by all Chrysler cars for 1940 manufactured in Canada—the Royal and Royal Windsor.

Flying Firms Ready To Train Recruits: Craftsmen Studying

By J. HARPER PROWSE

In order to speed up the Empire Air Training program in its early stages, commercial aviation companies—especially those operating into the northland from Edmonton—may co-operate with the Royal Canadian Air Force in giving training to flying recruits and air engineers.

Offers of co-operation have already been made by officers of all companies, and it is reported they are being favorably considered. The aviation companies are in a position to give valuable aid to the air force, as falling off in mining activity in the north due to the war has left the companies with both planes and pilots available.

Pilots in the employ of the commercial firms are all experienced men, the majority with thousands of hours of flying service to their credit, and most of them have taken R.C.A.F. "refresher" courses at Camp Borden, while many of them hold instructors' tickets. These men are available for service as instructors two or three days weekly, and are able to give valuable aid to the regular air force instructors.

HIGH-POWERED CRAFT

It is also pointed out that the planes used by the commercial companies are all high-powered machines and in case of a shortage of "intermediate - type" training ships, could be placed at the disposal of the air force. Advanced pupils can be given practical flying experience by sending them out as co-pilots on long flights into the northland with the regular commercial pilots. This will enable them to practise map reading, navigation, beam-flying and course plotting under practical conditions.

TWO-FOLD PURPOSE

The co-operation would serve a double-barrelled purpose. For commercial companies, who have been worried by the rush of experienced pilots to join the air force, would be able to keep trained men who would still be able to be of real service to the war effort without leaving their positions with the commercial companies.

As far as air engineers are concerned, these recruits would be allotted to the repair and maintenance shops of the aviation firms and Aircraft Repairs Ltd. The recruits could help the commercial companies' engineers take down and repair motors, rebuild the planes and by practical experience learn their trade under the direction of experienced and able men. At the same time it would not leave the commercial companies short of the trained men they need in order to maintain their own services.

Such an arrangement would serve to speed up early training and it is expected that an official pronouncement on the proposals will be forthcoming from Empire Training Scheme headquarters shortly.

Private Firms Will Play Part In Plans

LONDON, Ont., March 1.—Private companies across Canada will play a major part in a system capable of training 4,000 air pilots every second month, Hon. C. D. Howe, transport minister, announced here last night in a speech.

The plan will take in flying clubs and other privately financed units and students will be supported on a basis of a contract between the schools and the government, Mr. Howe said.

"It is just a matter of adjusting cost items," the scheme applies only to preliminary training, the minister said.

Poultry Meeting

Edmonton Poultry and Pet Stock Association will hold its annual meeting meeting at the Corona Hotel, Monday evening, March 4. The program will include a general review of the association's activities during the past year, official reports and election of new officers for the ensuing year. Special feature of the entertainment will be original selections and a "question-box" quiz contest. E. W. Buse and G. F. Hess last are in charge of arrangements.

By BOB SHAW

While air force recruiting moves along at a measured pace, awaiting the opening of the centres of the Empire training plan, many young men in Edmonton are applying themselves intently to mastering skilled trades, preparing to take their places in aviation maintenance crews in the service of their country.

A number of these youths are to be found at the trade school operated under the Dominion-provincial youth training plan, where 160 are enrolled in courses which include motor mechanics, machine shop, drafting, metal work, woodwork, first aid and physical training.

EVENING CLASSES

Young men planning to enter the air force and other branches of the army service requiring skill also are to be found in evening classes at the Edmonton technical school and at the Diesel engineering school at Jasper and 114 street.

The youth training courses had their inception three years ago, when a survey made under direction of the Dominion government disclosed that the greatest obstacle to employment of the young men was the fact that they were unskilled.

Today these young men, all between the ages of 18 and 30, are applying themselves to the learning of trades with diligence and enthusiasm that is inspiring to watch—and as they complete their courses they are being employed, absorbed into factories and workshops.

Businessmen today say they cannot afford to teach boys how to do their jobs. William Carnill, supervisor of the Edmonton youth training centre, explained. They must have the boys start with at least a grounding in their trades and these boys are being turned out with a degree of skill that makes employers glad to get them.

LIFE AFTER WAR

But the war also finds the boys ready to give their services and in capacities which enhance their usefulness. And, when the time comes, they are preparing themselves for civil life after the war and, serving as tradesmen, will be fitted to turn their wartime occupations to peace-time purposes.

"When I was told to organize this school," Mr. Carnill said, "I did not go looking for men who were teachers. I went direct to the trades and got men who were busy at their crafts and recognized by the trades as masters of their line."

One young man completed his course this week and went into the Royal Canadian Engineers.

Boys in the machine shop make tools and instruments that are marvels of precision. In the automotive section they take automobiles apart and reassemble them in workmanlike fashion. The carpentry school pupils have made all their own work benches and other equipment and turn out beautiful pieces of cabinet work.

Instructors at the school are J. Munter, motor mechanics; A. Smith, machine shop; Peter Rose, drafting; F. Shaner and T. Thompson, metal work; F. Francis and A. Hague, woodwork; F. J. Rosner, first aid and J. McKenzie, physical training.

Philip Singer Starts Action To Regain Farm

Claim for possession of a 160-acre farm in township 54, west of the 4th meridian, and that he is entitled to a valid and subsisting claim for $6,181.99 against the property has been entered in supreme court on behalf of Philip Singer.

The property was sold by Kustaidan Butner to Andrew Makowsky of Mundare on Nov. 1, 1929, for a sum of $2,000. A first payment of $2,000 was made and the balance was to be discharged with interest accruing on $2,000 at 8 per cent. and $2,500 at 6 per cent. On August 15, 1930, Kustaidan transferred his rights under the agreement to the plaintiff, Philip Singer.

SOCIAL CREDIT PLATFORM IS NOW RELEASED

Alberta League Manifesto For Provincial Elections Released

Continuation of a "vigorous policy" of debt adjustment, financial and monetary reform, forms an outstanding plank in the Alberta social credit platform for the provincial general election of March 21. The platform was issued Friday by the Alberta Social Credit League.

Covering a wide range of provincial activities, the platform lays special stress on the debt adjustment situation and declares that "We shall continue our vigorous policy of providing an effective basis for settlement of long outstanding obligations, and until this has been accomplished, to protect the farms and homes of the people of Alberta."

GIVES RELIEF

It was stated that the Alberta debt adjustment program to date has given greater relief to the oppressed tax-payers and homeowners than that of any other province.

On the subject of finance and monetary reform the platform declares that "We are determined that the debt of the province must not increase as it did under the previous administration, and that the present debt shal be refunded at a rate of interest within the ability of our people to pay.

"We shal continue our fight to secure for every bona fide citizen increased purchasing power by means of basic dividends sufficient to provide the necessities of life.

"We propose to continue with vigor to prepare for the post-war period through:

1—Extension of the treasury branches into a credit system that will facilitate the increase of purchasing power, and the exchange of goods and services, through a scientific expansion of internal credit.

2—The organization of basic producers of the province under the Marketing Act, and the use of treasury branch reserves scientifically to adjust prices of basic products."

HOME BUILDING

The platform also declared pledge of Social Credit "to assist our citizens in every way possible in home building and home-establishment endeavors."

In regard to war policy and Canadian unity, the platform says:

"We stand pledged in support of Canadian unity in all matters of national interest and maintain that the strongest form of unity can only be secured in the British way, i.e., by giving the provinces the greatest possible amount of self-governing autonomy, consistent with the rights of the other provinces, and with the external affairs of the Dominion.

"We favor the whole-hearted and most effective co-operation with the other provinces to make Canada a vital force in support of Great Britain and her allies to complete successfully the present war designed to overthrow our great British principles and we urge the greatest equalization of sacrifice in so doing."

HIGH STANDARD

In the matter of true democracy the platform states that Social Credit believes that Alberta people desire the highest standard of living, consistent with the great productive power that natural wealth warrants; freedom from the bondage of economic restriction and the fear of unemployment, through issuance of greater purchasing power; security which will provide for old age and prevent unnecessary poverty; deliverance as far as possible from crushing taxation and overburdening interest charges; just prices and fair wages.

Construction of a sanitarium in the northern part of the province, greater facilities in health services, a highway to Alaska through Alberta, and the North West Territories and many other features are included in the program.

Succeeds

brilliant and popular young Edmonton soprano, who has been accepted as a member of the Chicago Civic Opera Association, according to telegraphic information received by Mrs. J. B. Carmichael, her former teacher. Miss Bristow went to Chicago last summer to study under Anna Fitzu, grand opera star. It has been known for some time Miss Bristow has had a good chance of winning a place in this company, but only on Friday did Mrs. Carmichael receive word of the successful test. Miss Bristow was a member of the Edmonton Civic Opera Society and under Mrs. Carmichael's baton sang the leading roles in that organization's productions of Faust and The Desert Song. Since going to Chicago her progress has been rapid and encouraging reports have been coming back steadily. Best wishes of a host of friends go to her on the achievement of becoming a member of the Chicago Civic Opera—an honor unique among this city's vocalists.

Military Orders

98TH FIELD BATTERY, R.C.A.

Battery orders by Major T. L. Soanes, officer commanding 98th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery (N.P.), Edmonton:

Parade: The battery will parade at the Prince of Wales armory on Tuesday, March 5th, 1940, at 2200 hours.

Training: Individual training will be proceeded with.

Regimental School: All candidates are reminded that as the "Special to Army" portion is now drawing to a close, it is requested that candidates attend all of the remaining class.—W. R. Gilchrist, Capt., 98th Field Battery, R.C.A.

SHORT COURSE WEED CONTROL OFFERED HERE

Aiming to bring about a greater measure of weed control, a short course in instruction along this line will be held at the I.O.O.F. hall, 103 street, on Monday and Tuesday of next week, it was announced Saturday by agriculture department officials.

This course is one of a series being held in various parts of the province. A two-day course at Vermilion concludes Saturday.

Special speakers will be on hand to outline various forms of controlling this menace.

Agricultural meetings which have been in progress in vario- sections of the province for the last two weeks will be continued and these gatherings have been arranged for Nanton, High River and Claresholm on March 12, 13 and 14 respectively. Special attention will be given at these meetings to livestock problems, including swine production and beef cattle. Speakers will be provided by the agriculture department and the University of Alberta.

Through The Mill

With heads bowed in their hands, and ashes in their mouths, two men walked slowly into the prisoner's dock Saturday. When they turned and looked upon the court the clerk arose and, in a voice like thunder charged that they had looked too long upon the wine when it was red. And with words that crept quietly through their repentant lips, they admitted their fault.

* * * *

Whereupon the cadi lifted upon them eyes of scorn and ordered them each to pay into the public treasury the price of 20 bottles of wine or spend the next moon working in the King's fields out Fort Saskatchewan way.

* * * *

Next there was led before the cadi a ruddy youth whose cheeks were still scarcely furred with fuzz or scarred by the razor. And the clerk charged that he had broken the King's peace by swearing and shouting and hollering in a most unseemly and disturbing manner, which the youth admitted. Whereupon the prosecutor reminded the cadi that the youth, despite his tender years had been found guilty of similar offenses in the past, and asked that the punishment be such that the youth might have cause to remember. Whereupon the cadi turned to the youth and ordered that he, too, should go down to the King's fields at Fort Saskatchewan and stay there until 14 suns had passed across the heavens. So be it.

Presides

recently elected as president of the Edmonton branch, Canadian Corps Association, which will preside at the association's next regular meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Masonic Temple, when pictures of the sinking of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee will be shown. The meeting will be attended by Brig. C. E. Connolly, D.S.O., officer commanding Military District No. 13, who will give a brief address. He is a former officeer commanding the Lord Strathcona's Horse.

Call For Pastor Is Approved By City Presbytery

Recent call of Rev. J. W. Smith to the pastorate of Collingwood church, Vancouver, was approved at a meeting this week of the executive of the Edmonton Presbytery (United) in McDougall church. Mr. Smith will close his ministry at Highlands United church in June.

Rev. E. T. Scragg was appointed interim moderator of the Highlands congregation and will meet with its official board Sunday to consider action toward filling the coming vacancy.

ESTATE ISSUE IS POINT IN LEGAL TANGLE

The question of who is entitled to receive the $80,000 estate of the late Oleska Ogal of Bruderheim, who was slain in a family quarrel on June 23, 1938, is to come up for decision before Mr. Justice Ford in Supreme court Monday.

Ogal had ten children in this country but, according to an affidavit filed in the proceedings, he was not married to the mother of his children, and owing to war conditions in Europe it has not been possible to find how many lawful heirs in Poland there may be.

Under an amendment to the Intestate Succession Act passed at the recent sitting of the legislature, an estate may pass to children born out of wedlock where there are no lawful heirs. Upon this amendment the question may turn.

Counsel for some of the heirs in Poland will appear, as well as counsel for the estate and the children of Ogal living in Alberta.

JOHN SKINNER TO CELEBRATE 91ST BIRTHDAY

Resident of Edmonton for 33 years, John C. Skinner, 10341 93 street, will celebrate his 91st birthday Sunday.

Born in Scotland, he came to Canada about 70 years ago, living in Ottawa, then Manitoba and coming to Edmonton in 1895 to engage in the building trade for a time. He retired from active business in the early '20's. Two sons, Gordon and John, Jr., and one daughter, Mrs. G. W. Strange, are living in Edmonton. There are also two sons in Vancouver, one in Seattle, one in San Francisco and one in Los Angeles, and one daughter in Ontario. 32 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

James Doyle, 64, of Lac Ste Anne, resident of the district for the past 30 years, died in Edmonton Thursday. Funeral service was held in Lac Ste. Anne Saturday morning at the Roman Catholic church, Rev. P. Lebre, O.M.I., officiating.

J. N. Caron, accountant of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, left Friday for Montreal, en route to Northern Quebec, where he will be branch manager.

BAKER DENIES WRONG REPORT IN PAMPHLET

Emphatic denial that the provincial government had withdrawn copies of the pamphlet, "The Records Tell the Story", from circulation because its contents had been exposed as allegedly incorrect, was made Saturday by Floyd M. Baker, chairman of the Social Credit Board, and in charge of distribution of the pamphlets.

"There is no truth in that charge. No books have been called in nor have any been destroyed. Demand for the pamphlets was so great that the original issue was quickly exhausted. When we issued the second batch these were revised and brought up to date. This revision was made to give a clear and complete picture of the situation and not, as had been charged by our political opponents, because of any statements or allegations made by them," declared Mr. Baker.

Elmer Roper, C.C.F. candidate for an Edmonton seat in the provincial election, charged "there was a rumor that the pamphlet was revised because of our exposure of the falsehoods it contained."

Demand for the first edition of the booklet The Records Tell the Story was so great as soon as the available supply was exhausted a new edition, brought up to date, was issued, Mr. Baker said. "There were such heavy demands for the booklet that the supply was exhausted early and when a second issue was decided on to meet the demand, it was decided to bring it up to date. We have on file today 127 letters asking for copies of the book."

Balmy Weekend Is Promise For City: North Is Warmer

A week-end of balmy spring breezes and a warm shining sun was promised Edmonton citizens Saturday as the weatherman forecast fair and mild weather for Saturday and Sunday. The temperature continued its gradual upward swing Friday, hitting a maximum mark of 29 above and dropping to 1 above at the stroke of midnight. Average temperature for the day was 12 above and at 8.30 a.m. Saturday the mercury was standing at 19 above.

Temperatures in the near north swung sharply upward Saturday morning under the impetus of a bright, warm sun.

Russia Finally Cracks The Mannerheim Line

Out Our Way —By Williams

ON NOVEMBER 30 Russia invaded Finland, and on December 3 she helped establish the "People's Government of Finland," just across the border, at Terijoki. But the Finns failed to rally to the puppet government's support—apparently much to Russia's surprise. So the Red army kept on going, though not very fast.

For the first two months, most of the news told how the Russians were advancing on the far north and cross-Finland's waistline—and how they were being thrown back, sometimes with heavy losses.

But the severest danger to Finland lay on the lake-studded Karelian Isthmus—the area shown here. To protect her big cities, she had to keep the invader from crossing this narrow bridge between Russia and the main part of Finland.

So the Finns had built the Mannerheim line. Like the Maginot and Siegfried lines on the western front, it isn't a line at all, but a series of fortified positions with light key points. Its location and composition as given here are based on the best estimates available. The same is true of the number of men engaged in the wars.

The Russians were an amazingly long time reaching that line—considering that they could fling in division after division against a foe numerically weak. But reach it they did, and crack it, too, in mid-February.

They claimed their greatest successes at the western end of the line (see arrows). Their big objective was Viipuri. With a population of 74,000, it was one of Finland's second largest city, but the last few women and children were evacuated from it this week before the Reds put it under systematic shell-fire.

As the invaders boasted of driving up the railroads toward Viipuri, the Finns disputed some of the claims, and announced they had driven the Russians back at Taipale, on the far eastern end of the Mannerheim line, and cut a Russian division to pieces north of Lake Ladoga.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, March 2.—Toronto stock market concluded the week with a firm to strong tone.

Madsen Red Lake gold was the only feature. It traded in heavy volume on a rise of 6 to 50.

Canada Wire and Cable "B" advanced a point to a new high for the year at 21. Canadian Locomotive firmed ¾ and Pressed Metals had a minor gain. Imperial Oil gained slightly and the market was lower for International Petroleum.

Nickel, Falconbridge, Noranda and Hudson Bay were all minor gainers. Smelters and Aldermac were weaker.

Lamaque gold was off 30, Hallnor 35, and losses of about 5 were netted by Wright-Hargreaves, Teck Hughes, O'Brien and Perron.

Action was dull in western oils. Okalta firmed a cent to 1.13 and Home added a cent, closing at 2.58. Anglo-Canadian weakened 2 to 85.

Broomhall

Forced liquidation at Chicago yesterday was attributed to early reports from the southwest that the condition of the crop was now probably better than the 55 per cent. estimated last December. The forecast for rains and realization that the expected 300,000,000 bushels carryover will account for much of the expected abandonment especially while neighboring Canada has such large unsold quantities on hand, the market closed at the bottom. The Argentine shipped 1,500,000 bushels of wheat and flour to Europe an 1,100,000 to non-Europe also 2,400,000 corn to Europe. Stocks of wheat at the ports increased 1,100,000.

Street Railway Conductor Shot By Hold-Up Man

WINNIPEG, March 2 — George Cruickshank, Winnipeg street railway conductor, was shot in the groin early today by one of two hold-up men who boarded the street car, empty of passengers, at McPhillips street and Selkirk avenue.

One bandit boarded the car and stood behind the conductor as if waiting for his companion to pay the fare. The other man stopped on the step of the car and pointed a gun at the conductor, stating "this is a stick-up."

Cruickshank turned to face the man and was shot. The bandits fled without attempting to obtain Cruickshank's money. Taken to hospital, the conductor's condition was reported as fair.

Several German Patrols Dispersed By French Guns

PARIS, March 2.—French artillery dispersed several German patrols operating in the muddy fields west of the lower Vosges and in the Lauter section, military sources reported today.

Bad weather grounded air forces on the western front.

The French also announced that Allied patrol boats had attacked several German submarines, but that results had not been determined.

This morning's communique on western front activities said only: "A quiet night on the whole."

Pattullo Foresees Big Oil Field In Peace River Bloc

VANCOUVER, March 2.—Here on a two-day visit, Premier T. D. Pattullo discussed the B.C. government's oil operations in the Peace River bloc.

"You will find that the field there will be several times larger than the Turner Valley," he forecast. "Personally I believe we shall strike oil, but even if we don't we shall learn a lot about geological structure."

U.S. Ambassador Tries To Mediate Russian-Finn War

HELSINKI, March 2.—The United States ambassador to Russia, Laurence Steinhardt, was reported yesterday by the Finnish newspaper Uusi Suomi to have attempted mediation of the Finnish-Soviet war during the 3½-hour luncheon tendered him late Wednesday in Moscow by the Soviet Premier Vyacheslaf Molotoff.

Long Out Of Luck

BATON ROUGE, La., March 2.—Governor Earl K. Long's second effort to convene a special session of his hitherto obedient legislature failed today when the legislators, in open revolt against the repudiated state machine, failed to report a quorum in the senate.

Roosevelt Ends Cruise On Friday

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 2.—President Roosevelt completed a 4,000-mile cruise Friday when he disembarked from the destroyer Lang at the naval air station here.

WHEAT PRICES GAIN GROUND

WINNIPEG, March 2.—[illegible] trend on Winnipeg [illegible] exchange advanced [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] short session [illegible] wheat [illegible] a week [illegible] higher. May [illegible] at 89, July at 89⅞ and October 91⅛.

Contending Parties In Federal Election Still Far From Peak

OTTAWA, March 2.—While the general election campaign is more than half-way advanced as time goes the activities of the contending political parties are still far from the peak.

This is as party strategists wish it, however, for their efforts are directed towards working the enthusiasm of their supporters and the interest of the voters generally up to the highest possible point on election day itself.

It was on Jan. 25 that Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced his surprise dissolution of parliament and two days later he fixed the date of the election as March 26.

Although the first month of the campaign has produced hundreds of speeches the various parties have been more concerned with getting their campaign machinery in operation and getting candidates selected than in putting messages across to the public.

MOMENTUM INCREASES

For the rest of the campaign an increasing barrage of oratory will be directed at radio listeners, and those who come out to political meetings, while billboards and newspaper advertising will carry messages for the voters generally.

The campaign is unusual in that it is being held in winter.

Wartime censorship affects the campaign in that the broadcasting of platform speeches is prohibited. All speeches on the radio are made for radio only and radio station officials are responsible primarily for seeing that nothing contrary to regulations goes over the air.

For the first time in a Canadian election the publicly-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is making free time on its nation-wide chain of stations available to the leading parties. This was done by agreement between the parties themselves, a total of 12 hours and 45 minutes being divided up among the Liberal, Conservative, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and Social Credit parties.

KING LIMITS TRAVELLING

Hon. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, whose proposal to form a national government if returned to power introduced a new issue into the campaign, has been the most active of the party leaders.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King from the first declined to limit his travelling route to the pressure of work in the office of the premier.

J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, has been active in Manitoba and M. J. Coldwell, chairman of the party's national council, is doing the lion's share of the cross-country campaigning. This week Mr. Coldwell addressed two meetings a day in Alberta.

During the week-end no will start an eastward tour speaking at points in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Social Credit leaders so far have confined their activities largely to Alberta, where they were elected to power in 1935, and Quebec, where the federal candidates are running as a group.

MINISTERS ACTIVE

Cabinet ministers are the only cabinet members for the present taking active part in the campaign. Besides the Prime Minister and Opposition Leader, six cabinet members are supporting candidates in various parts of the Dominion.

The cabinet ministers are: Hon. T. A. Crerar, Agriculture; Minister of Trade and Commerce and Minister of Mines and Resources; Hon. C. G. Power, Minister of Pensions and National Health, who was also addressing meetings in Ontario. Mr. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, is expected to make a number of speeches in Quebec.

TIMES TERMS REICH CLAIMS AS NONSENSE

No Discrimination Shown By Great Britain In World Trade

NEW YORK, March 2.—The New York Times today termed "nonsense" the contention of Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, that Great Britain has a "strangle-hold" on world economy.

Von Ribbentrop was reported to have told Sumner Welles, President Roosevelt's fact-finding envoy, in Berlin yesterday that the breaking of the "strangleheld" is Germany's war aim. The Times said editorially Von Ribbentrop "is talking nonsense," adding:

"For the plain fact is that in times of peace Britain's reserves of all these things—British oil and British rubber, British sugar and British copper—are available to the merchants of every nation at precisely the same price that is paid by Englishmen themselves.

"Moreover, British capital with which to develop the resources of other countries can likewise be purchased at prices which make no distinction between nations as such. For example: In the post-war years a great many millions of pounds sterling of British capital went into Germany to help rebuild that country. And there much of it was trapped."

LIGHT BLUES WIN ANNUAL BOAT CLASSIC

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, March 2—Cambridge, 3-to 1 favorites, defeated Oxford in the "unofficial" rowing today of the intervarsity classic.

Cox Henry Hicks of Bridgetown, N.S., could not get the Oxford oarsmen-strangers to match Cambridge who surged into the lead soon after the start and increased it steadily to win by five lengths.

The Canucks beat up a stroke averaging 32 to the minute most of the way and covered the Henley course of 1½ miles in nine minutes, 28 seconds.

The Light Blues rowed strongly from start to finish and the Oxford pullers appeared distressed and one oarsman fagged.

The victory expected due to Cambridge's more experienced oarsmen increased the club's log of victories in the 85 years of competition over the Thames to eight, with seven contests in 1920. One race was a dead heat. In the latest race Cambridge won by three lengths in the time of 8 min. and inside of the last mile.

TWO SISTERS ARE VICTIMS QUEBEC FIRE

QUEBEC, March 2.—A 20-year-old girl who was to have been married this morning and her 22-year-old sister were identified tentatively today as victims of a three-hour fire which left three other persons in hospital after racing through three lower town buildings.

Dr. Paul V. Marceau, district coroner, said it was believed the two charred corpses taken to the morgue early today were those of Bertha Pinote, the bride-to-be, and her sister Delvina, of either St. Malachie or St. Edouard de Brampton, Que.

The younger girl was to have married Private Jean Marin of the Chaudiere regiment, in St. Jean Baptiste church. Miss Marin was injured in making his escape from one of the flaming structures.

51 CANDIDATES NOMINATED IN RIDINGS OF B. C.

VANCOUVER, March 2 — Fifty-one candidates have been nominated in British Columbia's 16 seats in parliament preparatory for the general elections March 26 compared with 47 candidates in the general election of 1935.

In addition, two candidates have been nominated in the Yukon—the same as in 1935.

Official nominations will be received next Wednesday, officers March 19 and interest little likelihood of any change in the lists as they stand at present.

Cooperative Commonwealth Federation candidates have been named in all constituencies except Comox-Alberni.

Japan Is Unable To Wage Another War Says Admiral

WASHINGTON, March 2—Rear-Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, retired former commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, expressed the opinion yesterday that an embargo by exports on Japan would result in such hostilities against the United States.

It would be suicidal for Japan to engage in another major war with a powerful enemy, Yarnell wrote Senator Schewellenbach, Washington Democrat.

The biggest bomb now built for the U.S. army weighs about 2,000 pounds.

EXPERIENCE OF LIBERAL PARTY NEEDED IN WAR

Administration Of Premier Mackenzie King Will Aid War Effort

KELLIHER, Sask., March 2.—Stressing the point the big task before Canada today was to win the war, Hon. James G. Gardiner, dominion minister of agriculture, told voters of Yorkton federal constituency here Friday evening that the Liberal administration of Premier Mackenzie King was the logical choice to push the conflict to victory in view of its wide experience.

Mr. Gardiner was speaking before a meeting of about 500 in the interests of Allan McLean, Liberal candidate for Yorkton. During the afternoon he addressed a meeting at Goodeve.

Mr. Gardiner emphasized the point that it was the experience behind the King administration which would tell in pushing the war with Germany to a successful conclusion.

Mr. King had warned the country in 1930 Mr Gardiner said, that it should prepare to face a war.

When the Liberals had attempted to get defence estimates through the House of Commons they had been opposed by both Conservatives and Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

Touching on the government's agricultural policy, the minister declared Britain was paying Canada 20 cents a bushel for its wheat than the mother country could get it for elsewhere.

He said the C.C.F. was only quoting part of his statement when it charged he had told eastern Canadian audiences that wheat could be grown in western Canada for 30 to 40 cents a bushel.

On the wheat bonus, Mr. Gardiner said the insurance charge of one cent against each bushel of wheat only covered part of the cost of the bonus and the federal government footed the rest of the bill.

BENES STATES ALLIES MUST SMASH NAZIS

LONDON, March 2 — Eduard Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, said last night that the Allies must not fail in their duty "mercilessly to do away with the Nazi regime," for which the Germans "as a nation" must accept responsibility.

"There are millions of Germans who do not agree with Nazism but history teaches us that every state and nation is responsible for its government," the exiled statesman said.

The former Czech president declared peace could be ensured only "if it is understood that freedom is indivisible." He called for a new system of European solidarity, including guaranteed freedom of the smaller Central European states, federal unity in the different parts of Europe, a recreated League of Nations and a fresh system of economic collaboration.

DREW DOING GREAT HARM TO DOMINION

REGINA, March 2.—A heated attack on Col. George Drew, leader of the Conservative opposition in the Ontario legislature, featured the address of Premier Gardiner, K.C., minister of highways and transportation, delivered during the budget debate in the Saskatchewan legislature yesterday.

Referring to him first as "a scandal-mongering friend" of Herman Warren Ulrity, Bengough, Mr. Procter later retracted the remark, but charged that "plastering the papers and periodicals of Canada with statements and misinformation that will do more harm to Canada's war effort than he (Col. Drew) can do good if he lives to be a hundred."

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

Klondike, often miscalled Canfield, is played with one pack of 52 cards. After shuffling deal out seven piles of cards, with one card in the first pile, two in the second and so on—a total of 28 cards. The top card of each pile is face up, the rest are face down. The usual method of dealing is crosswise—one card face up and six face down, then a card face up on the second pile and five face down on the piles to the right; and so following. This row of seven piles is the tableau. The foundations are to be the four aces. When an ace turns up and is available, place it in the foundations above the tableau. Building on the foundations is by suit and ascending sequence up to the king. The game is won if you get all 52 cards built up by suits on the aces.

On the face-up cards of the tableau, build in descending sequence and alternating color. Thus, a red jack may be placed on either black queen. Two or more cards face-up on a tableau pile are moved as a unit. Thus, a stack such as 9♥-8♣-7♥ may be transferred bodily onto a red tenspot.

Whenever all face-up cards are so removed from a tableau pile turn up the topmost face-down card. A prime object is of course to get all buried face-down cards into play. A space in the tableau created by the entire removal of a pile may be filled only by a king. No other card may be placed in a space at any time.

After ingredients on the original layout have come to a standstill turn cards up from the top of the pack one by one, placing them in a single talon for wastepile. The top card of the talon is always available for play onto foundations or tableau. The pack may be run through as often as desired.
